DEMANDS RIGID SENATE INQUIRY OF RADIO BOARD

Dickinson Points to Published Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—An immediate investigation of members of the federal radio commission with particular reference to their fitness "in view of their past records" was demanded by Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] in a ringing speech on the floor of the senate this afternoon.

SENATOR DICKINSON.

Introducing into the record a series of articles written by Arthur Sears Henning in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE beginning May 6. Senator Dickinson remarked:

"If one-half of what Mr. Henning says is true, impeachment would be a mild reward for the conduct of some of them. We have impeached judges for far less. What our friends on the other side of the aile are pleased to call the 'air mail scandals' pale into virtuous dealing beside these charges. We cannot abide that such men should be intrusted with the regulation of the transmission of all intelligence in this country, including broadcasting and the communication of news by telegraph and cable.

Should Act on Charges.

"We are certainly put on notice with such charges appearing in the public press. Consequently, I hope for early and favorable action on my resolution."

Senator Dickinson said that most senators, including himself, had only a vague idea concerning the recently passed electrical communications bill, which created a new commission on communications to exercise the powers heretofore wielded by the federal radio commission over radio stations and by the interstate commerce commission over telephone, telegraph, cable, and radio. The bill had already passed the house.

"We are all concerned with the personnel of this new commission," he continued. "The rumor is current that the White House has already prepared its slate of appointments, at least in part, and that conferences on this question have taken place between the President, certain senate Democratic leaders, and, last but not least, Postmaster General Farley.

Charges Patronage Deal.

"The same rumor has it that the present chairman of the federal radio commission is certain of reappointment. I have even been told that, to get this reappointment, he has had to agree to provide more and better jobs to help assuage the appetite of the Democratic patronage machine and that this involves the sacrifice of several important and competent members of the radio commission staf, including Dr. Jolliffe, the chief engineer, who are so unfortunate as to be suspected of Republican tendencies.

"It is also said that among those slated to be ousted is Commissioner H. A. Lafount who the broadcasters tell me is head and shoulders above the rest of the commissioners in ability and all other qualifications. He has been the least subject to political pressure; but I regret to say he is a Republican, one of the two on the present commission.

Says He "Voted Wrong."

"What is even more unfortunate, I am told, he failed to vote according to instructions from the White House in a case before it, the so-called Shreveport-New Orleans case in which one or more of the other commissioners shifted their votes back and forth at least three times in an endeavor to accommodate the conflicting desires of Postmaster General Farley and the White House.

"I should like to inquire of the administration spokesmen if there is any basis for these rumors. I, for one, voted for the commission with the hope that it would be, as the statute purports to make it, a nonpolitical regulatory body. I suppose such a hope is rather a forlorn one in view of the performances of the federal radio commission during the last year under its present chairman.

"The point I want to emphasize is this: Will the senate have an opportunity to pass intelligent judgment on the fitness of the new appointees? Or will the appointments be thrust at us in the last moment with no opportunity to study their merits?"

Judges of Important Issues.

The members of the commission, Senator Dickinson pointed out, will be judges who "will sit to determine im-

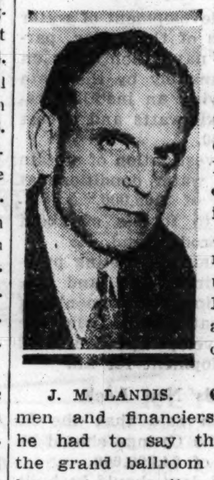
LANDIS LAUDS STOCK BILL AS HAVEN OF HOPE

Trade Leaders Jam Economic Meeting.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Prof. James M. Landis, who is slated to become head of the new federal securities regulatory commission, flew in from Washington last night just in time to deliver his scheduled address before the Economic club, explaining what is in store for American business and finance under the New Deal securities and stock exchange laws.



J. M. LANDIS.

So eager were Chicago business men and financiers to hear what he had to say that they packed the grand ballroom of the Palmer house to capacity and scores were forced to occupy overflow tables in the balcony. Approximately 1,200 were present, the biggest attendance ever recorded at a meeting of the Economic club.

"I bring you a picture of hope and not of fear—hope in our securities markets," Prof. Landis told his audience.

Hope Theme of Address.

That was the theme of his address. The New Deal and securities legislation—the securities act of 1933 and the national stock exchange bill now awaiting President Roosevelt's signature—would not injure either legitimate business or legitimate securities transactions, he said.

Business and financial leaders all over the country had been anxiously awaiting Dr. Landis' address, because of the growing conviction that in the government's administration of the new legislation much will depend upon the philosophy of the enforcing body which Landis is expected to head.

Landis, who is 34 years old, appeared to be one of the youngest men in the entire gathering. Yet, men of high position, most of them old enough to be his father, leaned forward anxiously and attentively to listen to what this young ex-professor had in store for them.

Cummings, Sargent Flank Speaker.

On one side of him sat Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National bank and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, and on the other sat Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway and of the Economic club.

"All in all," said Dr. Landis, "it seems to me the prospect of selling securities under appropriate regulation with the least possible interference to honest business is a bright one."

He flatly denied there was any intention behind the securities legislation either to regiment or socialize industry.

"The investment banking profession," he continued, "so terribly riddled by the attacks made upon it in recent years, has genuinely set about the process of making its ethics conform to the earlier traditions which made it an honorable profession.

Terms Bill Conservative.

"It is with the same hopeful mien that I look forward to the probable effects of the stock exchange bill. Its effect upon our security market in the judgment of competent observers is in no sense deflationary nor of a character to discourage listing and encourage delisting by corporations. The prescribed margin requirements are conservative and only slightly in excess of those now demanded under regulations of the New York Stock exchange itself.

"With some stability in our security markets, as a nation of investors we can begin again to think in terms of an investment policy that looks to returns derived from sustained earnings rather than to profits from quick market turnovers.

"Investment, we may hope, will supplant the type of speculation which is now the major outlet for savings. And securities may eventually merit their designation, instead of too often as over the last few years, being illustrative of the antonym—insecurity."

Warns Against Quick Results.

He warned his audience, however, not to expect results too soon.

"I should be false to you and to my conceptions," he said, "if I thought that such results were to follow only from the passage of legislation. The results to which my hopes turn will not be overnight products

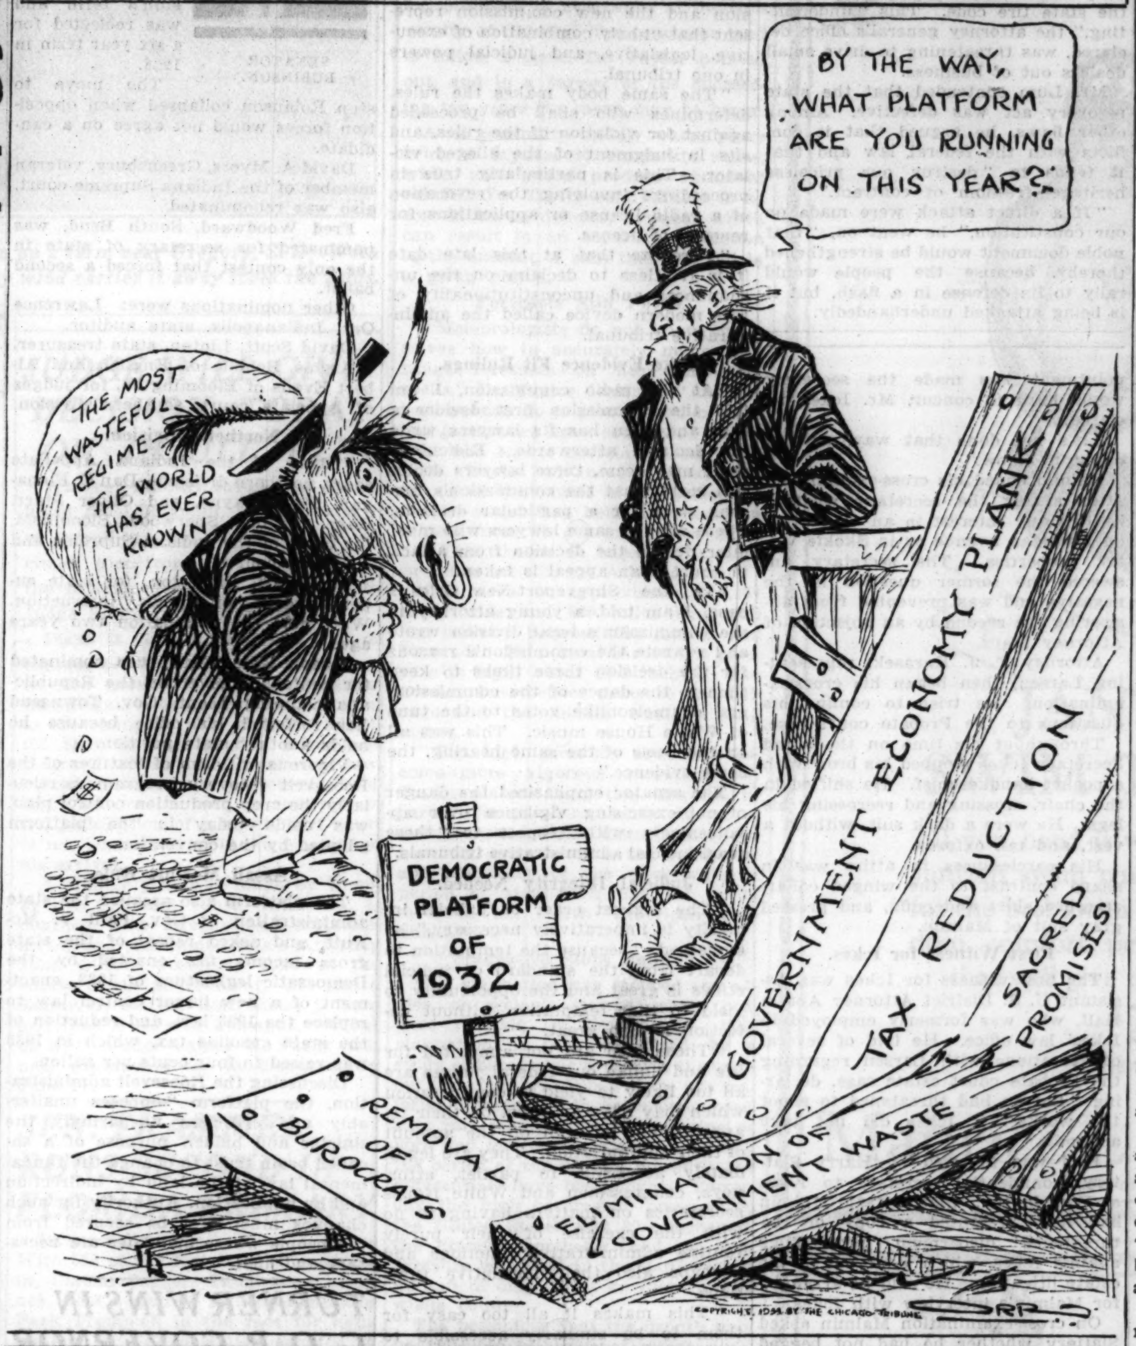
AN OUTSTANDING EXAMPLE OF POLITICAL DISHONESTY



Dog in Quarry 10 Days Faces Poison Death

Failing to devise a means of rescuing a mongrel dog trapped 200 feet below the surface on a ledge in an abandoned quarry at Nineteenth street and Damen avenue, workers from three humane societies last night feared they would have to poison the dog by lowering poisoned meat to him. He was first noticed in his precarious position about 10 days ago.

The workers from the Illinois Humane society, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Orphans of the Storm have reluctantly concluded that it is impossible to reach the animal.

Quarry Cuts Backward.

They have received hundreds of telephone calls from persons who have seen the trapped dog suggesting that some one be lowered to rescue the animal, but they have found this is impossible because the face of the quarry cuts backward at the point where the dog is held captive. Any one lowered by a rope would be suspended at least 20 feet away from the ledge.

Pieces of meat have been swung in to the animal, they said, but if a human were likewise swung toward the ledge, there would be no likelihood that he could catch the dog, as there is insufficient footing.

After a final survey of the situation last night, the workers had decided that poison was the best way to end possible suffering of the dog. They were about to lower the poisoned meat to him when Raymond Bumbaugh, a driver for Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin's dog refuge, Orphans of the Storm, arrived on the scene.

One More Attempt Today.

He told the other representatives that Mrs. McLaughlin, before she left for New York in the afternoon, had instructed him to see that everything was done to rescue the animal. He prevailed upon the others to hold back the meat until one last attempt could be made today.

Fred Cipriani, investigator for the Illinois Humane society, was skeptical that anything could be done for the dog.

"We think it would be risking a human life to lower anybody down there," he said, "and it would be next to impossible to catch the dog anyway."

"We have been feeding him for a week, almost since he was discovered by some boys, but it is cruel to keep him penned up there. We thought it might be possible to shoot him, but the range is too great and there is a chance a marksman might only wound him.

Plan Painless Death.

"The only other possibility is to feed him poisoned meat, which will act almost instantly and painlessly. In any event he would only be killed by one of the societies if he were saved."

Mr. Cipriani revealed that in the last two years two other dogs have in some way got down on similar ledges. One theory is that they have been thrown over by residents in the neighborhood, but apparently the present dog is uninjured. He has been seen moving along the ledge. Another theory is that there is a passage down through the quarry, so steep that it is possible to go down but not up.

FIREMAN TURNS IN ALARMS SO HE CAN LEAVE WIFE FOR GIRL

Perth Amboy, N. J., June 5.—(AP)—When the fire whistle blew Edward Kjersgaard jumped up from the dinner table to answer it as firemen do. Kjersgaard would don his uniform and helmet with a parting "I'm wanted at headquarters" to Mrs. Kjersgaard.

Often during the last three months, police said, the firemen found no fire. But on several occasions Kjersgaard found Miss Marie Binyak, who is 19 and pretty, waiting near the firebox.

Fireman Kjersgaard and Miss Binyak were arraigned today. Both pleaded guilty to turning in false alarms and were held in $500 bail.

On two occasions, police said, Kjersgaard himself turned in the alarms when he was free to meet Miss Binyak.

CRIPPLED YOUTH TO BE HONORED AT ST. JOHN'S TODAY

Annapolis, Md., June 5.—(AP)—A 21 year old youth who has had no control over his arms or legs since infancy—who has been picked up and carried from class to class during his four year stay here—will be honored when he graduates from St. John's college tomorrow.

The faculty has had designed for him a new medal. On one side is the college shield. On the other his name and the single word "courage."

The young man, William Thetford Leviness of Salisbury, Md., will be carried to the platform to receive his degree and medal by the same Negro servant who has attended him at St. John's as valet, carrier, chauffeur and operator of his specially built platform on wheels.

Steamer Goes Aground on Island in Lake Superior

The United States coast guard radio station in Chicago early today received a report that the steamer Mariposa had gone aground on Lamb island, 30 miles northeast of Isle Royale, in Lake Superior. A message stated that the bow of the vessel was out of the water, that its tanks had been damaged, and that while there was no immediate danger the vessel would be in difficulty if the wind changed. Capt. H. R. Searles, in command of the Chicago division of the coast guard, ordered cutters from Marquette, Two Harbors, and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to the scene. The Mariposa is a freighter with a crew of 15 to 18.

'Naked Hermit of Thornton' Is Shot to Death

Abe Hinkley, 61 years old, known as "the nude hermit of Thornton," was shot and killed last night as he was prowling about the farm of Herman Gonlag, 44 years old, a mile and a half west of Western avenue and near the village of Hazelcrest. Gonlag fired on the hermit after his daughter had become alarmed when she heard the prowler.

On Monday the hermit, who for the last twelve years had lived in a chicken coop on the farm of Frank Flanigan, former mayor of Thornton, donned a pair of trousers and fled. He had learned that the county highway police were seeking him with the intention of sending him to the psychopathic hospital.

Takes His Cat Along.

With him he took a suitcase and tied to it by a shoestring one of the two gaunt black cats with which his strange personality had been associated through the years by Thornton residents. The suitcase, containing a Bible, a few tin cans, and a razor strap and with the cat still tied to it, was found near the Gonlag house after the old man had been slain.

It was the belief of the county highway police, who were summoned by Gonlag, that Hinkley had been lurking in the fields, preferring hunger and hardship in a state of nature to the possibility of being sent to the hospital and separated from the cats.

His Neighbors Complain.

The hermit became the subject of an investigation on Thursday when Thornton residents complained that he was appearing outside his chicken coop naked. When the police arrived at the place Hinkley fled inside and announced they had no right to take him away. Flanigan supported him in his stand, asserting that the man lived the way he liked best. The ex-mayor had given him his food for years.

His diet through the twelve years had been almost exclusively milk, and Flanigan declared that he had never worn clothing in that period.

Strange tales were told of Hinkley. Formerly he had a small income from a trust estate, but this was exhausted. About ten years ago the hermit, while still in funds, took the body of a cat to the Ozark mountains for burial. It was recalled also that he had once spent $2.50 to give one of his cats a restaurant meal.

Episcopal Pension Fund Reaches 29½ Millions

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Despite the depression, assets of the pension fund of the Protestant Episcopal church now amount to $29,447,611, the highest point in its history, William Fellowes Morgan, president, reported today.

Ickes, on Stand, Calls Malmin a Blackmailer

In a calm, firm voice Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes yesterday flung a flat charge of blackmail at two Chicago attorneys as he sat in the witness box to testify against them in the disbarment proceedings brought by him.

The secretary charged that Lucius J. M. Malmin, who was a federal judge of the Virgin Islands more than a decade ago, and C. W. Larsen, former assistant corporation counsel, had entered into a conspiracy to blackmail him and defame his character in an effort to obtain high federal posts.

The accusation was made before seven prominent attorneys, members of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, sitting as commissioners of the Illinois Supreme court in the oak paneled courtroom of the Appellate court at 30 North Michigan avenue. The proceeding is the first public disbarment hearing of its kind to be held in the state.

Questioned By Malmin.

After his testimony Secretary Ickes was cross-examined for two hours by Attorney Malmin. From time to time he protested that Malmin was attacking his character by innuendo. Each time he was sustained by the commissioners.

As succeeding questions came on his activities in vote contests, his Washington sobriquet of "Honest Ickes," his alleged property holdings in the neighborhood of the federal Skokie valley improvement, Secretary Ickes tossed about in his chair in annoyance.

When Malmin followed these with a series of questions on his wife, the secretary drew up in his chair, leaned over toward the attorney and thrust out his chin. In heated tones he said: "In addition to proving you're a blackmailer, you're proving yourself a blackguard."

The commissioners ordered this remark and the series of questions stricken from the record. They also cautioned the principals to refrain from making bickering remarks.

Tells of Meeting Malmin.

When called to testify, the secretary took the stand in three bounds from the chair beside his counsel, Frederick Z. Marx. He said he had met Malmin three times and Larsen once. The first two meetings with Malmin he described as trivial, and launched into a recital of the third.

In June of 1933, the cabinet member said, he was persuaded by a secretary to see Malmin. The secretary had told Ickes that Malmin had been in his office discussing impending disbarment proceedings against Ickes, the witness testified. The impending proceedings hinged on a Probate court case which Ickes had handled before his appointment to the cabinet.

"Malmin told me," Ickes said, "that a leading Scandinavian lawyer of Chicago, Larsen, had consulted with him regarding the impending proceedings. Malmin said he had worked night and day in an attempt to dissuade him [Larsen] from carrying on the proceedings.

"I told him, as far as I was concerned, Larsen could go to hell. I told him I had never submitted to blackmail and did not propose to do so. He said the whole thing could be settled amicably if he were appointed governor of the Virgin Islands.

Seeks to See President.

"He then asked me to take him to President Roosevelt and introduce him as 'my good friend, Judge Malmin of Chicago.' When I refused he asked me to deliver a letter to the President, which I subsequently did."

Mr. Ickes said that he had a private

As members of the Republican national committee gathered last night for informal conferences in hotel rooms and about World's Fair café tables, a report became general that today they will choose Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania as their chairman to succeed Everett Sanders of Indiana.

Mr. Fletcher first served his country as a member of Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders and later had a distinguished career in the American foreign service. His last diplomatic post was as ambassador to Italy under Presidents Coolidge and Hoover.

Draft Platform for Fall.

Earlier in the day, formal sessions of the committee in the Palmer house saw two important accomplishments. These were:

1. Appointment of a committee to draft a statement of principles on which the party will wage its campaign next fall to win the country away from the "planned economy" of President Roosevelt and the Democratic national administration.

2. Liquidation of the $206,000 deficit remaining from the 1932 presidential campaign. In fifteen minutes George F. Getz of Chicago, national treasurer, announced enough pledges to wipe out the deficit and leave $25,000 for current operating expenses.

Hallanan Strong Contender.

While Mr. Fletcher appeared to be the favorite candidate for party chairman, his election was by no means assured. He has a strong rival in Walter S. Hallanan, national committeeman from West Virginia.

A considerable sentiment that the party leader should come from the agricultural west, which Ogden L. Mills on Monday termed the "center of political gravity" in the coming campaign, also made possible the selection of John D. M. Hamilton, the Kansas committeeman, as a compromise candidate.

As the Fletcher candidacy grew stronger, however, there were suggestions that Mr. Hamilton or some other westerner might be made chairman of the executive committee of the party organization, and placed in active charge of the western headquarters of the fall campaign.

Committee Seeks Harmony.

Aside from his personal record one of the greatest sources of Mr. Fletcher's strength lay in the fact that there seemed to be no serious antagonism to him among any of the loosely divided factions of the present party machinery.

Above all, the committee members are striving for harmony. Mr. Hallanan's candidacy is understood to face serious opposition from the so-called Hoover group in the party. Listed as in this camp are Mr. Mills, who was President Hoover's secretary of the treasury; Walter F. Brown of Ohio, the Hoover postmaster general, and Mark L. Requa, friend of the former President and committeeman from California.

Fletcher a Rough Rider.

Mr. Fletcher abandoned a budding law practice in Greencastle, Pa., to join the Rough Riders as a private in 1898. He transferred later to the infantry, received a lieutenant's commission, and served in the Philippine campaign.

Leaving the army, he embarked upon a diplomatic career. He was attached to the American legation at Peking at the time of the Boxer rebellion, and in 1909 became minister to Chile.

During the world war Mr. Fletcher was ambassador to Mexico. Then, after a year's service as undersecretary of state, he became ambassador to Belgium. From 1924 to 1929 he served as ambassador to Italy. In 1931 President Hoover appointed him chairman of the United States tarif commission.

Hallanan an Oil Man.

Mr. Hallanan entered newspaper work on leaving college and got into politics as secretary to Gov. Henry D. Hatfield of West Virginia. He later made a comfortable fortune as an oil man. Since 1928 he has been Republican national committeeman from his state.

Mr. Hamilton took his seat as committeeman from Kansas yesterday. He is a graduate of Northwestern university and practices law in Topeka, where he is interested in several insurance companies. He has been speaker of the Kansas house of representatives.

There are perhaps a dozen other possibilities for the chairmanship in the event a compromise seems advisable to the committee. Charles D. Hilles, New York committeeman, an acknowledged spokesman for the industrial east in the inner circles of the party, last night mentioned as possibilities the names of former Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey despite Mr. Edge's statement that he was not a candidate; Hanford MacNider of Iowa, Legionnaire and former minister to Canada, and former Senator James E. Watson of Indiana. Nebraska Republicans believe that Ballard Dunn, Omaha editor, would be an admirable leader in the campaign to win back the west.

Hilles Heads Platform Group.

Mr. Hilles was named chairman of the policy committee, which worked last night and to an early hour this morning drafting the statement of party principles. Chairman Sanders appointed as members of the committee Mr. Requa, Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado; Dr. E. B. Clements, Missouri; Mrs. Worthington Scranton, Pennsylvania; Miss Martha McClure, Iowa; John Richardson, Kansas; Ernest Bamberger, Utah, and Miss Dorothy Cunningham, Indiana.

Mr. Hilles also asked Mr. Mills, W. Kingsland Macy, chairman of the New York state Republican committee, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York, and Congressman Chester Bolton of Ohio, co-chairman of the Republican joint congressional campaign committee, to join in the conference.

While Mr. Hilles said that the policy committee would make no announcement on its work until the statement which it draws up is approved today by the national committee, political observers were in little doubt as to its probable contents.

They predicted that it would be a fighting document, ripping into the Roosevelt policies of regimented industry, collectivized agriculture, and unparalleled public spending, with some such battle cry as that previously sounded at the committee sessions: "The New Deal Has Failed—Back to the Square Deal."

103 Members Represented.

The first executive session of the committee yesterday afternoon saw 103 out of the 106 members present or represented by proxies. Some seventy-odd were there in person, the largest attendance at a committee meeting aside from national convention time in some years, it was said.

Committee members pointed to the attendance and the speed with which the party wiped out its deficit at a time when the Democrats are still about half a million dollars in debt as ample evidence that the recovery of the Republican party from its 1932 defeat is already well under way.

Ample indication that the committee meeting is not a boss ridden one, but is on the contrary anxious to give an audience to every wing of the Republican party, came during the afternoon session.

Demand for New Blood.

A delegation of the National Young Republican league was admitted to the executive session and one of its directors, former Congressman Melvin J. Maas of St. Paul, carried in with him a demand for new blood in the party leadership which trod pretty heavily on the toes of some of the elder statesmen of the party seated before him.

Mr. Maas, a world war aviator, won national notice in the opening days of the Roosevelt administration when he dashed from the floor of the house of representatives to the gallery and there disarmed a lunatic who was brandishing a revolver and threatening to open fire on the congressmen below. He was accompanied yesterday by George Olmsted of Des Moines, national president of the Young Republicans; Park Livingston of Oak Park, and several other leaders of the organization.

Statement from Maas.

"The future of the Republican party can be made or broken today," was the blunt beginning of the statement which Mr. Maas gave newspaper men before he went before the committee. "You are to select a new national chairman. This is a test as to whether the party leadership will continue to flounder and be lost in a bewildering confusion of hack politicians or whether in keeping with the spirit of a reborn Republican party you give us a real leader whom the rank and file can and will follow.

"The younger element in the party does not desire to dictate as to whom you select, but it does insist most emphatically that you give consideration to our standard of qualifications as to a new chairman. Any attempt merely to retain control of the party machinery by one political faction or to obtain control by an opposing faction will leave you without a party at all.

"The Republican party was born of the need for a party to fight for the rights of the man on the street and on the farm. It was a party of consistent progress, jealously guarding the traditional American ideals of individual rights, opportunities and protection to personal liberty.

Assails "False Prophets."

"But in recent years its leadership fell into the hands of false prophets, and those who had their own ends to serve, or who served Wall street and the international bankers. They neither knew nor apparently cared about the fundamental principles of the party.

"After more than half a century of fine, high idealed leadership, when the Republican party gave the United States its greatest period of genuine progress and brought about an unparalleled prosperity, the party leadership changed. Evil days befell us. Political racketeers serving sinister financial and industrial octopuses, whose love was not America and Americans but selfish greed, bought their way into control of the party machinery.

"The country needs us. We propose that the Republican party again assume its position as the defender of republican ideals, principles, and policies. We must rise again as a party of Americans for America.

"We demand a leadership of principles and policies, not campaign contributions and distribution of political jobs. We want a national chairman who will be free from factional strife, who'll return the party to its traditional leadership in progressive legislation."

Statement Creates Furore.

The members of the committee were reported to be rather regretful that they had given the floor to the Minnesota radical after they heard what he had to say. A number of them arose, it was learned, with angry retorts, among them Committeeman Phipps, who pronounced the speech "an unwarranted attack on the national committee."

Another of the young Republicans, Henry Cabot Lodge III, grandson of the late senator from Massachusetts, won a more favorable reception with his suggestion, however. This was for a party news bureau to combat the reams of New Deal propaganda being turned out by press agents on the playrolls of various federal departments.

ICKES, ON STAND, CALLS MALMIN A BLACKMAILER

investigator and a stenographer listening at the door when Malmin was interviewed. He said he took this precaution when his secretary informed him of Malmin's discussion of disbarment.

Secretary Ickes also told of an interview with Larsen on the Probate court case before he was made a cabinet member. At the interview, he said, he told Larsen there was nothing wrong with the manner in which the estate was handled and Larsen appeared to be satisfied.

Shortly after he was offered the cabinet post, Secretary Ickes said, Larsen tried to file a petition in the Probate court to reopen the estate. This petition, which was not allowed by the court, contained statements damaging to his character, he said.

Malmin then began his cross-examination. Throughout the examination during the morning session Ickes and Malmin exchanged thrusts at each other. These did not become heated until the hearing reconvened in the afternoon.

Starts Questioning Ickes.

Malmin began with the question: "Why are you known as Honest Ickes in Washington?" An objection was sustained. Malmin then introduced as his exhibit a copy of the proceedings of the general session of congress in 1913. This, he explained later, showed Ickes to have represented various contestants of the preceding congressional election.

Malmin then continued with, "Are you married?" A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the name of your wife before your marriage? A.—Objection.

Q.—Wasn't she the wife of Prof. Thompson? A.—In addition to proving you're a blackmailer, you're proving you're a blackguard.

Secretary Ickes is the husband of Anna Wilmarth Ickes, former state representative. They were married in 1911 shortly after she won a divorce from Prof. James Westfall Thompson, authority on medieval history of the University of Chicago. They met at the University of Chicago during their student days.

Malmin asked Ickes why he had waited from September, 1933, when he got the report of federal investigators on the case, to last March 23 to file his disbarment proceedings.

"I believe in giving a sinner a chance to repent," the secretary replied. "When you failed to repent and tried to peddle your trumped-up charges to newspapers in Chicago and Washington I was forced to act."

Explanation of Meeting.

When Malmin demanded to know why Secretary Ickes had consented to see him in Washington the answer was:

"I wanted to ascertain whether you would threaten me personally."

Another interchange during the cross-examination was marked by a certain amount of irony on the part of the secretary.

Malmin began by trying to get Secretary Ickes to admit that when they met in the Ickes office in Chicago Attorney Herbert J. Friedman was present and remarked that "Malmin is to be governor of the Virgin islands." The attempt was vain.

"You say I greeted you effusively?" demanded the attorney.

"Yes, in your usual manner, effusively," replied Secretary Ickes.

"With suavity, would you say, and an unctuous manner?"

"Yes," drawled the secretary. "If you were going to be governor of the Virgin islands I would be your boss."

"When I saw you at the White House didn't you say, 'See my secretary for an appointment tomorrow?' Malmin asked.

"I don't think I went so far as to say tomorrow. I had been in Washington several months by that time."

"Were you suave?"

"I have not usually been noted for my suavity," retorted the secretary.

When Malmin tried to get the witness to admit that he had said the President was planning to appoint a Minnesota professor to the governorship of the islands and that if the appointment was made the secretary would have to concur, Mr. Ickes declared:

"It's not done that way, as you ought to know."

Malmin ended his cross-examination after asking the secretary whether he had any interest in an oil station on Michigan avenue or in Skokie valley properties. The secretary answered the former question in the negative and was prevented from answering the second by an objection of Attorney Marx.

Attorney F. J. Karasek, representing Larsen, then began his cross-examination. He tried to confine his questions to the Probate court case.

Throughout his time on the stand Secretary Ickes mopped his brow with a pocket handkerchief. He shifted in the chair, crossing and recrossing his legs. He wore a dark suit, without a vest, and tan oxfords.

His carelessness in attire was in sharp contrast to the winged collar, starched shirt and cuffs, and pressed gray suit of Malmin.

First Witness for Ickes.

The first witness for Ickes was Assistant U. S. District Attorney Austin Hall, who was formerly employed in Ickes' law office. He told of several conversations with Larsen regarding the Probate court estate case, declaring "Larsen had threatened to shoot the works" if Ickes did not take action.

Hall was followed by Harry Slattery, confidential secretary to Ickes at Washington. Slattery said Malmin had first presented a copy of the threatened disbarment proceedings against Ickes, which grew out of the estate litigation. He said he arranged for Malmin's interview with Ickes.

On cross-examination Malmin asked Slattery whether he had not begged Malmin to take a cab and hurry to see Secretary Ickes. Slattery said he had not done so. As Slattery left the witness stand Malmin leaned over toward him and whispered.

"If the commissioners please," Slattery shouted, "will you stop this man? He has just called me a damn liar."

U. S. Investigator Testifies.

Secretary Ickes was followed on the stand by Earl M. Black, an investigator for the department of justice. He testified that he and his partner, Louis Loebl, had been assigned to investigate Malmin's threats by their superior upon Ickes' request to President Roosevelt for an investigation.

Black said he and Loebl obtained a retraction of the charges in September of 1933 from both Malmin and Larsen. He also added that Larsen said he had been told not to attempt to settle his action for cash because Malmin would get the governorship of the Virgin Islands and name Larsen as his district attorney.

Loebl followed his partner to the stand and corroborated Black's story. The hearing was adjourned with Loebl on the stand.

Secretary Ickes said he was traveling unofficially in his visit to Chicago and would make no public appearances. He left for Washington last evening.

CHARGES NRA WITH CHISELING AT STONES OF U. S. CONSTITUTION

Trenton, N. J., June 5.—[Special.]—Asserting that the NRA codes are "insidiously picking at the foundations of our constitution," counsel for Sears Roebuck & Co., at a Chancery court hearing here today, challenged the right of the New Jersey state code authority to fix prices on merchandise.

Ralph E. Lum, representing the big Chicago mail order house, argued that the constitution was being "attacked underhandedly" and declared that unless a halt is called "there will not be a rag nor a shred" of that document left in a few years.

The hearing, held before Vice Chancellor Backes, was on charges brought by Raymond Tiffany, assistant attorney general, that Sears Roebuck & Co. had sold tires in two specific cases at prices below those prescribed by the state tire code. This "undercutting," the attorney general's office declared, was threatening to drive small dealers out of business.

Mr. Lum contended that the state recovery act was defective. Among other flaws, he argued that it conflicts with the federal law and that it tends to "destroy our priceless heritage—freedom of contract."

"If a direct attack were made on our constitution," he went on, "that noble document would be strengthened thereby, because the people would rally to its defense in a flash, but it is being attacked underhandedly.

portant issues vitally affecting citizens of this country."

"They have other duties which are not judicial in character," he added. "In fact, both the present commission and the new commission represent that unholy combination of executive, legislative, and judicial powers in one tribunal.

"The same body makes the rules, determines who shall be proceeded against for violation of the rules, and sits in judgment of the alleged violator. This is particularly true in proceedings involving the revocation of a radio license or applications for renewal of license.

"I realize that at this late date it is fruitless to declaim on the unsoundness and unconstitutionality of this modern device called the administrative tribunal.

Make Evidence Fit Rulings.

"At the radio commission, I am told the commission first decides a case and then has its lawyers write the decision afterwards. Ridiculous as it may seem, these lawyers decide and state what the commission's reasons were for a particular decision. These are the same lawyers who must later defend the decision from attack in court if an appeal is taken.

"In the Shreveport-New Orleans case, I am told, a young attorney in the commission's legal division wrote and rewrote the commission's reasons for the decision three times to keep time to the dance of the commissioners' chameleonlike votes to the tune of White House music. This was all on the basis of the same hearing, the same evidence."

The senator emphasized the danger of not exercising vigilance over appointments with respect to "these quasi-judicial administrative tribunals."

Judicial Integrity Needed.

"The highest order of judicial integrity is imperatively necessary," he explained, "because the temptation to depart from the standard of judicial ethics is great and the opportunity to yield to that temptation without detection is also great.

"These men are not appointed for life and unlike our federal judges are all too likely to yield to consideration which may have an effect on their reappointment or even on the amount of their appropriation. They are legitimately accessible to parties, attorneys, congressmen and White House secretaries on matters having to do with the exercise of their purely routine administrative functions and perhaps also their legislative functions.

"This makes it all too easy for them to be similarly accessible to persons who want to talk to them in chambers about some pending case. Having made the very rules under which they decide cases, it is all too easy for them to wink at a violation in one case and to make it the vehicle for drastic discipline, such as closing down a radio station, in another, although in the latter case the real reason may be something entirely behind the scenes.

Freedom of Speech at Stake.

"I can conceive of no administrative tribunal where judicial integrity great enough to resist these temptations is more important than the proposed commission on communications. Freedom of speech over the air is at stake when you give the power to license and to destroy. Uncontroled power to regulate our avenues of communication, our telegraph and cable systems is the power to throttle the transmission of intelligence, with its consequent effect on the press and the public platform. We must have men of the highest caliber on this new commission."

"Mr. President, I am not satisfied that certain of the present members of the federal radio commission possesses the necessary qualifications. I do not say they do not, but I do say that there is enough evidence of their being politically minded and not judicially minded to warant our being very careful before we assent to their appointment to the new commission. I think it is fully as important that they be called before a committee that will study their qualifications as judges."

Has No Contest; Assail Democratic Record.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—Arthur R. Robinson, United States senator from Indiana, was renominated by acclamation this afternoon by the Republican state convention. He has served in the senate since Oct. 20, 1925, when he was named to succeed Samuel M. Ralston, who had died. Robinson was elected in 1926 for the remainder of Ralston's term and was reëlected for a six year term in 1928.

SENATOR ROBINSON.

The move to stop Robinson collapsed when opposition forces would not agree on a candidate.

David A. Myers, Greensburg, veteran member of the Indiana Supreme court, also was renominated.

David Scott, Linton, state treasurer.

Northern Division.

Judges of the Indiana Appellate court, northern division—Dan C. Flanagan, Fort Wayne, and Oliver Starr, Gary. Elmer Sherwood, Bloomfield, for clerk of the Indiana Supreme and Appellate courts.

Joseph Kyle, Gary, was nominated for lieutenant governor, the Republicans claiming Lieut. Gov. Townsend has forfeited his office because he holds another state position.

Vigorous criticism of features of the Roosevelt recovery program, particularly the crop production control plan, was made today in the platform adopted by the convention.

Assail McNutt Rule.

The platform also assailed the state administration of Gov. Paul V. McNutt, and asked repeal of the state gross income tax enacted by the Democratic legislature of 1933, enactment of a new liquor control law to replace the 1933 law, and reduction of the state gasoline tax, which in 1933 was raised to four cents per gallon.

Discussing the Roosevelt administration, the platform "opposes unalterably and criticizes unsparingly the sinister and hidden purpose of a so-called brain trust to change the fundamental law of the land by indirection and by implication. Authority for such changes must first be secured from the people whose mandates are necessary and final."

He will contest in the fall general election with Gov. Clyde L. Herring, Democrat, who had nearly three times the combined vote of his two rivals.

Four congressmen who faced opposition for renomination led their rivals on the basis of incomplete returns from their districts. Representative A. C. Willford held a margin of nearly two to one over his two Democratic rivals in the Third district, while his party colleague, Representative Otha D. Wearin led the field in the Seventh district.

Representative B. M. Jacobsen, Democrat, was well out ahead in the Second district, and Representative C. C. Dowell, Republican, had more than 4,000 votes over A. O. Hauge in the Sixth.

TWO JAILED FOR THEFT.

Roscoe Leigh, 23 years old, and William Vaughn, 24, were sentenced to serve 90 days in the Bridewell by Judge Howard Hayes in the Felony court yesterday when they pleaded guilty to charges of petty larceny. They smashed a window of the Rialto Men's Clothing store, 332 South State street, and took two suits.

URGES SPENDING 27 MILLION ON WATERWAY JOBS

Report Sees 'Paradise' in Illinois Valley.

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Federal expenditure of $27,000,000 would make the Illinois river valley little short of a paradise in waterway development, it was said today in the report of the interdepartmental commission to congress.

In transmitting the report to congress President Roosevelt called attention that the report was merely a hurriedly collected summary of recommendations from the war, interior, and agricultural departments, and that before it was accepted as final a more extensive survey should be made before the next congress.

"Offers Decided Benefit."

"The Illinois river valley project," the report said, "offers a diversified program of work which, if carried out, should prove of decided benefit, social, and economic value to the basin."

General recommendations were:

1. Immediate completion of two locks and dams and channel widening in Illinois river to cost $15,530,000.

2. Early construction of flood control works and channel improvement of the Kankakee and Sangamon rivers and levees on the Illinois to cost $6,300,000, and possible future construction of additional works on the Sangamon and Illinois rivers to cost $600,000.

Urges Development.

3. Progressive development of water power possibilities of the valley, particularly those at navigation dams on the Illinois [presumably by the state of Illinois] involving an installed capacity of 48,500 kilowatts and a cost of about $4,200,000.

4. Continued investigation of stream flow and ground water conditions at an estimated cost of $105,000.

5. Restoration to forests of about 300,000 acres of eroded land.

6. Continued study of existing problems of land draining and land use, including conflicting requirements of agriculture, recreation, and wild life preserves, to develop a coördinated program of development for all.

Recommends New Lock.

The commission said that the 50 year old lock at La Grange should be replaced at cost of $4,500,000.

A new lock and dam should be built at Peoria, it added, at cost of $4,632,000. Portions of the channel now only 200 feet wide should be widened to 300 feet, at cost of $6,409,000.

The report recommended that $2,882,000 be spent to control floods by widening the channel of the Kankakee river, $2,114,000 to enlarge the channel of the Sangamon river, and that $1,892,000 be set aside to replace broken levees along the main stem of the Illinois.

"Cheap Insurance."

This, it added, would be cheap insurance against damages wrought in those valleys.

The building of plants at already constructed dams was considered "particularly attractive," providing, it added, "outlets for the power can be secured."

"Such power could be manufactured," the report said, "at 4 mills per kilowatt hour."

The three sites recommended in this classification were near Joliet on the Des Plaines, where a 22,100 kilowatt plant could be built for $1,189,000; at Dresden island on the Illinois, where $1,317,000 would build a 15,000 kilowatt plant, and at Starved Rock on the Illinois, where a 11,400 kilowatt plant could be had for $1,697,000.

"Other Possibilities."

After adding "there are no opportunities for large water power developments in Illinois valley," the report added that there still were other possibilities.

Four power plants could be constructed, it said, on the Fox river, furnishing 11,450 kilowatts and costing $2,500,000. Three could be built on the Kankakee river, furnishing 22,100 kilowatts, costing $2,399,000. Four could be built on the Illinois, furnishing 55,800 kilowatts and costing $5,130,000.

See Aid for Illinois Projects in House Appropriation Vote

Illinois application for federal easy money should receive immediate aid from the seven billion dollars voted by the house for use by President Roosevelt in the New Deal recovery activities, local Public Works administration officials indicated yesterday.

Fifty-three Illinois projects, totaling approximately $8,500,000, have already received preliminary approval from government reviewing bodies and are awaiting sufficient appropriations to permit actual grants of money. While final approval must be received from Secretary of the Interior Ickes and President Roosevelt, it is understood that the provision of needed funds is the final step before the extension of federal grants.

The house acted on Monday to provide such funds when it voted President Roosevelt authority to spend upwards of seven billion dollars as he sees fit in carrying out his recovery program.

Important Illinois Projects.

The most important of the Illinois projects expected to benefit from this move is channel construction at East St. Louis, to cost $2,500,000; the Joliet waterworks project, estimated at $1,750,000; and a power plant for Centralia to cost $600,000, according to I. F. Stern, assistant state engineer for the PWA in Illinois.

"These projects and 50 others have successfully passed the legal, financial and engineering review boards in Washington," Mr. Stern explained. "Final approval has not been granted, since it has been necessary to await the appropriation of sufficient funds. It appears that the house action should greatly improve the prospects for these projects."

A total of 510 construction proposals have been referred to the state PWA board by persons and municipalities desiring federal aid, Mr. Stern said. Of this number 470 have been transferred to Washington, but only a small percentage have passed the reviewing agencies.

Expected to Receive Aid.

A proposal of the sanitary district to extend its powerhouse at Lockport with federal aid is expected to receive favor under the new seven billion dollar program, according to Joshua D'Esposito, PWA supervisor of the present $42,000,000 sanitary district federal aid construction program and former state PWA engineer.

"The extension, to include the replacement of turbines, will cost $700,000 and the sanitary district has asked for a federal grant of $210,000," Mr. D'Esposito said. "The project has received tentative approval and we have understood that final action awaited the voting of additional PWA funds."

URGE IMMEDIATE COMPLETION OF 9 FOOT CHANNEL

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Immediate completion of the upper Mississippi river 9 foot channel to the Twin Cities at an estimated additional cost of $80,000,000 was recommended today by the President's special interdepartmental waterways committee.

The funds would be used for work on the river from Alton, Ill., to St. Paul. Sufficient funds already have been allotted for completion of the work south from Alton.

Other recommendations made in developing the upper Mississippi valley were:

Establishment of extensive public forests, employment of technically trained persons to correct faulty practices in land use and drainage, and further study of stream flow in ground water conditions.

ILLINOIS PLEADS FOR U. S. RELIEF IN DROUTH CRISIS

Showers in Grain Areas Called Inadequate.

Chicago sweltered in renewed high temperatures yesterday while throughout the north central states the heat and drouth continued to ravage crops and pastures. State drouth relief officials in Illinois urged the government to include this state in the federal relief program for farmers as the crop and live stock condition grew more acute.

A shower which lasted 20 minutes fell in Chicago at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The maximum temperature for the day was 92 degrees at 3 p. m.

Cooler Weather Today.

The forecast for Chicago today is for cooler weather. Lake breezes are expected to keep the temperature in the low 70s. Showers are expected, with northerly winds prevailing.

W. P. Day, government forecaster, was still hopeful last night that the intermittent drizzles of the last few days presaged a wet spell which might mark the end of the drouth in Chicago and the vicinity. The total precipitation for the first five days of June in the city is .04 of an inch.

Scattered showers are expected today in Illinois, Indiana, low Michigan, Missouri, Iowa, and the Dakotas.

"Conditions Favorable for Rain."

"Conditions are favorable for rain," Forecaster Day said, "but the question still remains if there will be enough rain. There is a probability of showers Thursday in Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, but they may not be sufficient to ameliorate the drouth. We would need an inch of rain in all regions through the middle west to break the drouth, and it cannot be predicted now when this will arrive."

Rain fell yesterday over wide areas of the farm belt, but weather observers asserted that the grip of the drouth was still unbroken. The rain came too late to save much of the wheat crop, but it brought new hope that corn and late forage crops might be partly saved. Evansville, Ind., had 1.72 inches of rain yesterday.

Open Forests to Grazing.

Several thousand acres of forest preserve lands will be opened to Cook county dairy farmers for grazing purposes because of the drying up of pasture lands in the drouth, it was announced yesterday by County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd. A resolution presented by Commissioner Byrd to make the lands available was unanimously adopted by the members of the county board, sitting in their capacity as forest preserve commissioners. The various sections will be opened as soon as an allotment system has been worked out, Commissioner Byrd said. While cows are grazing in the forest preserve territory, farmers will have an opportunity to grow grass and hay in the fields which they have recently been forced to open for their live stock.

Governor Sends Appeal.

Gov. Horner yesterday sent a telegram from Chicago to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace at Washington, stressing the need of immediately including Illinois in the federal drouth relief area. The governor had previously conferred here with J. H. Lloyd, state drouth relief administrator.

In his telegram Gov. Horner requested that Illinois be given the benefit of moving live stock and feed at emergency freight rates and that emergency relief funds be made available to farmers in the drouth stricken areas. Lloyd telegraphed to drouth relief officials in Washington that the entire state is in a drouth condition and that slight rains that fell within the last few days were insufficient to alleviate the condition.

Wilfred Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, sent a telegram to Howard O. Hunter, field representative of the federal emergency relief administration at Washington, stating that an incomplete survey in Illinois disclosed that 16,275 farms would need a loan of $998,700 for live stock feed in June and a loan of $527,300 to purchase seed for emergency crops. Mr. Reynolds also asked that the reduced freight rate schedule apply immediately to the Chicago milkshed.

Rain Helps Corn Crop.

Rains have come too late to save much of the wheat crop, it was stated yesterday by A. E. Anderson, Nebraska state and federal statistician, and copious rains are needed immediately to help the corn. Leslie M. Carl, head of the federal department of agriculture office at Des Moines, said the rains had been insufficient to improve crop prospects for Iowa as a whole. The corn crop in Iowa was materially aided by the rain, but needs further heavy downpours.

The corn crop was also the chief beneficiary of the rains in Minnesota, it was stated by Andrew Boss, state agronomist. The small grains are ruined, however, he said. Although the wheat crop in parts of Kansas was aided by the showers, there will be virtually no yield in the western half of the state, it was reported.

COURT ORDERS BALLOT RECOUNT ON GALVIN PLEA

Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend yesterday ordered a recount of the votes cast for nomination of a Republican state representative in the 27th senatorial district at the April primaries. The petition for a recount was filed by Representative A. O. Galvin, who is contesting the nomination of Joseph N. De Grazio.

Galvin charged in the petition that De Grazio was not qualified as a resident of the district and that frauds were perpetrated in a number of precincts to nominate him. De Grazio has disappeared since the election. Court officers have been unable to serve him with a notice of the recount petition, it was stated.

The official canvass of votes credited De Grazio with 4,122 and Galvin with 1,856. Galvin asserts that at least 1,000 more votes were cast for him than for his opponent.

CRIMINAL JUDGES PUT OFF MEETING ON RULE CHANGES

The meeting of the Criminal court judges to decide on the new rules of the court, one of which would exclude Civil court judges from participating in the election of the chief justice of the Criminal court, was postponed from yesterday until tomorrow. The meeting was called off because several of the judges had previous engagements which could not be broken.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who is interested in the new rules because he feels that under them he would be able to keep the present personnel of the court almost intact, spent the day visiting the judges and urging them to stay in the Criminal court for another year so as to complete the "good work they have started." The prosecutor said he will be satisfied with the election to the chief justiceship of any of the three leading candidates, Judges Philip J. Finnegan, a candidate for reëlection; Judge Harry B. Miller, or Judge Walter P. Steffen.

SURVEYS DROUTH LOSS IN STATE RELIEF GARDENS

To learn the amount of damage done by the drouth to subsistence gardens in downstate counties, an inspection tour will be made by Arthur P. Holt of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who left Chicago yesterday.

The drouth reports made to the commission indicate general conditions throughout the state, but do not contain detailed information by counties as to the extent of the damage. The southern part of the state has been more fortunate than other sections in respect to the amount of rainfall received and the relief gardens in this area are in better condition than in the central and northern portions of the state, it is reported.

Considerable replanting of gardens probably will be necessary in some areas to assure sufficient food for many of the families participating in the program.

8 WESTERN N. Y. COUNTIES HARD HIT BY DROUTH

Buffalo, N. Y., June 5.—(AP)—The drouth situation in the eight western New York counties today was described as "desperate" by Richard F. Fricke, manager of the Erie County Farm and Home bureau.

Fricke, returning from a survey of the area, said Erie, Wyoming, Niagara, Orleans, Allegany, Genesee, and Chautauqua counties faced the possibility of a 50 million dollar crop loss. He said that no matter what happens now there will be a definite hay shortage, with resultant hardship on farmers, and an ultimate shortage of milk.

Truck farmers in Niagara and Erie counties are speeding plans to irrigate fields in the western manner, while others are hauling water for stock and domestic use from rivers, streams, and fast failing wells.

First Rain in 60 Days Falls in Southern California

Los Angeles, Cal., June 5.—[Special.]—The first rain in 60 days washed the face of southern California today, and in some places the precipitation was enough to penetrate parched soil sufficiently to help crops. The rain was welcomed by forest rangers as lessening the forest fire hazard.

MOTHER IS PLACED UNDER OBSERVATION AFTER CRUELTY TRIAL

San Juan Capistrano, Cal., June 5.—(AP)—Convicted of cruelty to her 7 year old daughter, Mary, by assertedly keeping her in a chicken pen and starving her, Mrs. Josie Ebarguarry, 33, mother of seven other children, today was ordered placed under observation.

She will be kept in a psychopathic ward with her one month old daughter for ten days' observation, after which she will be given a sanity trial.

Five year old James Dunn, who lived next door, testified he often took bread and jam to the little girl. He said that once when the mother called the other children for dinner Mary broke from her prison and followed.

"She ran into the house," he testified, "and I heard her being whipped and heard her scream."

Mary's mother denied the charge. She assertedly kept Mary from the other children because she had an "evil eye."

JUDGE WILL GIVE DECISION TODAY ON INSULL PLEA

Whether Samuel Insull was shanghaied from Istanbul, Turkey, and if so whether that circumstance excludes him from the jurisdiction of the federal court, will be decided by Judge Philip L. Sullivan today.

Insull is seeking to escape trial on charges of using the mails to defraud on the ground that his extradition was illegal. The government's answer to the shanghai plea virtually admitted that he was forcibly seized and returned without due process of law, but cited numerous precedents holding that once a man is returned to the jurisdiction of a court, that court is not concerned with the manner of his arrival.

A similar plea was made by Insull in the Criminal court, where he is charged with larceny and embezzlement, and Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora yesterday followed the course of the government. He filed a demurrer, stating that Insull is here and that if he was kidnaped, "What of it?" Judge James F. Fardy will hear arguments on the demurrer on June 11.

SEN. TRAMMEL RUNS SECOND IN FLORIDA PRIMARY

Jacksonville, Fla., June 5.—(AP)—With 524 of the state's 1,283 precincts in, Claude Pepper, Tallahassee attorney, held a narrow lead over Senator Park Trammell in the race for nomination as United States senator in today's Democratic primaries. The count was Pepper 23,144, Trammell 22,983.

Trailing far behind was Charles A. Mitchell with 11,041; James F. Sikes, 5,131, and Mrs. Hortense K. Wells, 2,206.

J. Mark Wilcox was far in the lead of his two opponents in his race for renomination as congressman from the fourth district. Returns from 71 of the 417 precincts gave Mrs. Bula E. Croker, Palm Beach, 676; Maj. Paul Crank, Orlando, 628, and Wilcox, 5,514.

Congressman R. A. Green had the edge over his two opponents in the second district, but Wallace E. Sturgis was close behind him.

J. Hardin Peterson, incumbent in the first congressional district, was far in the lead of Randolph Calhoun and W. T. Hall. With 22 of the precincts tabulated, the vote was: Calhoun, 58; Hall, 229, and Peterson, 888.

'I'm No Road Agent,' Says Cowboy; Wears Gun in City

William R. Conley, 40 years old, Colorado cowboy, came to see the World's Fair but he forgot to leave his hardware at home. Sergt. William Whitwell arrested him at 53d street and Harper avenue yesterday because he was carrying a revolver. "I'm no road agent," protested Conley, but he must face a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

EXPERT EXPLAINS 10 YR. INCREASE IN AVERAGE HEAT

Blames Drouth on High Pressure at Sea.

The increase in the mean temperature in the United States over the ten year period from 1921 to 1930 need not cause fear the weather will continue to grow progressively warmer, it was stated yesterday by Dr. Griffith Taylor, professor of geography at the University of Chicago. Temperatures tend to follow a cycle, Dr. Taylor pointed out, and in a survey of the succeeding ten years the mean may be lower.

As a generality unduly warm years bring a dryness to temperate zones, while cool years produce abundant rainfall, Dr. Taylor said. There is no correlation so definite, however, which can result in an accurate prediction of the amount of rain that will fall in a given period.

Forecasts Still Puzzle.

"Meteorologists do not know themselves how to accurately make long range forecasts on heat and rain spells," Dr. Taylor declared, "and the best we can do is piece together various factors we have considered in the past and try to correlate them."

Dr. Taylor advanced a theory as to one of the causes of the prolonged drouth which has held the American midcontinent in its grip since April 1. This theory is based on a high pressure area in the Atlantic area.

This area is approximately 1,200 miles wide and 800 miles long and lies midway between the Azores and Bermuda. Its normal barometric pressure is high, about 30.3 inches. The normal barometric pressure in Chicago and the middle west is 29.13 inches.

"The high pressure area has become more vigorous recently," Dr. Taylor stated, "and this increase in barometric pressure tends to cause disturbances. These disturbances, apparently, have been to the southwest and southeast of the area while a period of stagnation has set in in most of the North American continent."

Stagnation Stops Rainfall.

The stagnation has stopped the eddies, or cyclonic storms, which produce rainfall, Dr. Taylor said. The stagnation is best visualized by a study of barometric pressures throughout the country. When there are material differentials in barometric pressure rain results from the meeting of high and low pressure areas. During the period of the drouth, however, the differentials have been slight. Yesterday the high barometric pressure in the United States was 30.4 inches in the extreme northeast and the low pressure was 29.65 in the southwest, a variant of only .75 of an inch for the whole country.

The possibility that the drouth may be reflected by unusual weather activity in other regions of the world was considered by Dr. Taylor. Just what this activity may be cannot be foretold, he said, but a relationship with the present condition in this counry may be established in the future.

"It is curious the way changes in one part of the world may be repeated at a six year interval in another part," Dr. Taylor said, "but the correlation is a difficult thing.

Finds Inverse Relationship.

"One instance of an inverse relationship existing at the same time was noted by Mossman, a meteorologist, some years ago. He discovered—to a high degree of accuracy—that when the Nile floods were at their peak the water was low in the antarctic region. The reverse also held—when the water was high around the south pole the Nile subsided."

At present the cyclonic storms, which should visit the middle west three or four times a month, have "failed to obey their laws," Dr. Taylor stated. The storms are not moving in their tracks, he said.

Statistics made public yesterday by the Smithsonian institution at Washington disclosed that at 14 government weather stations throughout the country the mean temperature for the period from 1921 to 1930 was from .3 of a degree to 1.3 degrees higher than the mean for all the previous years in which these stations have kept records.

Recalls Azilian Period.

"There is nothing particularly significant about that," Dr. Taylor declared, "because these cycles of increase and decrease are normal. No striking climatic change is in sight for the world."

The last great weather change in the world, which brought about the movement of races, was the Azilian period of 10,000 years ago, in which northern Europe and the northern part of North America were much warmer than they are now.

"In this period," Dr. Taylor said, "the Bering straits were an attractive place in which to live. Most of us are agreed that it was at this time the race we know as the American Indians came to North America via the Bering straits from Asia. Europe was warmer and the people moved into it from northern Africa."

Previous to the Azilian period the other great weather change in the world was the ice age 40,000 years ago. At this time northern Africa desert was an attractive fertile land and the Sahara desert was smaller.

As the ice retreated to the north the Sahara desert increased until it assumed its present boundaries.

EFFORTS OF U. S. IN STEEL ROW SEEM DIVIDED

President Ready to Step Into Argument.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—While President Roosevelt looked on ready to intervene if necessary, the government's efforts to avert a national steel strike today took on the appearance of a two ring circus.

In one ring was Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, head of the NRA, appearing to crack the whip over the steel masters. In the other ring was Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], head of the national labor board, striving to sooth the fire eating "rank and file committee" of the steel union.

Since Wagner and Johnson, between whom relations are somewhat strained, have failed to confer, the New Deal's efforts to block a steel strike have been disjointed. There appeared tonight, therefore, a strong possibility that the President may have to step into the breach himself.

He today ordered the workers' demands briefed for his study, and he conferred with Johnson at luncheon on the whole steel situation. Johnson said afterward that the chief executive was not yet disposed to enter the negotiations personally.

Concerns Auto Men.

Apparently concerned over the effect which a steel strike would have on the automobile business, five motor magnates today called on President Roosevelt and Gen. Johnson to discuss labor conditions and pending labor legislation.

Since the automobile plants are now the chief buyers of steel, their interest in the steel situation is intense.

The five motor leaders who called today were those who two months ago worked out with the President the settlement of the automobile strike, first major labor dispute to confront the New Deal this year.

Although they did not mention the steel strike, it is understood that they discussed it at both the White House and the NRA. Their formal statements were confined to opposing the passage by congress of Senator Wagner's labor disputes bill.

Suggests Arbitration Board.

They told the President that the bill "might confuse the existing labor situation," cause more strikes, and hinder recovery.

Today's steel strike settlement efforts produced an outright impasse between Gen. Johnson and the steel workers, lending added weight to the belief that the President will have to intervene.

Johnson suggested at his press conference that a labor arbitration board similar to that set up as a solution for the threatened automobile strike two months ago be established to iron out the labor grievances in the steel industry.

As soon as they got wind of the general's proposal, the members of the rank and file committee rejected it flatly. They called the NRA the "national run-around" and declared that they never would accept an arbitration board such as President Roosevelt and Johnson had persuaded the automobile workers to take.

Led by W. J. Spang, the committee this afternoon again laid its case before Senator Wagner and even sought to interview Johnson, who was away from his office.

Earlier in the day the general had said that he would be glad to consider any evidence which the committee had showing that the steel companies had refused to bargain with their men. Spang promptly accepted the challenge only to find Johnson busy at the White House.

U. S. NEWSPAPER GUILD CONVENES; OLSON SPEAKS

St. Paul, Minn., June 5.—[Special.]—The American Newspaper guid, organization of news writers in various cities, began a convention here today. One hundred and fifty representatives are present. Heywood Broun, column conductor on the New York World-Telegram, presides. At his instance a move to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor was tabled for a year.

A greeting to the newly formed organization came from President Roosevelt, and Gov. Olson of Minnesota addressed the convention on behalf of his state.

Jonathan Eddy of New York, secretary of the organization, made a talk emphasizing the need of "some sort of a defense fund."

John Lee of the Philadelphia Record declared, "Newspaper men can make or prevent war." He advocated rigid distinction between news and propaganda and said he doubted if America would have entered the world war had newspapers printed the whole truth.

COURT TIES UP LINER THAT SUNK U. S. LIGHTSHIP

Ask $500,000 to Pay for Loss.

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—A libel for $500,000 was filed by the federal government against the steamship Olympic of the White Star line today for the loss of the Nantucket shoals lightship which the Olympic ran down and sank in a heavy fog on the morning of May 15

The action was filed in federal court through United States Attorney Martin Conboy and alleges eleven specific instances of fault against the officers and crew of the liner. It asks that the court order the Olympic sold to pay the claims.

Seven men aboard the Nantucket lost their lives when the ship sank.

The federal action is merely for damages to the lightship and does not preclude separate actions for damages on the part of relatives of the dead men. The ship later was released under $500,000 bond to proceed on her usual schedule.

"The collision was due solely to the fault and negligence of the Olympic and those in charge of her," the suit charged.

The eleven specific instances of negligence alleged against the Olympic are:

1. She was not in charge of a competent person.
2. She failed to keep a proper lookout.
3. Her officers and crew on watch were incompetent and inattentive to their duties.
4. She was proceeding at a high, excessive and dangerous rate of speed in a fog.
5. She failed to take any or proper bearings to ascertain her position.
6. She was being navigated on a course to pass too close to the lightship.
7. She failed to stop or slow her engines when the signals of the lightship were heard.
8. After hearing the fog signals of the lightship, she failed to navigate with caution until danger of collision was past.
9. She failed to direct her course so as to pass clear of the lightship.
10. She collided with the lightship, which was a moored vessel.
11. When danger of collision was or should have been apparent, she failed to take proper steps to avoid the same.

RADICALS BLAMED FOR THREATENED STRIKE IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—Appealing to steel workers for "careful consideration," President I. Lamont Hughes of the Carnegie Steel company today charged "a radical rank and file party" within the Amalgamated Steel Workers' union with engineering the threatened strike in the industry.

In a statement jointly signed by W. A. Irvin, president of the U. S. Steel corporation, the workers were told that the strike program "grows out of a combination of the radical element of the 'Amalgamated' with the communist union."

Simultaneously, a warning came from Earle J. Forbeck, leader of the self-styled "rank and file" committee of the Amalgamated, that steel workers will march on Washington "unless President Roosevelt assures steel leaders now in Washington" that legislation barring the so-called "company unions" is enacted.

President Hughes of Carnegie, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, addressed this statement today to employés of the company:

"The Amalgamated is an old American Federation of Labor union—it has been trying to establish itself as the closed shop organization of the steel workers for many years. I want to remind you that, with more than 30 years of effort, it admittedly now has less than 10 per cent of the steel workers enrolled as members."

DISCUSS LABOR

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce protested today to President Roosevelt in a lengthy conference against further labor legislation at this time.

The automobile manufacturers expressed the view that additional legislation, such as is embodied in the Wagner labor board bill, would aggravate the existing labor situation.

There was every indication the group brought the automobile business into close relationship with the threatened steel strike in the discussions with the President.

INLAND STEEL REJECTS PLEA TO RECOGNIZE UNION

First Rebuff for Labor Group Here.

Demands of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers for recognition of their union by the steel industry were refused yesterday by the Inland Steel company. It was the first rebuff the union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, has met in the Chicago area.

The refusal came in answer to a letter sent to the company a week ago by the union and followed a vote, in which, steel officials assert, the employés showed their willingness to continue with their local organization within the company.

Reject Union's Plea.

Notice of the Inland company's stand against the union was posted on the bulletin boards of the plant at Indiana Harbor. It was signed by H. R. De Holl, general manager, and read:

"We cannot make a contract with any labor organization that would in any way interfere with the freedom of our employés."

Mr. De Holl refused to explain how recognition of the Amalgamated would interfere with the freedom of the employés, but other officials said that to give in to the union's initial demand would eventually bring a closed shop. This would mean that all nonunion employés of the plant would be forced to join the union or lose their jobs.

The stand of the Inland company brought from officers of the Amalgamated a reiteration of their threat to call a "holiday" of workers in the Calumet area on June 16, the day set for a national walkout. Union officials estimate that they control 65 per cent of the 60,000 workers in the region.

Hold Union's Power Is Small.

On the other hand, steel officials maintain the union has very little control over the workers. They say that less than 15 per cent of their workers were affiliated with the Amalgamated, and that a strike of these men would not seriously handicap the operation of the plants.

As further proof of their contention of the union's weakness, officials of the Inland company revealed the results of a ballot conducted among 8,273 plant employés on two proposed revisions of the charter of the employés' representation organization, a union formed within the company. A total of 6,226, or 77.1 per cent of all the workers, voted for the revisions.

The two revisions accepted were: 1. Elimination of all voter restrictions in the company union. 2. A provision calling for arbitration if troubles between the workers and their employers cannot be settled by negotiations. Their acceptance was hailed by the steel company as a reflection "of the preference of a pronounced majority of our employés."

The union replied, however, that the vote didn't mean anything, since it was merely on two improvements for the company union, and not on whether the employés would rather remain in it, or join the national group.

Other steel companies in the area have also received demands for recognition of the Amalgamated, but so far none of them has replied.

POLICEMEN DONATE QUART OF BLOOD TO SAVE DYING BANDIT

Baltimore, Md., June 5.—[Special.]—"If justice is to be served there must be a trial."

Thus Policeman Robert Busick today explained his gift of blood to Robert Mais, bandit suspect, shot six times by officers yesterday.

Patrolman Busick was at the hospital when he heard a surgeon say an immediate transfusion was necessary to save the bandit's life. He immediately volunteered.

"Questions of justice can't be decided on an operating table," Busick said. "It wasn't until they were taking the blood that I started to wondering whether the man was worth it. Dying on an operating table does not decide it."

REDS STIRRING UP WORKERS IN COTTON AREAS

Former Dole Recipients Prove Best Ground.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Birmingham, Ala., June 5.—[Special.]—Considerable apprehension is expressed in some parts of the south over the activities of communist agitators, especially among the Negro workers, both agricultural and industrial.

Red organizers are seeping through the cotton belt spreading propaganda. They are attacking President Roosevelt, the New Deal, the American Federation of Labor, and are striving to foment discontent and discord. From New Orleans to Birmingham the observer hears of communist activity, much of it subterranean.

The general comment is that the propaganda is not making headway among the old type worker, white and Negro, but that it seems to be growing among the younger groups, especially those who were on CWA and other dole projects for a time but are now out of that easy money employment.

Strike Brings Agitators.

In Birmingham, the industrial metropolis of the south, center of the iron and steel industries, the strike situation is said to have brought in radicals from outside. Literature from communist headquarters in New York has been widely distributed.

"The Communist," magazine of the party in the United States, sets forth the program of the central committee in trying to spread in America the designs in the 13th plenum of the Moscow communist international, although at the time Washington gave recognition to soviet Russia last November the bolshevist government pledged itself to refrain from spreading propaganda against the political or social order of the United States.

"The work among the Negro masses," says the communist organ in describing activities it urges among labor in the south, "must receive more serious attention. The work in the rural districts must receive the attention of the party in every district.

"Give more attention to the discrimination against the Negro masses in the factories, on the CWA and PWA jobs and at the relief bureaus."

Just a Few Samples.

These are fragmentary samples of propaganda being circulated in these parts, and although the movement is reported not to have progressed very far as yet among agricultural workers, it is giving much concern to some industrialists.

Birmingham itself is a good cross section of industrial troubles that have popped up elsewhere. On a trip last October, this town was found quite convinced that strikes were certain to follow the codes of the NRA. It has been a traditionally open shop region, and in the controversy over open shop and recognition of the unions, it has had its strikes this year. Some have been settled, but underneath there is doubt whether settlements has been permanent.

Despite the labor troubles, the city appears much more prosperous than last fall. Since December the steel mills have been running at 52 per cent of rated capacity, 72 per cent being normal. In the last week they have been going at 55 per cent of capacity. Last fall the mills were working 25 to 30 per cent of capacity. Whether the steel workers are to strike is included in the negotiations now under way in which Gen. Hugh Johnson and the White House are trying to prevent a general steel and iron walkout. The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has set a deadline of June 16.

Same Old Union Issue.

Stripped of trimmings, the dominant issue here as elsewhere in open shop areas, is whether the unions shall be directly recognized in collective bargaining.

In Birmingham, the minimum wage for common day labor has been 30 cents an hour, although 27 cents is in the code, and the mills have been working right along. This is the one spot on the continent where iron ore, coal, and limestone for fluxing steel are found within five miles of each other. As the great industrial center of the south, with half a million population in the area, it has some 685 manufacturing plants which produce more than 2,000 articles. Normally 113,000 persons are gainfully employed in the city, about 102,000 of them men. About 40 per cent are Negroes.

The laregst employer is the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, which in normal times has about 25,000 on its pay rolls. The district makes about 12 per cent of the total steel output of America, and 50 per cent of the iron pipe is made in Birmingham.

The coal mines have been on strike, which is now settled, while the red ore mines are still on strike.

Coal Depends on Others.

The coal industry depends largely upon operations of other industries, for normally 40 to 50 per cent of the coal output in the district is "captive coal" from mines owned by railroads, big mills and other industries. For years, the United Mine Workers strove to organize this open shop field, but with little success until the dawn of NRA.

John Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, sent in William Mish to organize the district. Mr. Mish comported his activities in a way that brought him high praise from both the industrial and business interests and the bulk of the miners.

The coal miners are getting a minimum of 40 cents an hour for 7 hours' work a day for common outside labor, while inside the rate runs $3.30 a day for common and $3.80 for skilled labor. The employers say they have followed section 7-A of the recovery act and that they will deal with any representation, union or not, chosen by the men, but without recognition of the United Mine Workers as such.

SESSION ENDS

A two day session of the Association of National Advertisers closed at the Edgewater Beach hotel last evening with a banquet at which more than 100 advertising executives and their wives attended. The meeting was the 25th semi-annual gathering of the association. Monday and yesterday the advertisers discussed policies and plans for the future in meetings closed to the public.

President Rufus Dawes of A Century of Progress Exposition greeted the advertisers, and urged their attendance during the summer. He asserted that the 1934 Fair, as did the 1933 Exposition, reflected the courage and faith not merely of a group of Chicagoans but of the business men of the whole United States.

The speaker of the evening was Col. R. R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, who recalled the history of the struggle which the press of the United States has made to maintain its freedom. This fight, he informed the advertisers, was made not only in behalf of editors and publishers but also of every citizen entitled to free speech and every business man or manufacturer who "has the same right to boost his product with pride of ownership as a new dealer has the right to sell the new deal—and that is considerable."

ROOSEVELT O. K.'S 525 MILLIONS FOR DROUTH AID

Plans Message Requesting Relief Funds.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt gave approval today to a 525 million dollar program for federal relief of victims of the great drouth.

The plan, which was agreed upon at a White House conference attended by senators and representatives from the principal drouth stricken states, calls for the following expenditures:

1. $100,000,000 in a new appropriation under the Jones-Connally act to buy additional beef and dairy cattle in the most severely affected drouth sections.
2. $100,000,000 to process cattle and other products for direct relief purposes.

100 Million for Feed.

3. $100,000,000 to buy feed for live stock.
4. $100,000,000 for work programs to provide cash for farmers to meet their immediate needs.
5. $50,000,000 for retiring submarginal lands and moving populations of North and South Dakoto, where crops now are considered to be beyond reclamation regardless of future rainfall.
6. $25,000,000 for buying wheat, corn and forage seed to be planted next year.
7. $50,000,000 for immediate expansion of the civilian conservation crops to provide employment for the youth population of "acute" dry areas.

Told of Needs.

After listening to a presentation by the senators and congressmen of the conditions wrought by the rainless spring the President said he would send a message to congress requesting the necessary legislation and appropriations to carry the relief program into effect.

Announcement of the result of the conference was made by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], majority leader of the senate, in the following statement:

"The subject matter of the conference of course was drouth relief. The studies in the conditions have progressed very rapidly through the instrumentalities of the department of agriculture and emergency relief organizations, and will continue. Before the end of the session a message will be forwarded to the congress by the President recommending an appropriation which, it now appears, will approximate $500,000,000 to be used by existing machinery, as it is not thought necessary to create any new machinery in providing relief for live stock and human beings, and it is thought likely that a separate bill will be the best means of securing the legislation, but it may be attached to the deficiency appropriation bill. The legislation will not require very much time in either house of congress and probably will be acted upon just before the end, so that the intervening time may be used in obtaining further information and formulating plans. Conditions relating to the subject constantly are changing and no delay will result as the plans are being worked out already."

PRESS CENSORSHIP PRECEDES 'SLAVERY,' COLUMBIA BODY TOLD

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—The necessity of defending academic freedom and the freedom of the press was emphasized today by speakers of the annual Columbia alumni luncheon in John Jay hall.

Speakers were President James Bryant Conant of Harvard, Arthur Sulzberger, vice president and director of the New York Times, and John Maynard Keynes, British economist.

Mr. Sulzberger warned that freedom of the press might be abridged in other ways than through the direct censorship of a newspaper's news and editorial columns.

He said he had grown up without questioning the "shibboleth that America is the land of the free and the home of the brave," only to see "other free and brave peoples cast into shackles."

Invariably, he said, the "act of enslavement has been preceded by the censorship of the press."

Asserting that a Hitler or a Mussolini can arise only when the facts are withheld or distorted, Mr. Sulzberger declared that when "the press fails in the first assault upon liberty" the damage is done.

'LET'S GO' SPIRIT OF SENATE HITS AN AIR POCKET

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—An enthusiastic spirit moved the senate as it assembled today—the "I will" spirit—the "Let's go" spirit—the energetic spirit of men willing and ambitious to accomplish the important matters that remain to be settled before adjournment.

The silver bill was the primary business of the day. The fine minds of the greatest deliberative body in the world prepared to discuss thoroughly the proposition to increase the proportion of silver to gold in the monetary stocks of the government until one-fourth of the value of the stocks would be in silver.

Just an Interlude.

First, however, there was the purely technical detail of approving the conference report on the air mail bill. Ever since Postmaster General Farley canceled air mail contracts months ago and gave the flying of the mail temporarily to the army with disastrous results, air mail litigation has been debated.

In the discussion of the bill it is doubtful if a single senator refrained from giving his views. It has been one of the most exhaustively debated laws at the present session.

"This will take only a moment," said Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] with fine optimism when the conference report was brought up. "I don't see how anything new could be said on the subject."

Five hours after, Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] arose to remark after at least a dozen senators had spoken at length on the air mail bill:

"I know that the minds of every one here are made up. I don't believe in talking on a subject when such talking can do no possible good. But I feel that a few words of final comment should be made."

Senator Fess was still talking an hour later when the time for adjournment neared. Silver legislation had been definitly delayed until tomorrow, and another day of the second session of the 73d congress had all but gone into history.

Goes Over All at Once.

Suddenly after a few final verbal flourishes from senators who had last minute ideas on the subject, the conference report was put to the question and passed by a viva voce vote. It was all over in five seconds.

The conference report provides that the postmaster general will be given authority to award contracts for initial periods of not to exceed one year. The maker of a rejected bid may appeal to the controler-general for a decision. The base rate of pay for carrying the mails may vary, unler the bill, from 33½ cents to 40 cents.

No holder of a contract may transfer or assign his contract. Temporary contracts already granted by Postmaster General Farley may be extended nine months. No official of a company holding a contract may be paid more than $17,500 annually, under the bill.

Those whose contracts have been annulled may sue in the U. S. Court of Claims for damages. After Oct. 1, no one company may hold more than three contracts. A five year sentence and $10,000 fine is provided for any person or persons found guilty of combining to prevent free bidding.

The President is empowered to appoint a commission of five to survey the aviation situation and report not later than Feb. 1, 1935, recommending a policy covering all phases of the aviation business.

The house approved the conference report May 28, and it now awaits the President's signature.

Democrats Roll Job Machine Into House and Out Again

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Proudly, the Democratic leadership rolled a nifty new party job machine into the house today, confident of its quick and unqualified approval.

Forty minutes later they dragged it out again, badly wrecked by a Republican minority so puny, as a rule, that majority chieftains had failed to take it seriously.

One hundred thousand jobs for deserving Democrats were at stake, so it was a surprising turn of events that saw the Republican Devid smite the Democratic Goliath. But it was doubly surprising when understood that the one hundred thousand jobs would become available just four days after the November elections, when all congressmen face the ordeal of the polls.

Lozier Invents It.

It was Congressman Ralph Lozier [Dem., Mo.] who invented the nice new job machine. Mr. Lozier is an important member of the so-called Democratic "patronage" committee of the house, which keeps a careful eye on the distribution of jobs to clamoring constituents.

Mr. Lozier conceived the idea of taking a nation-wide census to determine the extent of "unemployment." Only about 103,000 would be needed to do the job, he estimated, and it would only cost about 7½ million dollars.

Democratic chieftains thought it was a grand idea and brought it into the house today under suspension of the rules.

That was where they slipped up. Under suspension procedure, a two-thirds vote is required, rather than a mere majority. But the leaders were very confident and in they brought it anyway.

Snell Strikes It First.

Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell of New York greeted it this way:

"This is probably the boldest attempt ever made by any political party to pay 100,000 political election day workers out of the federal treasury. It certainly is very peculiar that it happened, out of the twelve months of the year, to be necessary to take this census in November.

"You are the party that said it was going to do away with extra employés in the government," Mr. Snell reminded the Democrats. "Yet you have established more bureaus and commissions than ever before heard of in this government, and your list of government employés is 81,000 greater than before the passage of your economy act.

"Now you have the nerve to come here and say 'We want 100,000 more jobs to enable us to carry the congressional elections.'"

Mr. Snell pointed out that the census of unemployment was highly unnecessary because the CWA and FERA and other New Deal relief agencies have compiled exhaustive statistics on the subject. As far as helping meet the unemployment problem this winter, he contended, the census would be of no use whatever because it could not be completed before July.

When the issue came to a roll-call the vote stood 226 to 128—ten ballots short of the required two-thirds—and sadly, the Democratic leaders dragged the wreckage of their nice new plan away.

They may repair it, however, and bring it in once again under a special rule requiring only a majority vote to get it through.

HIGHWAY BILL FOR 923 MILLION PASSES SENATE

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—A $923,000,000 three year road construction program was approved today by the senate, which passed the house highway bill, with authorized appropriations increased from $460,000,000 to $493,000,000. The bill now returns to the house for action on senate amendments.

The funds would be expended in addition to $230,000,000 left over from last year's $400,000,000 grant and $200,000,000 which it is proposed the states should supply in the fiscal years 1936 and 1937.

The house bill authorized a new grant of $400,000,000 for state highways and $50,000,000 for roads in national parks, public land, Indian reservations, and forest land. The senate bill cut the grant to $200,000,000 for state roads and the $50,000,000 to $30,000,000, but added authorization for continuing the federal aid highway program through 1936 and 1937.

BRITAIN CHEERS WAR DEBT STAND; PARIS GLAD, TOO

New London Policy Wins Overwhelming Support.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 5.—Great Britain today greeted with a cheer the government's new policy of refusal to make any more war debt payments until the United States consents to a substantial reduction in the obligation. All shades of political opinion united in support of the note sent to the American government yesterday outlining the British stand.

The house of commons this afternoon shouted its overwhelming approval of the note, while the general trend of editorial comment in the press is that the government is to be congratulated and that the note "clears the air." Some apprehension is expressed, however, over the effect of the note upon American feeling, and also that it may weaken the general respect, already gravely impaired, for sanctity of contracts.

Treasury Chief Reports.

The cheers in the house of commons came when Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, reported the government's action to that body. Chamberlain's report was almost a verbatim reproduction of the note to Washington, with a few added facts.

Reciting the history of the negotiations, he said the United States government in its note of Dec. 7, 1932, welcomed the suggestion of a close examination of the whole subject. The British government, he said, paid its instalment in December of that year on the understanding that it was not to be regarded as a resumption of the old system of payments, but because it was told such a payment would facilitate a satisfactory approach to the whole subject.

Discussions took place in the spring and autumn last year, he said, but it was found impossible to arrive at an acceptable settlement and in June and December, 1933, Britain made token payments and on each occasion the President of the United States expressed the personal view that Britain was not in default.

This year, Chamberlain declared, a full payment and all in arrears were demanded by the United States, which would revive the system as it was before the Hoover moratorium. This Britain could not envisage. In the British view, it would postpone indefinitly prospects for world recovery.

Avoids Word "Default."

Britain was prepared to make another token payment on June 15, the chancellor continued, but in consequence of recent American legislation [the Johnson act, which cuts off credit to defaulting nations] the former procedure could not be followed and the British government was compelled reluctantly to decide to suspend payments pending a full discussion of the situation.

Chamberlain was careful throughout the statement to avoid an admission of default. He used the word "suspension" of payment. He stressed the fact that Britain had no intention of repudiating the obligation, and was ready at any time the President is ready to enter discussions for a final settlement.

This statement revived rumors in the lobbies of the house that a mission to America some time this summer or fall has already been decided upon. Observers believe that if such a mission does go, Prime Minister MacDonald will head it. He probably would be accompanied by Chamberlain and Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, who are hard boiled negotiators. If they prove too hard boiled MacDonald's well known genius for conciliation will then come in handy.

Britain "Peeved" by U. S. "Leak."

Considerable ill feeling was caused here over the "jumping" of the release date of the British note in Washington. The British foreign office was under the impression that it had an agreement with the American state department that the contents of the note would be kept secret until this afternoon, when it would be published simultaneously in London and Washington.

This agreement was kept here, with the result that the British newspapers got their first news of the note from Washington.

When asked today why parliament had been kept in the dark for 24 hours, Chamberlain said a mistake had been made, for which neither the British nor American government was responsible, owing to a misunderstanding in Washington of a cablegram.

[The British embassy in Washington last night took full responsibility for the premature publication of the note, but did not explain how the error occurred.]

War Debts Dead—France.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 5.—"The war debts are now dead."

This sums up the opinion of official French circles and the press. Satisfaction with the British note refusing to pay the June instalment due the United States is not concealed. Qualms of conscience formerly aroused by the British token payments are now appeased with the consideration that France has solid support in defaulting.

The cabinet met this morning, but took the matter so much as settled that it did not even bother to raise the question. In an unofficial discussion later, however, the ministers expressed the view that all the war debtors, with the possible exception of Finland, will default and that President Roosevelt will be forced to call a general conference which can have only one outcome, the same as that at Lausanne in 1932, which wiped out reparations.

Italy to Follow Britain.

ROME, June 5.—(AP)—Italy will follow the example of Great Britain in making no war debt payment to the United States on June 15, semi-official circles indicated today. The government is expected to send a somewhat similar communication to that of the British explaining reasons for paying no part of the intalment of $14,471,593.

IOWA ELECTION HAS ITS MOMENT DURING DEBATE ON AIR MAIL

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—The afternoon's debate on the airmail bill was interspersed with such enjoyable little interchanges as the following between Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], and Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.].

Senator Dickinson: "Federal appointees receiving federal salaries are going over the country, instructing the citizens about the merits of the New Deal. They are paid propagandists and being paid with the taxpayers' money."

Senator Connally: "If the senator will read today's papers, he will see that they don't need any education about the New Deal in Iowa, his home state. The vote there indicates Iowa has been nicely propagandized, all right. The senator from Iowa knows all about propaganda. He is the best propagandist against the Democrats in the senate."

Senator Dickinson: "If some one didn't help keep you Democrats straight, you'd steal the gold off the capitol dome."

Senator Connally: [In amazement] "What, did the Republicans leave any gold up there when they went out?"

Senator Dickinson: "Oh, yes. There's a little left."

HARRIMAN CASE DEFENSE OPENS WITH DENIALS

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—When the first of the false entries aggregating $320,000 was made in the books of the defunct Harriman National Bank & Trust company on Dec. 14, 1931, Joseph W. Harriman, the president, had a minimum net worth of $2,463,822.92, according to Frederick W. Scholz, certified public accountant.

Mr. Scholz was the first defense witness called at the trial in federal court before Judge Knox of Harriman and Albert Murray Austin, the former executive vice president of the bank, on charges of misapplying $1,713,080 of the bank's funds and of causing false entries to be made in its books.

Wrangle for 2 Hours.

The question as to Harriman's net worth was answered only after two and a half hours of wrangling between defense counsel and Assistant United States Attorney Jacob J. Rosenblum. The prosecutor demanded that each and every record inspected by Mr. Scholz in his computation of Harriman's worth be produced and marked in evidence before he would consent to having the testimony heard.

The eagerness of the defense to show Harriman's net worth was not clearly understood. Carl C. Francis, national bank examiner and star witness for the prosecution, testified that on March 20, 1931, Harriman told him he was worth 14 million dollars, most of which "was in marketable securities." George S. Leisure, Harriman's attorney, said in his opening address to the jury that Harriman is now a "penniless old man."

Relied on "Integrity."

Mr. Francis admitted he had not checked up on Harriman's own statement of his worth because he relied "upon his integrity as a banker."

In his opening address Mr. Leisure indicated he would show that Harriman sank every dollar he owned in the bank in his effort to keep it afloat and he pointed out that at the time he stands accused of causing false entries to be made in the books of the bank, Harriman had sufficient personal wealth to cover every item himself.

From Mr. Scholz's figures it appeared that Harriman's net worth had shrunk by about $1,500,000 from Dec. 31, 1929, to Dec. 14, 1931.

U. S. "5 AND 10" STORES STORMED BY MOBS OF NAZIS

Called "Reprisal" for American Boycott.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 5.—The propaganda ministry today issued a statement explaining the smashing of windows in the American owned Woolworth stores at Kassel and other German cities as a "reprisal for the American boycott of German goods."

"The demonstrations were due to the resentment of the German people against the American boycott of German goods," the statement said. "They do not have the approval of authorities and the Nazi party, which will take the necessary steps to prevent a recurrence of such incidents."

The window smashing follows reports that the Woolworth stores in America had placed cards in their windows saying that German goods were not sold there.

Stores Are Picketed.

Trouble started in Kassel yesterday when an excited crowd gathered in front of a Woolworth store. Pickets warned prospective customers not to buy from "Jewish-owned American firms which are boycotting German goods." The store was compelled to close early in the afternoon, but reopened this morning "against the advice of police," the authorities declare.

Though officials promised the American embassy that they would see that Woolworth stores were not molested after Der Deutsche, Labor Front organ, published an attack on these stores on June 1, this official paper printed no retraction. On the contrary, its editor, Robert Ley, leader of the Labor Front, in a speech at Koenigsberg remarked on the necessity of "directing the gaze of the German worker to foreign countries and to the abominable activities of the anti-Germany boycott."

Part of the Nazi press continues to denounce Woolworth stores as Jewish, though this allegation was officially retracted previously by the Nazi organ, Voelkischer Zeobachter.

Bar "Christian" Label.

Some Nazis claim that attacks on Woolworth stores are the "spontaneous protests of the masses against the activities of Samuel Untermyer and his friends."

The Nuremberg headquarters of anti-Semitism in Germany ruled today that henceforth enterprises should not be labeled "Christian." The ruling said:

"There are only two kinds of shops in Germany—German shops or Jewish shops. It is indifferent to authorities whether a Jew belongs to the Protestant or Catholic faith—the Jew remains a Jew."

NO BOYCOTT HERE.

No boycott of German goods is in force in the Woolworth stores in Chicago and none will be placed in effect without orders from the general offices of the company in New York, W. J. Rand Jr., manager of the Chicago district for the firm, said last night.

"I have no knowledge of any signs indicating a boycott being placed in Chicago stores," Mr. Rand said. "I am sure no individual store manager would dare place such placards without instructions, and I would not issue orders except on word from New York. As to the other districts, of course, I do not know."

LUTHER NAMED AS BACKER FOR NAZI CAMPAIGN

Propaganda Charge Told House Group.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Facts and figures to show that officials of the German government had spent money for the dissemination of pro-German information in the United States were placed today before a special house committee.

The German ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, and the German consul general in New York city, Dr. Otto Kiep, figured in the committee's opening investigation of "un-American" activities in the United States.

Charge $4,000 Payment.

Dr. Kiep was said to have paid $4,000 to a New York City publicity and business promotion firm to "obtain publicity in this country" of anti-Semitic statements. He was said, also, to have contributed, unofficially and in behalf of a third person, $300 in $50 bills for the publication of a pro-German pamphlet. Dr. Luther was described as the financial backer and sponsor of the pamphlet.

Under examination, Carl Dickey, partner in the New York firm of Carl Byoir and Associates, said his firm has a contract with the German tourist information office, receiving $6,000 a month "giving advice, counsel, and getting together material for travel information."

Sends Economic Bulletin.

About twice a month, too, he testified, a sheet titled "German-American Economic Bulletin" is prepared and mailed to a "list of about 3,000 newspapers and some few business institutions."

Before this contract was signed—for 18 months beginning Nov. 1, 1933—Dickey said he had been paid $4,000 in currency by Dr. Kiep for "helping to get out releases for the consul intended for publication in newspapers."

"He paid you $4,000 to obtain publicity in this country on statements favoring anti-Semitism?" asked Chairman McCormack [Dem., Mass.].

"Yes," replied Dickey.

An earlier witness, the Rev. Francis Gross of Perth Amboy, N. J., linked Ambassador Luther with alleged pro-German propaganda in a letter which he read to the committee.

Father Gross, a retired Catholic priest, told how he had published a pamphlet entitled "Justice to Hungary, Germany and Austria."

CRUSADERS SOON TO LAUNCH WAR ON RADICALISM

Nation-Wide Organization Is Planned.

Reorganization of Chicago's Crusaders for a battle against radical tendencies which are endangering the principles of Americanism and constitutional government will begin within a few weeks. This was announced yesterday by Seymour Wheeler, vice national commander of the Crusaders and spokesman for the Chicago unit.

"The Crusaders aided in winning the campaign against prohibition," Mr. Wheeler said, "and now are prepared to wage another battle for enlightenment. The organizing work is already under way in New York and will soon begin here."

Plan National Organization.

Nation-wide organization by congressional districts is planned. The Crusaders will campaign through the districts by presenting economic facts, stimulating discussion and analyzing political candidacies in the light of major economic and governmental issues.

"Free and open discussion of governmental acts, policies and tendencies is the very life force of a representative democracy," read a new statement of the Crusaders' principles.

"Only as a result of the various forces in a democracy can good government and representative government be assured. If a majority remain silent we have government by organized minorities, government by fear and by pressure.

"Our nation has embarked on a far-reaching program, many elements of which are admittedly experimental. Repeated assurances have been given that if any of these experiments prove unsuccessful they will be discontinued or modified.

Won't Present Candidates.

"The Crusaders propose to organize on a national, nonpartisan basis—to make articulate the voice of the great mass of unorganized citizens of this country. They will provide an unselfish vehicle by which the administration can know for a certainty the effects of all governmental experiments. The Crusaders have no political ambitions and no candidates. They believe that the majority of the people want a sound government which will give them the greatest equality of opportunity, the largest measure of liberty under the constitution, and all possible economic security.

"The Crusaders' platform is one on which all good citizens can stand in complete agreement—that American policies shall not be dictated by self-seeking minorities, but shall honestly and accurately be of the people, by the people, and for the people."

For Sound Government.

In a booklet entitled "Which Way America?" sent out from the Crusaders' headquarters at 100 East 42d street, New York City, organization officials state that the time has come for activity on behalf of sound government because "the unchecked operation of many present forces may easily lead to fundamental errors of the gravest consequence."

That government effort must stimulate private enterprise, not supplant it, is one of the tenets of the Crusaders. Necessary emergency relief and intelligent improvement of banking and investment systems are approved, but the Crusaders contend that the government should help the employers to put men to work rather than allow the government to be the great employer.

CHRIST FOUGHT 'JEWISH SPIRIT,' NEW NAZI THEORY

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 5.—Christ came into the world to combat the "Jewish spirit." This is the latest contribution of the Hitlerite party in the German Protestant church to Christian theology and appears in the Sunday Post, official organ of "German Christians," in Wurtemberg.

"The Bible itself says Christ was not a full blooded Jew," says the Post. "Since His mother was a Jewess, the most that can be said is that He was half Jew. However, since He had a divine and not a Jewish father, it is a question whether His character was particularly influenced by the fact of His corporeal birth.

"That he came to life in Judea and submitted to Jewish law must be explained as follows: If He were to attack and conquer the Jewish spirit then He could not enter into life in a country where there were no Jews—Germany, for instance. The warrior must go forth to war in the land of his enemies."

A. of C. Indorses Drive to Aid Firemen's Fund

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday announced its indorsement of the campaign headed by Fire Commissioner Arthur R. Seyferlich to raise public subscriptions for the firemen's relief funds. Organizations which will benefit are the Firemen's Mutual Aid and Benefit association, the Benevolent Association of the Paid Fire Department, and the firemen's pension fund. The program includes a series of baseball games between Chicago fire fighters and those of Columbus, O., starting July 10.

$10,000 PAINT COMPANY FIRE.

Damage estimated at $10,000 was caused yesterday by flames which broke out in the dry color room of the Sherwin-Williams Paint company, 115th street and Cottage Grove avenue.

HOW NEW DEAL WORKS IN CORN LOAN INSURANCE

Farmer Liable After U. S. Is Paid in Case of Loss.

John Jones is an Iowa farmer. When the Agricultural Adjustment administration came along with its corn-hog reduction program, he had a thousand bushels of corn in his crib. He borrowed 45 cents a bushel on the corn. As part of the $20 charge for obtaining the loan, he paid an insurance premium to protect the corn against fire or other loss.

The crib burned down. The insurance company paid the government the $450 it had loaned John. Then the company notified John Jones that the government had turned the note for $450 which he signed over to the company, and that he would have to repay the $450 which the company had already given the government, or be sued for it on his note.

This is an imaginary case, but it is the exact situation which faces every middle western farmer who borrowed money on his corn from the Commodity Credit corporation, the brain trust creation which is advancing money to farmers on the security of their corn and cotton.

Cotton Planters Protected.

Cotton planters of the solidly Democratic south, however, are exempt from this New Deal in insurance. If their cotton burns, the insurance company pays the government, and they are freed from repaying their loans.

The insurance companies are not responsible for the discrimination between the cotton planters and the corn raisers of the normally Republican middle west. The insurance contracts for both types of commodity were prepared by the same brain trust corporation, the CCC, and the companies got them on a competitive bidding basis.

The contrast between the two insurance contracts was pointed out yesterday by G. Carter Johnson, editor of the Insurance Producers Bulletin, an information service on new sources of insurance business.

Insurance Principle Involved.

The principle under which the insurance company can recover from the farmer whose corn has been destroyed is known as subrogation. It is embodied in several types of insurance policies, among them those insuring the owner of an automobile against damage to his own car in a collision.

Under such a policy, the company pays the insured for his damages, and the company then subrogates, or succeeds to the right of the policyholder to start suit for damages against the man who struck his car.

Previously, however, subrogation has been used only to recover damages from a third party who through malice or carelessness caused the damage covered by the insurance policy. The CCC policy extends this principle to application against the farmer borrower even though he is innocent of any lack of care in the loss of his grain.

Under the corn loan plan a bank which loans money on corn may, under proper conditions, discount the farmer's note with the CCC. The bank may also avail itself of the insurance contract. In case of fire, however, the bank receives the same protection as the CCC and the insurance company may still recover from the farmer the damages it pays.

Set Forth in Contract.

Two sections of the insurance contract for lending agencies which discount such loans set this forth as follows:

"In the event of payment of loss under this indorsement (discount of the farmer's note) the companies shall be subrogated to all rights of recovery of the assured of any nature whatsoever.

"The insurance under this indorsement is for the benefit of the leading agency only and does not in any way affect the liability of the producer under the terms of the loan agreement."

The farmer may himself insure his corn, and under the laws of a number of states governing warehouses, which apply to loans on the sealed corn in his crib, he is required to do so. If he does insure it, however, he still has to pay the premium on the government insurance, although the CCC insurance contract provides that the insuring company shall not be liable for losses if the farmer is reimbursed for his loss on his own policy.

DAIRY RAISES PRICE IT PAYS FOR SURPLUS MILK NEAR ROCKFORD

Rockford, Ill., June 5.—[Special.]—Nearby milk condenseries at Pecatonica, Chemung, and Belvidere, Ill., increased prices to farmers for surplus milk to the highest level in 3½ years today as milk production continued to slump here and farmers prepared to hold a massmeeting here tomorrow to force a price rise.

The Dean Milk company, operating three plants, notified the local milk marketing coöperative that it would pay $1.25 per 100 pounds for all surplus milk, which is 8 cents above the estimated milk code price and within 25 cents of the present fluid milk price.

A shortage of soy bean seed developed as farmers sought to replace burned out fields with soy beans to be used as forage next fall in place of the hay crop which has failed.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Hens Blame Drouth.

June 5, 1934.

If a couple of Barred Rock hens could talk the English language I have the feeling that today they would turn in a report like this: "Our failure is on account of the drouth and the heat." These two hens have been sitting on clutches of eggs. Apparently they had been doing a faithful job. But yesterday they came off their nests with just nine Barred Rock chicks. Nine chicks from two settings is nothing for any setting hen to do much clucking about. This is the poorest hatch recorded so far this season. It must be due to the extremely hot weather. So far the score on the Barred Rocks is 112 chicks hatched to date. Three were lost, so there are 109 developing these days under the watchful eyes of the fussy hens.

Now that the experimental farm has been given a pretty generous sprinkling by a thundershower the boys have been able to smile a little when they look at the planted fields. The shower Sunday night lasted about an hour and a half. Clarence says the rainfall penetrated the soil from two to three inches. It's amazing how this rain has pushed row after row of seed sprouts above the ground. Whereas before this rain you couldn't see anything but bare, dry ground in some of the fields, now you can look at straight rows of green where the crops have pushed their heads above the soil.

The rain was the climax of a very busy week-end here on the farm. On both Saturday and Sunday visitors were numerous. Among the visitors who came to see the experimental farm was a delegation representing the Prairie Club of Chicago, the famous organization of nature fans and cross country hikers. A bus brought 60 members of this club to the farm about 10 o'clock in the morning. They hiked down to the timber along the river and then walked west through the woods to the Plano bridge which spans the Fox river.

The sheep on the auxiliary farm now are roaming around through a 30 acre tract of rye which was so badly affected by the drouth that it couldn't be cut. However, one plot of 10 acres has been mowed and is being fed as hay. The funny thing about the sheep that are feeding in the 30 acres is that they don't seem to be very keen about the rye. Instead of wading into this green stuff they are going to work first on the grass along the edges and the big crop of burdock. It seems funny that any animal should turn down growing rye to pick on a rank weed like burdock.

There is a very aristocratic new "sheik" in the sheep world here on the auxiliary farm. He has just come—a husky Corriedale ram. All the Southdown rams on the place apparently don't care very much about this new arrival. The reason for adding a Corriedale to the herd of sheep was that this strain is excellent for both mutton and wool. By crossing the Corriedale with the other breeds on the farm it is hoped to get an animal that will grow a better fleece and at the same time be valuable for mutton. The Corriedale is a hornless breed. It is extremely popular in New Zealand. The face, ears and fleece are white in color, the typical fleece being about five inches long.

The raccoons and 'possums continue to keep Rawlings busy with his traps. He has just caught the 38th 'possum since Jan. 1, if you count the animals of all sizes that have been picked up in the live traps.

CURATORS VOTE TO KEEP DRILL AT MISSOURI U

Columbia, Mo., June 5.—(AP)—The University of Missouri board of curators late today voted down unanimously a faculty suggestion to make military training for underclassmen optional.

The board adopted a resolution stating it would continue to require compulsory military drill at the university for freshmen and sophomores and rejected the faculty proposal that students be permitted to take two years of physical training as an alternative.

Dismissal three months ago of Eugene Ringo, 20 years old, Columbia freshman, for refusal to attend military drill after a plea of "conscientious objection" precipitated the agitation against compulsory military training at the university.

In addition to the faculty proposal the board today had before it petitions signed by 700 university students urging the abolition of compulsory military drill and resolutions of more than fifty state organizations, Dr. Walter Williams, president, said.

MUNICIPAL LIGHT PLANTS DECLINE HALF IN 50 YEARS

Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—(AP)—George B. Cortelyou, president of the Edison Electric institute, today said that less than half the municipally owned electric plants established in this country since 1882 are in existence today.

Cortelyou, former secretary of the treasury, told the Edison institute at its second annual convention that municipal plants in 1932 served a population of 7 million 200 thousand and the electric light and power companies served 82 million 700 thousand, or 92 per cent of the total.

"The relative growth of the two systems over a fifty year period," he said, "speaks eloquently for the performance of the privately operated companies."

HIGH PRIEST, 157, IS BURIED ALIVE AT OWN REQUEST

SIMLA, India, June 5.—(AP)—Religious pilgrims today verified the report that the aged Shamanist abbot of a temple near Bareilly has been buried alive at his own request.

The abbot, who was reputed to be 157 years old, believed his life's work was over, and that to live on would be an affront to the deities. Pilgrims reported he lay down in a grave and that faithful followers, after performing ancient ceremonies, covered him with earth.

In deciding to destroy himself the abbot followed an age old practice of his religion, which teaches that life is futile after usefulness has ceased. He had been in the temple more than 50 years.

Rep. Thomas C. Coffin Seriously Hurt by Auto

Washington, D. C., June 6 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Physicians early today expressed little hope for the recovery of Thomas C. Coffin, representative from the second Idaho district, from injuries he received late yesterday when he was struck by an automobile. Immediately after the accident, which occurred as he was crossing a drive near the capitol, Coffin underwent an operation for a fractured skull in Providence hospital.

Finds Rare 14th Century Art Work Under Attic Dust

BESANCON, France, June 5.—(AP)—A polyptych believed to be a priceless example of fourteenth century art has been found in a dust covered heap of material in the attic of the museum here. The series of pictures, on a succession of panels, represent scenes of the passion of Christ.

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to curb stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching, and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,169 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the Udga Treatment. All stomach sufferers may have a free sample by writing to Udga, Suite 85, Foot-Schulze Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. The seven-day trial box of Udga Tablets is sold under a money-back guarantee of satisfaction by good druggists everywhere.

8,000,000 LIVES IS COST OF SOVIET FARM "RELIEF"

Huge Loss Fails to Shake Moscow Brain Trust.

This is the third of a series of articles by The Tribune's correspondent in eastern Europe. He seeks to answer the question whether workers are better off under the planned economy of Russia than are workers of the United States.

BY DONALD DAY.

Farm relief has been tried in Russia. The Moscow dictatorship has been experimenting with various brands of farm relief since 1917. The result has been the death of eight or ten million Russian farmers.

This figure may sound incredible, but three diplomats who have been representing their countries in Moscow from three to six years soberly informed The Tribune correspondent that during the last autumn and winter between five and six million inhabitants of the Ukraine and Northern Caucasus died of famine and typhus and other plagues attendant to famine. I met these men in different cities and at different times. I know them all personally and have never found them given to exaggeration. They admit their figures are approximate.

Their explanation for this tragedy, which passed almost unnoticed by the world, is that the Moscow government used the Red army to collect the entire grain crop of these regions and sent it to be stored in Siberia in preparation for a possible war with Japan.

Famine Worse This Year.

I met one of these diplomats again just before my departure to Chicago and he told me that the famine was worse this year.

The chief of protocol of the Moscow foreign office, M. Florinski, had discussed the famine quite openly with this diplomat and declared that the Kremlin was not concerned with the large loss of life of the peasants, whose individualism made them oppose the communist régime. Florinski said the Kremlin was already busy with great plans to settle the depopulated famine districts with city dwellers, who during the past fifteen years had become "collective minded," and who accept regimentation as a natural thing.

If the agricultural theorists in Washington who are attempting to boost prices through regimenting the American farmers and controling their production would step over to the files of the state department they would discover several hundred reports on this subject written by competent American observers attached to the American legation in Riga, Latvia.

Former Granary; Now Importer.

The history of farm relief in Russia, according to these reports and to the reports of the official soviet newspapers, is tragic. Russia, formerly the granary of Europe, has become a regular importer of grain from the United States, Canada, Poland, and other European countries. Before Lenin and his farm relief started to improve the conditions of the Russian farmer Russia contained millions of pigs. Today Moscow is buying pigs on credit from whomever will sell them. More than 200,000 porkers have been purchased during the last year from the Baltic states, Poland, Denmark, and Holland.

The Moscow Kremlin did not order the farmers to kill their pigs or plow up their grain fields. Instead, Lenin inflated the Russian ruble over a period of years. When the peasants discovered their produce was worthless they halted cattle and pig breeding and stopped cultivation. One famine followed another as Lenin and his successors attempted to force the farmers to surrender their produce through confiscation and taxes in kind.

Moscow Eyes Washington.

Russia has been under the rule of a brain trust for fifteen years, but in the Kremlin the brain trust is known as the Politbureau, the political bureau of the communist party, which is controled by Dictator Stalin and which originates farm relief and other national policies. These are enforced by decrees and the decrees are backed up by the G. P. U., which even has its special army to deal with farmers' strikes and industrial conflicts.

The Moscow Kremlin is watching the developments in Washington with intense interest and official publications are filled with articles discussing the "developments of the American brain trust."

U. S. TO BUY REST OF SO. ILLINOIS RED TOP GRASS SEED SURPLUS

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Representatives Arnold and Parsons, both Democrats of Illinois, said today that advertisments for bids had been sent out by the National Surplus Relief corporation for two million more pounds of red top grass seed.

The congressmen said this purchase would be in addition to the 1,246,000 pounds purchased by the corporation several weeks ago.

The seed will be used, they said, in planting road shoulders, soil erosion plots, and on other federal projects.

"The 3,246,000 pounds of red top seed," said Parsons, "will practically exhaust the surplus seed in the southern Illinois counties, where 95 per cent of the world's crop of that grass is raised."

TURNING TO DOLE IS UNAMERICAN, BUTLER ASSERTS

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Nicholas Murray Butler described the "strongly marked present tendency of turning to the government, particularly the federal government, for help, or for dole," as "strangely un-American and even anti-American," in his address at Columbia university's commencement today.

Dr. Butler, president of the university, conferred honorary degrees on Secretary of State Cordell Hull and nine others, while degrees, diplomas, and certificates were presented to more than 5,000 students.

"It has been estimated" said Dr. Butler, "that before the depression nearly two and a quarter billion dollars annually was given by the American people for the maintenance of institutions of public service in the field of liberty.

"If this is not to be destroyed, a scheme of taxation for the support of government and its activities must be devised which will not undermine the foundations upon which it rests.

"Surely reflection will make it clear that if the power and opportunity to render public service in the field of liberty is to be destroyed by taxation, and if thereby activities of government are to be multiplied and their advantages vigorously competed for by organized and self seeking minorities, our whole American scheme of life and thought and government will have come to an end."

"Stop and Sock" Golf Course Manager Robbed

Two armed men stopped last night at the "stop and sock" golf course of Lloyd Voorhees at 2601 Addison street and after striking down Ivar Anderberg, a watchman, robbed Voorhees of $150 and a set of clubs. They fled in an automobile with a third member of their gang at the wheel.

• • A DOLLAR AND A HALF WORTH OF OIL PROTECTED THIS MOTOR FOR OVER FOUR THOUSAND MILES!

AAA SANCTION NO. 3001

Low Consumption and Motor Protection proved in the most daring and convincing Motor Oil Test ever made . . . .

When New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil was perfected, it had lubrication values so great that a mere statement of them would seem absurd. Could you believe that any motor could run 4,729 miles on just five quarts of oil before wrecking itself? It did—and Conoco proved it in this test, in competition with five widely known, nationally advertised, quality brands of motor oil!

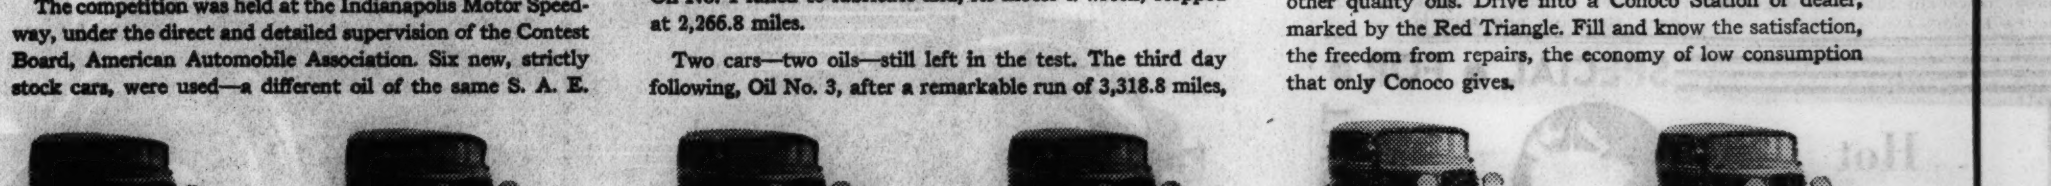
The competition was held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, under the direct and detailed supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association. Six new, strictly stock cars, were used—a different oil of the same S. A. E. grade in each. No one but AAA officials knew the brand in any of the cars until the AAA final report was given, after the test was completed.

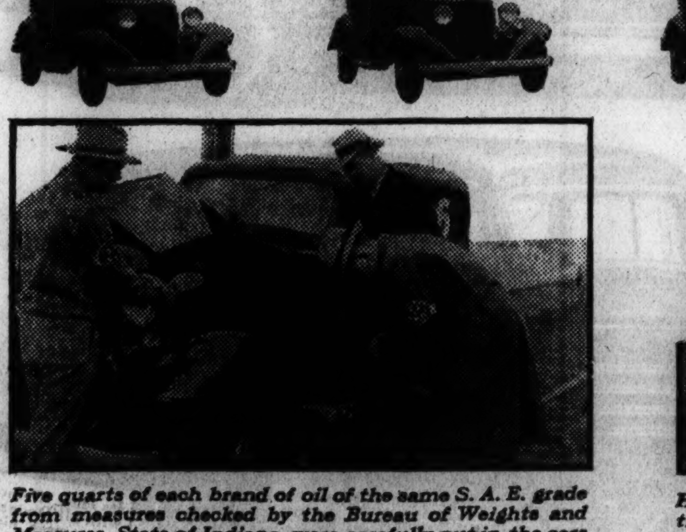
After the cars were broken in for 2,500 miles, they were drained, examined and a fresh fill of five quarts put in each crankcase. No more oil was added. Then the crankcases were sealed by an AAA official. The real test began. It was ordered that they be driven at an average of 500 miles a day at 50 miles an hour until their motors failed to operate. Oil No. 4 was first to fail at 1,713.2 miles, its motor cracked and broken. An hour and twenty minutes later, Oil No. 6 failed at 1,764.4 miles; then a little over fifty miles farther, Oil No. 5 ruined its motor at 1,815.9 miles; three of them, though with proud names, were out of the running. It was the next day when Oil No. 1 failed to lubricate and, its motor a wreck, stopped at 2,266.8 miles.

Two cars—two oils—still left in the test. The third day following, Oil No. 3, after a remarkable run of 3,318.8 miles, came to a shuddering stop, and the last competitor of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Oil, was out. The lone car, with this tremendously vital oil, labeled No. 2, went on and on. The balance of the day passed, and the next day, over 1,400 miles farther, the car kept its pace of 50 miles an hour. On the tenth day, at the almost unbelievable total of 4,729 miles, it failed—an all-time record mileage on a total of five quarts!

The "Hidden Quart" of new oily penetrativeness won—the greater film strength and higher resistance to the effects of dilution—the absence of carbon and sludge—all aided in this great achievement. It firmly supported Conoco's patented principle of added oiliness—it proved every claim. Conoco alone can make oil this way. It is covered by recent United States patents.

You can have this oil in your car, for it costs no more than other quality oils. Drive into a Conoco Station or dealer, marked by the Red Triangle. Fill and know the satisfaction, the freedom from repairs, the economy of low consumption that only Conoco gives.

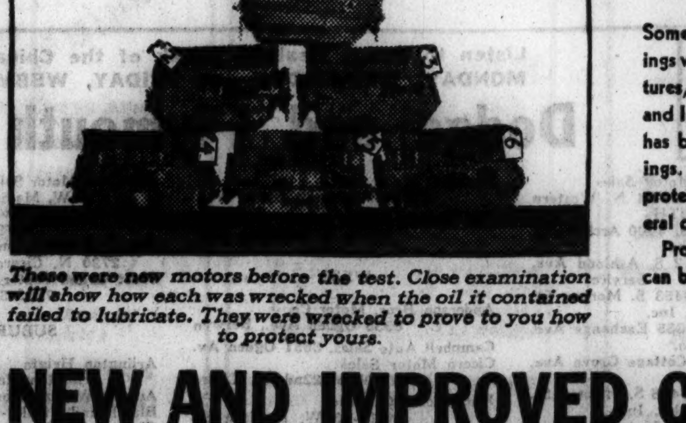




Five quarts of each brand of oil of the same S. A. E. grade from measures checked by the Bureau of Weights and Measures, State of Indiana, were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

Here are the representatives of the contest board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in. No addition of oil was permitted in this "destruction" test.



These were new motors before the test. Close examination will show how each was wrecked when the oil it contained failed to lubricate. They were wrecked to prove to you how to protect yours.

Warning to new car owners

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results show that it gives them greater protection against damage than many straight mineral oils now on the market.

Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.

FAIR DISTILLERY SHUT AFTER ROW ON LIQUOR SALES

Demands Right to Sell Miniature Bottles.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The Hiram Walker & Sons distillery exhibit in the Doodlebug building at A Century of Progress, an exhibit representing an estimated investment of $150,000, was closed yesterday by orders of William E. Hull, former Peoria congressman, vice president and general manager of the distillery.

WILLIAM E. HULL.

Representatives of Mr. Hull said the exhibit was closed and would remain closed because the Fair management failed to live up to a verbal contract permitting the retail sale of miniature bottles of whisky and gin in the Canadian Club café, which is operated in the Doodlebug building.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress, declared after an exchange of telegrams between Mr. Hull and the Fair management that Earle D. Morris, operator of the cafe, had violated a rule of the Fair in selling the miniature bottles of liquor over souvenir stands instead of at tables.

Threaten to Sue Fair.

"Liquor on the Fair grounds may be sold only at a bona fide restaurant, to customers seated at tables," said Lohr. "We cannot let one do what others cannot do on the grounds."

Representatives of the Hiram Walker company declared that if the Fair management "refuses to stick to the agreement made with Mr. Morris," thus preventing the company from having an outlet for the whisky and gin bottled in the exhibit space, the company would sue the Fair, probably for the amount of the investment, $150,000.

"Let them sue," said Maj. Lohr. "How the Hiram Walker company can object to what we do to the restaurant we do not see."

In a telegram sent to President Rufus Dawes of the Fair, Mr. Hull said he had instructed his manager, George W. Barrette, to close the exhibit until "such time as the Fair lives up to its contract." The telegram said Nathaniel A. Owings, who is in charge of Fair concessions, had "refused to allow Mr. Morris to sell miniature bottles of liquor in a place designated for such sale by Mr. Owings in the presence of at least eight men."

"The balance of our rent will not be paid," Mr. Hull's telegram declared, "and if repudiation continues we must demand return of money already paid."

$25,000 Rent Paid.

The Hiram Walker & Sons company has paid the Fair $25,000 in rent for 5,000 square feet of space in the Doodlebug building, which is located in the lagoon off the 16th street bridge, and owes the Exposition approximately $35,000 for rent and construction charges, according to Mr. Barrette.

"I shall continue to do business at the Canadian Club café," said Mr. Morris. "The closing of the Hiram Walker exhibit will not affect us."

Light showers slowed up attendance at the Fair in the early afternoon yesterday, but at midnight the total paid admissions had exceeded the total for Tuesday last week. The midnight figure was 33,027, compared with 28,441 last Tuesday.

COURT ASKED TO NAME RECEIVER FOR CEMETERY

A bill for an accounting and for the appointment of a receiver for the Modern Cemetery and Mausoleum company, which operates the Northshore Garden of Memories cemetery near North Chicago, was filed yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan by Mrs. H. J. Jaeger, John Henry Jaeger, and Theresa Jaeger of Freeport.

It was charged in the bill that John Western, president of the corporation, had voted himself a controling interest in the common stoc and had mishandled the funds of the organization, besides placing his relatives on the cemetery pay roll at high salaries. Holders of common and preferred stock, it was alleged, were allowed no voice in the management.

Western asserted that there was nothing in the charges and that the majority of the stockholders were satisfied with his management.

2 Guilty of Intimidating Operators of Milk Store

Charged with attempting to get members for the now defunct Independent Milk Stores association through intimidation, James T. McMullen, 5047 Chicago avenue, and Vincent De Gennaro, 4058 Division street, were found guilty yesterday by Municipal Judge Samuel Heller. The complainants were William Simonson and his wife, Lillian, who operate a milk store at 5635 Fullerton avenue. Both defendants insisted they had merely asked Simonson to join the association. Although Judge Heller indicated he would grant probation, a delay of two weeks was granted for an appeal.

STUDENTS LAND IN COURT AFTER NIGHT'S UPROAR

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—A magistrate laid down the law to 64 University of Pennsylvania students today, fined them $10 each for breaking the peace, then withdrew the sentence and turned the Rowbottom demonstrators over to university authorities.

Clad, and partly clad, in pajamas, shorts, and similar oddments, the students marched out of court, most of them facing final examinations.

The Rowbottom began with water fights on the campus, with the students soon halting street cars and buses, hurling milk bottles at the passengers, and opening fire hydrants. Fraternity house windows were shattered by flying missiles.

In a hotel the students swung from a large glass chandelier until it crashed to the floor. All available police in West Philadelphia were called.

Century of Progress Notes

A garden of flowering cacti planted by the Chicago Cactus society in the patio in the California hacienda in the Horticultural building contains a century plant just beginning to flower.

A special children's day feature at the Colonial village this week will be conducted tours of American historic shrines by Joseph Barron, recently an instructor of historic architecture at the University of Wisconsin, and an expert on colonial America. The tours, free to those in the village, will begin at 11 a. m.

A case of machine guns, revolvers, and rogues' gallery portraits of mail car bandits captured and convicted are on view in the postoffice departments exhibit in the Federal building. A collection of historic documents includes the peace treaty with Great Britain signed in 1783.

Beginning today the free daily concerts in the open air theater of Swift's Bridge of Service will start one hour later, at noon, when Arthur Dunham makes his first organ recital of the day. The home economics lectures, including short courses in nutrition, meat cutting, and food preparation, have also changed their schedule and will be given daily, except Sunday, from 5:45 to 6:45 p. m.

June 15 will be Midland Authors' night at Merrie England on the Fair grounds. President Vincent Starrett has appointed Mrs. Harold Pynchon to take charge of the program, which will include a dinner at the Cheshire Cheese, replica of a famous old hostelry in England, and a performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" in the Old Globe theater.

Showers and wind which visited the Exposition yesterday afternoon did not worry John Ross Reed, general manager of Wings of a Century. Reed announced that his men had just completed the erection of one of the world's largest canvas canopies ever fabricated in one piece, which will cover the seats in his outdoor theater.

Eight orphans, between the ages of 14 and 16 years, from the Salvation Army Children's home of Detroit, will arrive in Chicago today to spend two days seeing the Exposition.

Twenty-five officers of the Chicago Advertising Women's club met at dinner last night on the roof garden restaurant of the Wilson & Co. pavilion in the heart of the Midway on Northerly island.

Thirty of the 56 original members of the 1900 class of the Chicago Manual Training school attended a dinner in the Trustees' lounge of the Administration building last night. Of the others, six are dead and the rest scattered throughout the world. Among those sending telegrams explaining their absence were Noble Judah, former minister to Cuba, and Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National bank.

The Illinois Host building at A Century of Progress will be the scene tomorrow of the finals in the first annual school choral contest sponsored among the county's school children outside of Chicago. Winners of six divisions will compete for prizes to be distributed by County Superintendent of Schools Otto F. Aken.

Twelve dancers in Serge Oukrainsky's ballet in the Mexican Village called on President Rufus Dawes yesterday to protest against being vaccinated on the arm. It is a rule of the health department that all Fair employés and persons employed in concessions must be vaccinated. The girls were allowed to be vaccinated on the legs, as they preferred scars on the legs to scars on the arms.

New additions to the Smithsonian institution's exhibit in the Federal building this year include Elias Howe's original sewing machine and the first cotton gin model designed by Eli Whitney, which has not left Washington before. Another rarity is a log book of the Savannah, the first American steamship to cross the Atlantic ocean, in 1819. The ship went from Savannah, Ga., to Liverpool in 24 days. Beside it is exhibited the barograph from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, which flew across the Atlantic in little less than 33 hours.

"Slim" Williams, who drove his pack of huskies from Alaska to Chicago on a 5,600 mile hop for the 1933 World's Fair, arrived at A Century of Progress yesterday in a motor sedan, his dog team and sled in a trailer, from Washington.

BOATS TO CARRY PASSENGERS TO THE FAIR TODAY

Fair-goers who wish to travel from the loop or the north shore by water may do so beginning today. George L. Hart, chief of the water transportation department of the Exposition, said boat landings will be opened at the Island Midway, at 12th street, at Swift bridge, 23d street, and at the Streets of Paris. The Progress Amusement company will operate 20 fast motorboats to 12th street from the Michigan avenue bridge, State street and the river and the Merchandise Mart, at 50 cents a trip for adults. Service from the Lake Shore Athletic club and the Edgewater Beach hotel will be $1. Travel to 23d street is 50 cents additional. Children may ride for half fare.

Six steamers and large cruisers will be operated from the Michigan avenue bridge direct to the 23d street dock by the Chicago Steamer Lines, Inc. The trip requires 40 minutes. Adults pay 25 cents; children, 15 cents. Sightseeing rides may be made from 23d street into the lake, by steamer, or thrill rides taken on motor boats, without readmission fee being required.

Petitions Court to Enforce Ban on All Night Parking

A petition for a writ of mandamus to compel Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman to enforce the trafic ordinance prohibiting parking on the streets for longer periods than 30 minutes between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m. was filed yesterday in the Circuit court. The petitioner is Jacob K. Grill, 4149 Keystone avenue. He charges that more than 100,000 cars are now parked all night in violation of the ordinance, causing a public nuisance.

SLAYING SUSPECT ARRESTED.

Stanford, Ky., June 5.—(AP)—A man who Indiana officers said was Charles Ewing, 44, wanted for slaying his wife and her father in Hancock county, Indiana, in 1927, was arrested here today. The man denied the charge.

'JOURNALIST' WRITES 'EXIT THE FOOL' AND KILLS SELF BY GAS

Morse, who is from Twin Falls, Idaho, was found dead in an automobile with a tube attached to the exhaust pipe of a truck in his mouth.

Officers found a note on the body and revealed a portion, which read:

"If the Sea Coast Echo [Bay St. Louis, Miss., weekly newspaper] wants a story, suggest the following headline: 'Exit the Fool—Death Takes All Comers — Prominent Young Journalist Takes Bow.'"

MISSES DEATH IN PRISON; NOW HE'S PARDONED

Austin, Tex., June 5.—(AP)—J. B. Silver, 31, saved from the electric chair at the eleventh hour, will be released from prison July 11, 1936, under a clemency order granted by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Silver participated in a robbery in which Roscoe Wilson, treasurer of a Fort Worth theater, was killed.

His head was being shaved in preparation for his death in the electric chair when Gov. Dan Moody's order commuting his sentence to life imprisonment reached the state penitentiary. Silver fainted.

About six months later he escaped from the Wynne state prison farm, but was recaptured.

His conduct since has been exemplary, prison officials said.

SEIZE ONE OF 3 BOY KILLERS IN INDIANA CHASE

Scottsburg, Ind., June 5.—[Special.]—One of three quick shooting young desperadoes, who aroused southern Indiana to the greatest man hunt in recent years with a murder and a kidnaping, was captured near Bedford late this afternoon by Indiana state police.

The youth was taken in custody near where Ralph Shields, 18 year old farm boy, was released by a bandit who held him up near Underwood, Ind., and forced the young farmer to drive him away. Shields said the bandit forced him to drive for several hours but finally got out of the car at Bedford.

The captured bandit gave the name of Robert Neal, though when arrested he said he was Jack Tiney of Indianapolis. He was taken immediately to the scene of the slaying of Sherif Harold Amick, killed last night at Underwood.

Names Two Aids.

He named two other youths as accomplices, Ed Coffin and Toots Lung. It was believed he had given officers information as to where they were hiding. Neal said he drove the car all the time and that Coffin remained in the back seat. He named Coffin as the one who killed Amick. He said that both Coffin and Lung were armed, while he had no weapon.

Meanwhile a posse variously estimated at between 600 and 1,000 men was scoring the countryside for the other two. It is believed they are hiding in a hilly section west of here into which the bandits fled on foot after they had crashed their automobile and killed the officer. A number of bloodhounds were being used in the chase.

The bandits' mad flight started at Seymour, 20 miles north of here, when they drove away from a filling station without paying for 10 gallons of gasoline. Policeman John Pfaffenberger of Seymour was notified and he attempted to block the intersection of U. S. highways 50 and 51 with his car. But the fleeing men swerved their machine around the blockade, fired a volley of shots at the policeman, wounding him four times, and sped on their way south through this city, toward Underwood.

Marshal Fires On Car.

As it passed through, Cleve Redman, Scottsburg night marshal, gave chase, firing into the fleeing car. In attempting to escape the marshal's bullets the driver of the bandit car tried to leave the main highway and enter a side road. The car was unable to make the turn and crashed into a garage building, a wreck.

Sherif Amick, his deputy and several other men had been hiding in back of the garage in a trap they had laid for chicken thieves, and were unaware that the bandits were being chased. Deputy Harold Amick stepped out to see what had happened and was shot in the head without warning. He died two hours later without regaining consciousness.

The bandits fled on foot. In less than an hour posses were formed and set out after them. No trace of them was found until the bandit appeared this morning at the Shields farm, several miles northwest of Underwood.

Asks for Breakfast.

He came out of a barn and asked for his breakfast. After he had eaten he produced a pistol and ordered young Shields to drive him away. The youth's father, Gilbert, attempted to interfere and was slugged.

During the drive toward Bedford, the bandit talked freely, Shields said. He talked of the wild chase last night and admitted he had fired at a man at Underwood and had seen him fall.

After passing through Salem, the bandit forced Shields to trade shirts with him, explaining that in making his getaway from Underwood he had fallen over a wire fence, tearing his clothes. He kept his pistol out of sight and made no effort to harm the boy, but stated he had the weapon handy in case he needed it.

"I didn't see the other two boys after we wrecked our car," Shields quoted his captor as saying. The man told him, Shields said, that he was a paroled prisoner and that he had formerly lived about six miles from Medora, Ind.

DRIVER IN FATAL CRASH HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

James Townsend, 2849 Lowe avenue, driver of an automobile which collided with an ice truck early yesterday morning at 26th and State streets, killing one man and injuring seven others, including himself, will be arraigned in Felony court today on a charge of manslaughter.

Paul Balczakonis, 133 East 104th place, owner of the truck, was fatally injured. Paul Alman, 12018 Calumet avenue, driver of the truck, was seriously hurt, and Adam Kairis, 10529 Edbrook avenue, also a passenger on the truck, suffered injuries to his head.

Riding with Townsend, who sustained cuts and bruises, were Robert M. Noonan, 2957 Normal avenue, a nephew of State Representative George G. Noonan; Albert Grigsby, 9923 Yale avenue; Michael Candala, 2621 Iowa street, and Joseph Salvatore, 2808 Lowe avenue. All were taken to the Mercy hospital.

E. G. Sherman, Chicago theatrical producer, was reported in a critical condition in a Rensselaer, Ind., hospital yesterday as a result of a fractured skull suffered in an automobile accident near Morocco.

STATE SENATOR NAMED IN GIRL'S SUIT FOR $25,000

Charges Breach of Promise.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 5.—[Special.]—State Senator Ray Derham of Iron Mountain, Mich., today was defendant in a $25,000 damage suit brought by Miss Martha Danculovic, 26, Akron, O., school teacher and former student at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Danculovic charged that Senator Derham, who has a wife in Iron Mountain, offered to marry her but never fulfilled his promise. She alleged he is the father of her child.

Tells of Romance.

The pretty school teacher painted a picture of a tennis court romance, clandestine meetings, letters, telegrams and amorous attentions from the senator over a period of several years. She told how she met him on the tennis courts at Iron Mountain while she was teaching school there in 1927.

In Judge Fred M. Raymond's court 20 letters claimed to have been written to her by Derham were introduced in evidence.

She declared she attended school at Northern State Teachers' college on a loan of $100 from Derham. After leaving Marquette she taught at the parochial school at St. Ignace, Mich., and then at Akron, O.

Tells Marriage Promise.

In June 1931, she said, she consented to see Derham at Detroit on her way to summer school at Madison, Wis. Upon meeting the state senator he proposed marriage, she said, telling her he had divorced his wife. After leaving Madison she went to Iron Mountain for a visit and upon her arrival found that Derham had not been divorced.

"I was 19 years old when I met Mr. Derham," Miss Danculovic said.

THREE TEACHERS ACCUSE PAIR OF WARANT SWINDLE

Three warants charging embezzlement were obtained by three public school teachers yesterday for the arrest of Miss Marion Leighton and Miss Frances Streich, operators of Leighton & Streich, Inc., real estate brokers, with offices at 160 North La Salle street.

The teachers, Albert G. Bauersfeld, 1421 Hollywood avenue, who claimed to have lost $1,731; Miss Mary M. Blodgett, 128 North Hamlin avenue, who claimed to have lost $2,500, and Miss Cora J. Clark, 6211 Kenwood avenue, who claimed to have lost $150, said the firm had promised to purchase tax warants at their par value, but had not paid any cash after receiving them.

Similar charges against the two brokers, brought by other school teachers, were dismissed last February when the defendants agreed to make restitution.

TWO WOMEN GET TERMS IN GETTLE KIDNAPING CASE

Los Angeles, Cal., June 5.—(AP)—Two women, arrested in connection with the kidnaping of William F. Gettle, were given terms in the federal penitentiary at Alderson, W. Va., by Judge Paul J. McCormick in Federal court here today.

Loretta Woody, 23, formerly of Twin Falls, Idaho, was sentenced to serve 18 months, and Mona Gallighen, alias Joan Burk, 21, of Jersey City, N. J., was sentenced to two years.

James Kirk, Loren Feitus, and Roy Williams, companions of the women when police trapped the gang that held the Beverly Hills millionaire prisoner five days demanding $60,000 ransom, are serving life sentences in the state penitentiary.

SYCAMORE JAIL HIT BY U. S. IN FACTOR INQUIRY

Green to Suggest It Be Cut Off Federal List.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green announced yesterday that he would suggest to the federal bureau of prisons that Sherif Isaac George's "lace curtained" jail in Sycamore be removed from the list of Illinois jails favored for government prisoners.

Mr. Green's announcement came after he had glanced through a 14 page report dealing with an investigation of rumors that Sherif George and John Factor, who is a guest in the Sycamore jail awaiting extradition to England, had engaged in a beer drinking expedition to an Aurora hotel, some miles from Sycamore. At the same time Mr. Green admitted that there is some question as to whether the government could do anything about the reported trip to Aurora—even if the reports should prove to be true.

Real Question at Issue.

According to the rumors, the sherif and his guest, who is wanted by British authorities on a stock swindling charge, appeared at the Leland hotel in Aurora on the night of last May 16. The real question, however, it was pointed out, is whether Factor was properly in custody of the sherif, regardless of whether he was in jail or bending elbows with his keeper.

Mr. Green received the 14 page report from Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation. He turned it over to his assistant, Harry C. Connaughton, for thorough consideration. Mr. Connaughton indicated he would decide within a few days whether the evidence warrants taking the matter before United States Commissioner Walker, who committed Factor to the Sycamore jail. It was pointed out that a commissioner has no power to issue a contempt citation but may request a federal judge to do so.

Green's Comment on Case.

"This is a very technical case—the only one in history of its kind that I know of," said District Attorney Green. "It might be contempt or it might be nothing at all. It might be said that Factor was still in the custody of the sherif under the circumstances published.

"Things have been learned in connection with investigation of this case, however, that make it appear inadvisable to send federal prisoners to this jail. Under the statutes of Illinois, all jails have been made available for the keeping of federal prisoners at government expense, but I have learned sufficient things in this report to warant a suggestion to the United States bureau of prisons that no more federal prisoners be sentenced to the Sycamore jail."

THREE CONVICTS SEIZE GUARD, BUT GIVE UP AS ESCAPE PLOT FAILS

Nashville, Tenn., June 5.—[Special.]—After a siege of more than seven hours, three long term prisoners who had captured a guard and barricaded themselves in the east wing of the state penitentiary in an attempt to escape, surrendered to prison authorities today.

The surrender came when the barricaded men summoned a trusty and sent a note to Deputy Warden Ed Connors that they were willing to give up the two revolvers they had taken from their captive, Guard W. C. Smith. The deputy warden sent the trusty back for the pistols, which the men threw out of the cell in which they were hiding.

The convicts were Lonnie Taylor, 30, who participated in a prison break here last year and was described as the most dangerous man in the institution; J. Raines, 31, who is under a 119 year sentence for first degree murder and bank robbery, and Carl Pentecost, 26, who was serving from 5 to 20 years for attempted murder and robbery.

COURT PLACES DELLS DISPUTE BEFORE MASTER

Denies Plea to Block Ban on Roadhouse.

Superior Court Judge William J. Lindsay yesterday referred to a master in chancery a petition filed by the owners of the Dells roadhouse in Morton Grove to restrain State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney from interfering with the operation of the place after Mr. Courtney had filed an answer to the petition alleging that the roadhouse had operated in "open disruption of law and order."

Judge Lindsay, who heard arguments on the petition and answer in the absence of Judge John P. McGoorty, refused a request of Attorney Simon Herr, representing Sam Hare and Louis Silversmith, owners of the Dells, for a temporary injunction pending the hearing before the master.

Charges Criminal Acts.

The answer filed by Assistant State's Attorney Jacob Shamberg in behalf of Mr. Courtney recited a number of criminal acts which are alleged to have occurred in the roadhouse during the last three years. The answer asserted that the owners were forced to agree last summer to the payment of $10,000 to the Roger Touhy gang for the shooting of Fred Pacelli, alias Fred Di Giovanni, who was shot and killed while in the place on June 15, 1932.

The answer also alleged that Hare, Silversmith, and Joe Silvers were seen conferring in the roadhouse yard on the night that John Factor, wealthy speculator, was kidnaped.

"Sam Hare was the only one who knew that Factor was to visit the roadhouse that night and Silvers is the person who pointed him out to the Touhy gangsters," Mr. Shamberg said in arguing against the petition.

"If, as Mr. Herr declares, only the 'best people' visit the place, then they are facing the danger of being kidnaped, or perhaps shot."

Comment by the Judge.

Judge Lindsay in referring the case to a master said: "If the facts alleged in the state's answer are true there is sufficient reason for the state's attorney in keeping the place closed."

In arguing for a temporary injunction, Attorney Herr said that the owners of the roadhouse had gone to great expense in hiring entertainment and an orchestra and that every day the place is closed increases the loss to the owners. He said that there was $4,000 worth of food in the place which would spoil unless the roadhouse was opened soon.

CITY PREPARES FOR ORDINANCE ON TANK TESTS

An opinion on the legality of a proposed ordinance requiring owners of old buildings on which there are water tanks to pay for the inspection of such buildings by licensed engineers was requested from Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday by Building Commissioner Ericsson.

Mr. Ericsson explained that there are some 3,000 tanks on buildings in the city, but his department has records and specifications on only two-thirds of them. The others, he explained, were built before the passage in 1919 of a state law requiring that blue prints of tanks be filed with his office.

At the same time Mr. Ericsson communicated with the Western Society of Engineers, asking if they could furnish the men for inspections in the event such an ordinance was adopted. Both actions grew out of the recent catastrophe at the Oakley building, 143 West Austin avenue, when the tank on that building crashed, killing five men.

LET STUDENTS PEEK IN BOOKS IN U. OF C. TEST

Quiz Is Devised to Prove Reasoning Power.

Five hundred and thirty students at the University of Chicago, studying under the new plan of education, yesterday encountered their first "open book" examination, in which they were free to use lecture notes, texts and any other references during the three hour quiz.

The examination is devised, according to the examiners, to test the student's ability to reason, rather than his memory. They pointed out the tests were arranged so "the student who thoroughly understands the subject is not penalized because he forgets a detail, while the student who does not have a thorough understanding of the subject cannot pass by hasty perusal of his texts and notes."

A Typical Question.

The examination was in the Humanities, surveying the fields of philosophy, history, religion, art, and literature. Typical of the questions in the "open book" test was the following:

"One of the most significant political movements of modern times has been the rise of nationalism, language, religion, natural geographical boundaries, government, a common historical tradition, are all factors in nationalism. Yet none of these factors is in itself sufficiently important

ADMITS EXTORTION OF $500 BY MEANS OF MURDER THREAT

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—Antonio Cato, a Sicilian who never bothered to take out his citizenship papers, today was charged with getting $5,000 from Arthur Haven, an executive of the Dykes Lumber company, under threat of murdering him and his family. Cato admitted getting $500 of the $5,000 which Mr. Haven yielded to the extortioners.

He wasn't satisfied with the $500, however, and tried to get $3,000 more. Mr. Haven notified the police, and when he handed Cato a package supposed to contain the $3,000 detectives of the alien squad were near at hand, one of them disguised as a street sweeper.

Cato was arrested and arraigned in the Harlem court. He furnished bail of $3,000 and skipped. An indictment was found against him and he was

COUNTY AWARDS WORK IN SPITE OF INDICTMENTS

Overrides Courtney's Bransfield Protest.

Overriding the protests of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, the county board voted yesterday to affirm their awarding of three contracts totaling $93,043 to John M. Bransfield, paving contractor, who is now under indictment on conspiracy charges in the Criminal court.

The action came after stormy sessions of the committee on roads and bridges and of the county board as a whole, where charges of racketeering were hurled.

Bransfield was indicted last December, with a number of others, in connection with the activities of the Trucking and Transport exchange, known as the "TNT," once powerful

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Forty-four years after they left the Columbia university campus, 33 surviving members of the university's law school class of 1890 received their degrees as bachelors of law today.

The class had entered the school expecting to be educated in law in two years, and before they were graduated the course was changed to three years. So most of them left without obtaining degrees, although they had completed all the work previously required.

Since then, various members have sought to have the class awarded degrees. In 1925, when there were 34 survivors, certificates of attendance were awarded. This year the university authorized the degrees.

EXPRESS AGENCY BOMBS LAID TO LABOR DISPUTE

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday began an investigation into the double bombing of the Railway Express agency's garage at 410 Milwaukee avenue early yesterday morning, which injured three persons and caused $1,000 property damage. The injured were all cut by flying glass and were treated at nearby hospitals.

Rivalry between the Chicago Teamsters' union and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters is believed by the police to have been responsible for the bombs. Because of the bickering between the two unions the employés of the express company refuse to pay dues to either union and have formed their own organization, according to Capt. John J. O'Brien of the Racine avenue police.

George Sweeney, an employé of the company and head of the new organization, reported to the police that last Saturday employés of the company

MUNICIPAL COURT ACTS TO PREVENT BAIL BOND ABUSE

The judges of the Municipal court yesterday moved to plug up another legal loophole in criminal cases—faulty bonds. By unanimous vote, the judges ordered rules of the court amended to provide that bonds in all felony cases must be approved by the state's attorney's office before being accepted by one of the judges. The judges also voted an amendment to restrict approval of bonds to the automobile and felony courts in the Criminal court building and to a single branch of the Municipal court in the city hall. At present bonds may be approved at any time, anywhere, by any Municipal court judge.

State's Attorney Courtney and his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, attended the meeting of judges where Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby proposed the amendments. Judge Sonsteby today will name a committee to draft the amendments.

CIVIL WAR VETS IN GALESBURG FOR G. A. R. MEET

Brave Heat to Gather at State Encampment.

Galesburg, Ill., June 5.—[Special.]—Seventy-five civil war veterans, many of them in heir nineties, braved the warm weather to come here today for the opening of the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Others are expected in the morning for the parade in which the five organizations meeting with the G. A. R. also will take part.

Bloomington seems to be the city favored for next year's encampment. The veterans will vote on the selection tomorrow.

While pre-convention reports were that this sixty-eighth state meeting might be the last, the veterans today declared they hope to continue their encampments as long as there is a single member left. Thirty posts over the state have but one living member, but still are carrying on.

The Daughters of Union Veterans announced at their convention today that they would sponsor a Grand Army of the Republic day June 14 at A Century of Progress Exposition. G. A. R. veterans will be admitted free and will be entertained.

Ladies of the G. A. R. this afternoon dedicated a 55 foot flagpole and a marble bench in Central park. The largest American flag to fly in the city also was presented. The gifts were accepted by Mayor Joe Anderson. Earlier in the afternoon the Daughters of Union Veterans dedicated a marble settee in the park.

Quiz Is Devised to Prove Reasoning Power.

Five hundred and thirty students at the University of Chicago, studying under the new plan of education, yesterday encountered their first "open book" examination, in which they were free to use lecture notes, texts and any other references during the three hour quiz.

The examination is devised, according to the examiners, to test the student's ability to reason, rather than his memory. They pointed out the tests were arranged so "the student who thoroughly understands the subject is not penalized because he forgets a detail, while the student who does not have a thorough understanding of the subject cannot pass by hasty perusal of his texts and notes."

A Typical Question.

The examination was in the Humanities, surveying the fields of philosophy, history, religion, art, and literature. Typical of the questions in the "open book" test was the following:

"One of the most significant political movements of modern times has been the rise of nationalism, language, religion, natural geographical boundaries, government, a common historical tradition, are all factors in nationalism. Yet none of these factors is in itself sufficiently important to explain the growth of nationalism. Give one example of a case where:

"1. A common language has not united all its speakers into a single national state.

"2. A national state has been formed without a language common to all its citizens.

"3. A religion has remained international in character.

"4. A nationality has been achieved without a national religion.

"5. A national state has been formed without national geographical boundaries. . . . "

A Napoleonic Problem.

Another question was: "Napoleon was notorious for his looting of works of art and learning in conquered countries. In which campaign could he have taken from its native home:

"1. A painting by Leonardo Da Vinci.

"2. An obelisk.

"3. A copy of the Gutenburg Bible.

"4. An illuminated prayer book of the Greek Catholic church.

"5. A copy of a manuscript of Averhoes.

"6. A painting by Rubens.

"7. A painting by Velasquez."

Another question: "Is Hellenistic science or medieval science nearer akin to the science of the Newtonian epoch? In what ways?"

Another question asks the student to give in connected narrative form a summary of the history of Christian church architecture to 1600 A. D.

A standard examination is given to the students as well as the "open book" test. Dr. John M. Stalnaker, member of the university's board of examinations, said that a study would be made of comparative scores in the two types of examination.

CITY FIREMAN'S WIDOW ON TRIAL FOR HIS MURDER

A jury was selected before Judge Grover C. Neimeyer in the Criminal court yesterday for the trial of Mrs. Mayme O'Boyle, 28 years old, who is charged with the murder last March of her husband, Frank O'Boyle Jr., 31 years old, a city fireman.

Dressed in black, except for a bit of white lace around the collar of her dress, Mrs. O'Boyle sat at the counsel table and heard the state and defense attorneys select the jury. Her right arm was still bandaged because of a bullet wound incurred in the struggle that ended in death for her husband.

Assistant State's Attorney Martin Ward asked prospective jurors if their judgment would be swayed by sympathy for a woman. The state will contend, he said, that Mrs. O'Boyle shot her husband deliberately in a fit of jealousy and was herself wounded when he fought her for possession of the gun.

Defense Attorneys James M. Burke and George Crane will attempt to convince the jury that O'Boyle was slain during the fight for possession of the revolver with which, the defense contends, he had threatened his wife.

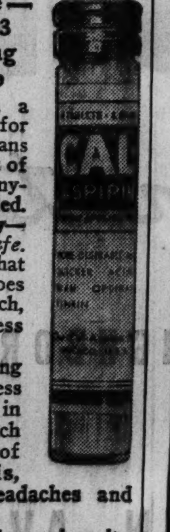
DOCTORS USE FOR SEVERE PAIN RELIEF

New way is safe—more effective—3 times faster acting

Supply Sent Free



THERE has been a notable discovery for relieving pain. Physicians advise it. 9 people out of 10 find it superior to anything they've ever tried.

This new discovery—CAL-Aspirin is safe. Hospital tests show that in 89% of patients it does not upset the stomach, cause distress, dizziness or nausea.

But most astounding is the high effectiveness of this new formula in overcoming pain — such racking pain as that of rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, intense headaches and the aches of colds.

Developed in a leading university—tested in great hospitals for over two years—advised widely by physicians. Sufferers should try CAL-Aspirin—25c—at your druggist. Or free supply from CAL-Aspirin Corp., Chicago.

MEMORIAL RITES TO BE HELD FOR M. E. MINISTERS

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church announced yesterday that memorial services for deceased pastors of the Rock River annual conference will be held next Sunday. General chairman for the conference memorial program is the Rev. T. E. Rea..n of Elgin. The Rev. Charles H. Draper of Evanston will be in charge of the special service at Rosehill cemetery where many former pastors are buried. At this service Dr. O. F. Hattison, 94, will call the roll of those interred at Rosehill. At Graceland cemetery the service will be in charge of the Rev. A. A. McCracken, pastor of the Ravenswood church, with the Rev. J. J. Hitchens of Berry Memorial, delivering the address. Dr. C. K. Carpenter of Morgan park will be in charge of services at Mount Hope and Greenwood cemeteries.

PRESIDENT WON'T O. K. REFERENDUM IN ILLINOIS MINES

President Roosevelt has upheld the bituminous coal labor board, division 2, in its decision denying the Progressive Miners of America their request for a state-wide referendum, according to word received yesterday from Washington, D. C., by Dr. John A. Lapp, chairman of the labor board.

The referendum sought was for the purpose of determining whether the Illinois miners should join the Progressive union or the United Mine Workers of America, a rival union. The decision of the board was given last January and was upheld by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the National Recovery administration. A resolution was recently passed by the Illinois legislature asking the President to intervene.

COUNTY AWARDS WORK IN SPITE OF INDICTMENTS

Overrides Courtney's Bransfield Protest.

Overriding the protests of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, the county board voted yesterday to affirm their awarding of three contracts totaling $93,043 to John M. Bransfield, paving contractor, who is now under indictment on conspiracy charges in the Criminal court.

The action came after stormy sessions of the committee on roads and bridges and of the county board as a whole, where charges of racketeering were hurled.

Bransfield was indicted last December, with a number of others, in connection with the activities of the Trucking and Transport exchange, known as the "TNT," once powerful racket organization by which hoodlums were said to have extorted $500,000 yearly from Chicago business men.

Submitted to Prosecutor.

Three months ago the county board awarded a number of paving contracts, including the three to Bransfield, and forwarded them to the state's attorney for approval as to form. The three Bransfield contracts were sent back with a letter from Courtney reading:

"We are returning these contracts for the reason that the records of this office show that the bidder is under indictment for conspiracy. In our opinion he should not be allowed to bid."

Bransfield, with Attorneys Joseph Harrington and Benedict J. Short, appeared first yesterday morning before the committee on roads and bridges to protest against Courtney's action, and ask that the board allow his contracts to stand.

Several of the Democratic commissioners made immediate efforts to have the matter tabled, since it was not on call, and after arguments, Mr. Bransfield was asked to come back in the afternoon, to the meeting of the board as a whole. Assistant State's Attorney William J. Touhy was also asked to be present.

Lawyer Defends Contractor.

At the afternoon session Attorney Short argued that, while Bransfield is under indictment, his company is not. Furthermore, the lawyer said, evidence would be produced to show that he was not connected with the TNT.

Assistant Prosecutor Touhy then upheld the state's attorney's action and characterized Bransfield as one of the organizers of the TNT. That aroused Mrs. Grace Fleming, Democratic commissioner, who said: "The state's attorney ought to know that even an indicted man is presumed innocent until proved guilty."

"The state's attorney seems to be pretty high-handed," said Commissioner George A. Miller [Rep.]. "Where does he get the power of veto over this board?" He then made a motion to approve the contracts awarded to Bransfield.

The vote was 7 to 5 to let the contracts stand.

$1,100,000 ROAD CONTRACTS LET BY COUNTY BOARD

Contracts totaling $1,100,000, covering twenty-seven road paving and four bridge-building projects in Cook county, were awarded yesterday by the county board. It was explained that the projects will be financed by gasoline tax revenue.

The board also voted to investigate the use of temporary employés in civil service offices, following charges which have been made that incompetent persons were holding civil service offices as temporary employés.

A resolution, introduced by Commissioner Amelia Sears, calling for a statement of the number of employés under civil service in the county, their salaries and titles, along with a statement of temporary employés holding civil service officers, was adopted by unanimous vote.

BARRYMORES ASK PRIORITY IN BANK DEPOSIT CLAIMS

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Two movie and stage stars—John Barrymore and Dolores Costello Barrymore—filed a petition in the Supreme court today seeking priority in the payment of deposits they had in the Guaranty Building and Loan association of Los Angeles when it closed its doors.

John had on deposit $94,525 and Dolores $59,525, which was drawing 7 per cent interest.

California federal courts held they were not entitled to priority over investment certificate holders in the association.

HARVEY ORDERED BY COURT TO PAY CHICAGO $156,334

A judgment of $156,334.45 against the city of Harvey for unpaid water bills during the period of May, 1930, to August, 1932, was obtained for Chicago yesterday before Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Circuit court by Assistant Corporation Counsel Martin Foss.

Since August of 1932, Mr. Foss asserted, an additional $50,000 to $60,000 in such bills has also come due. John T. Whitehead, attorney for Harvey, said the suburb was unable to pay, since it in turn was unable to collect on many of its bills to other municipalities.

Harvey is the first of eight towns and two institutions in Cook county owing back water bills against which the city expects to take action. The corporation counsel recently informed Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, that the city is legally empowered to shut off the water supply if the bills are not paid, but it was indicated that this would be done only as a last resort. A total of $760,881 is due Chicago.

At present bonds may be approved at any time, anywhere, by any Municipal court judge.

State's Attorney Courtney and his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, attended the meeting of judges where Chief Justice John J. Stonsteby proposed the amendments. Judge Sonsteby today will name a committee to draft the amendments.

The chief justice also announced that he plans to establish a new branch of the Trafic court which will handle nothing but cases involving speeding, reckless driving, and driving when intoxicated. By such specialization, Judge Sonsteby hopes, a technique in speedy, efficient handling of this type of case may be developed.

It's REAL news . . . something to talk about . . . the trend in transatlantic travel is definitely back to First Class again! . . . as indicated by Cunard's increased average First Class carryings during the year 1933.

It's really not surprising when one considers that a First Class stateroom twice its former size, in the completely and newly renovated Berengaria or Aquitania, which previously cost $335 each for two, can today be procured for as little as $237 each for two. Outside staterooms are available from $216 up. There is no substitute for a First Class ticket. You can take your car along as baggage, too.

EUROPEAN TRAVEL COSTS ARE DOWN!

Compared to 1926, "the year of normalcy," Cunard First Class rates are reduced by as much as 40%. Railroad fares abroad average 30% less. Hotel rates are down an average of 36%. Send for folder which proves European Travel cheaper in 1934, despite foreign exchange differentials

"So 'rundown'-yet tip-top in 3 weeks..."

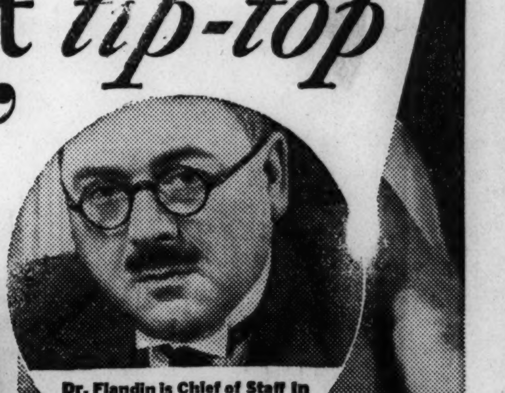
says DR. C. FLANDIN, great hospital authority



Dr. Flandin is Chief of Staff in general medicine, Bichât Hospital, Paris

Your troubles may be ended as quickly . . . if you follow this treatment Dr. Flandin advised!

SO many of us drag around with painful headaches, bad skin, indigestion, constipation . . . when we could easily be well!

"My recommendation was Yeast. After three weeks, her constipation was a thing of the past. Today she has a clear, radiant skin. Her appetite is vastly improved. Her disposition more cheerful.

"I have prescribed yeast for many years. My advice to patients is: let cathartics alone."

Isn't it just good common sense to follow the opinion of doctors like Dr. Flandin? Won't you eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day . . . for at least 30 days?

You can get it at grocers, restaurants, and soda fountains. It is very rich in vitamins B, D and G.

Let Fleischmann's Yeast free your system of poisons, make your skin clearer, appetite keener, your digestion strong. You'll find you've more "pep," a far better disposition. Won't you get some right now?

THIS ONE SIMPLE FOOD (1) stimulates the flow of your stomach juices (2) strengthens the muscles of your intestines (3) softens waste so it passes easily—regularly.

Eat 3 Cakes a Day

Warning! When you buy yeast be sure you ask for FLEISCHMANN'S, because—

2 It's the yeast famous doctors advise.

3 For 60 years it has been known as the best for all purposes.

This for Women Who Desire Physical Charm

A faultless skin, sparkling eyes, spirited activity and vivaciousness don't just happen—they do, however, come to those wise women who keep internally clean—and know the right way to overcome stubborn constipation.

Millions have learned that one supremely good way to be free from the curse of constipation and the petty ailments that it causes is to put their faith in the efficacy of Beecham's Pills. These small tasteless pills put healthy activity into the liver, cause the bile to flow freely as Nature intended—keep the intestines free from harmful poisons and bring about regular and blissful elimination.

One 25 cent box will prove to you that you are on the right track—you'll feel better—sleep better—work better.

20,000 users of Gas Heat can't be wrong

That's why we say, "Try Gas Heat without investing a cent for equipment—then decide if you want this great convenience in your home."

IT COSTS us real money to make this offer. But we do it because we know from experience that every home can now afford to heat with gas. 20,000 families in the Chicago area accepted this offer and tried gas heat—now they wouldn't be without it.

Forget you have a furnace

For gas heat is such a comfort and convenience in any home. It takes away the labor of shoveling coal and hauling ashes, the nuisance of getting up at daybreak to fix the furnace, the never-ending watching, waiting and regulating to keep the house at healthful, comfortable temperatures.

With gas heat, the temperature is just right, as you want it, day and night, all season long. Adjust the little thermostat on the wall for any heat you want. You never even have to think about the furnace when you have gas heat.

Gas heat is clean. You save time and labor in dusting, save money in cleaning on walls, curtains, draperies; and you need decorate less often. Get all the advantages of gas heat. At new low rates, you'll be amazed at how reasonable it is in cost. Remember, 20,000 users can't be wrong.

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You can try it one month, two months, a year. If within the first year you find you don't like gas heat, we'll remove it at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. While you are trying gas heat, you pay only $3 a month rental on the equipment in the average home, for the nine heating months. When you decide to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment. The rental charge is included with the bill for the gas you use.

Now is the best time to try gas heat . . . before you order your next winter's supply of fuel. There's no fire building with gas heat. It's automatic, and a little thermostat on the wall keeps the temperature exactly as you want it.

Try it now

We'll gladly give you the facts on heating your home with gas, together with an estimate on the cost. Call your nearest gas office today.

MR. WALLACE MAKES HI-BRED HAY.

In one respect the drouth has served a useful purpose: it has forced men to see how reckless the government's agricultural program was and is. Until the devastation occurred the average citizen was disposed to give Mr. Wallace the benefit of the doubt. Perhaps his proposals were not as foolish as they looked. Perhaps the way to make the nation prosperous was to adopt Mr. Wallace's scheme of giving it less to eat and less to wear.

As time has gone on the hope that Mr. Wallace had superior insight into the farm problem has vanished. The farmer who has seen the price of his hogs tumble as the processing tax on hogs has increased is no longer in doubt about it. He now knows that he pays the processing taxes and that he doesn't even get his tax payment back, because out of it must come the salaries of thousands of burocrats who administer the fund.

That was lesson No. 1. The drouth has been lesson No. 2. It has taught what every one knew in his heart all the time to be true: that plentiful harvests are a boon and barren acres a disaster. The nation can count itself fortunate if nature does not exact the full price of the administration's gamble with hunger as the stake.

The damage already realized is extremely heavy and it is not fully revealed in mere statistics. In the richest agricultural areas a farm is in itself a complex economic unit, with delicate interrelationships which the crop reduction program disturbed. Over the years farmers learned that they would need so much feed and forage to nourish the stock which produced the surpluses which were exchanged for the things farmers bought in stores. That interior balance of production on the farms was upset by Mr. Wallace. Plant less corn, he ordered, and let the acres which would have produced corn lie idle. The farmers reluctantly followed his advice, only to find their worst fears realized. The corn crop has been seriously damaged already, oats are a failure, and to make matters worse there is certain to be a grave shortage of hay. Had the idle acres been planted, whatever they produced would have helped to minimize the worst effects of the drouth.

You cannot feed horses and cattle on schemes and promises. You cannot let the brain trust give orders to the man on the land without expecting to pay the price in decreased production and lessened efficiency. You cannot destroy the interior balance of farm economy and expect to have prosperous farms.

Mr. Wallace, odd as it may seem, knows this better than most citizens. His Hi-Bred seed corn has been advertised to farmers as offering the means of offsetting the acreage reduction. Farmers were to receive a bounty from the government for reducing production, according to the Wallace formula, but if they used Wallace's seed, for which the Hi-Bred company demanded a stiff price, they could grow as much corn on the remaining acres as experience had taught them was needed.

Perhaps Mr. Wallace now welcomes the drouth. It has intensified the crop reduction which his policy was aimed to produce and, of course, it has enlarged the market for his seed corn. These must be glorious days in the front offices of the department of agriculture. The farmers of the corn belt have no pastures left, but Mr. Wallace is making hay.

DIVIDENDS IN GOOD GOVERNMENT.

In appealing to responsible citizens for means to maintain its important public service the Crime Commission, through its finance committee, emphasizes the money value of the commission's work. It is an aspect of its service which deserves more attention even though the profit motive is condemned by some generous dispensers of other people's money. The Crime Commission's appeal notes that its work has increased life expectancy by keeping many murderers in prison and lessened Chicago's annual losses through robbery, burglary, and other crimes by many thousands of dollars; saves in taxes by reducing the cost of courts, prosecutions, and police; has helped to lower theft insurance rates on automobiles by 26 per cent, and generally but practically speaking has contributed to property values throughout the city by improving the reputation of the city as a community in which crime is being progressively brought within restraint.

These are substantial material reasons for the liberal financial support of the Crime Commission, but the appeal of the committee is a very modest statement of what Chicago and every law-abiding and self-respecting inhabitant owes to this virtually unique agency in the national campaign against organized criminality. The day by day service of this expert organization is a check over the efficiency and integrity of the machinery of the laws against crime which has earned the respect of every student of law enforcement in the country. It has protected the community time and time again from miscarriages of justice, from slips or deliberate betrayals by officials. It has produced from its careful and continuous following of procedure, helpful criticism and constructive proposals for amendment. In short, it has been and is a competent and watchful guardian of our defenses from crime and an invaluable agency for their much needed improvement. No city in the country has an unofficial instrumentality so well conceived and efficiently and persistently directed to assist and better the administration of the criminal law. The reputation of Chicago for a determined and increasingly successful handling of criminal control has been gaining ground, and with good reasons. The Crime Commission has been one of the reasons. It is needless to say that the community may well be proud of it or that it deserves at all times liberal material as well as moral support.

THE UNITED STATES AND EUROPEAN DISARMAMENT.

With one European reaction to American diplomacy a good many Americans must sympathize. It is irritation at our rôle in the disarmament controversy. No doubt it is interpreted as domestic politics and the interpretation is plausible even at home, for there are obvious advantages to the administration in turning public attention away from the doubts and disappointments of the recovery program.

From the European point of view American participation in the armament controversy can be acceptable only on the assumption that we can be inveigled into giving more than we promise. In naval reduction our contribution may be substantial and our part is important, but in the major problem of land armament we have nothing to give and our intervention in the discussion can only be justified on the assumption of a knowledge and disinterestedness which Europe is far from disposed to grant us and which sensible Americans do not make. The problem of armament adjustment in Europe is one of the most delicate and difficult ever confronted by statesmen. We offer advice while announcing our unwillingness to contribute the one thing which European governments would take as an offset to the sacrifices or dangers of adopting it. At a relatively safe distance ourselves, we slight the factor of security which they would have us support and invite them to a reliance upon our theory of pacification which their own historic experience disparages.

If we have a stake in the peace of Europe, as we of course have, it is much less important than that of the nations of Europe, and in fact is proportionate to the restricted sacrifices or contributions we are willing to make for it. But our diplomacy does not recognize this relation and thrusts itself into a rôle for which we are not fitted. The wise policy of the republic to refrain from entanglement in the political affairs of Europe and the common sense of our people who will not willingly pay the price of participation compel the reservations announced by our representatives, but these inevitable reservations should restrain the ambition of our representatives and confine them to a more modest rôle.

PAROLE.

A youth serving a twenty year sentence on a plea of guilty to five charges of robbery with a gun is recommended for parole after three years of imprisonment. The warden of Stateville recommends parole for good behavior. The prisoner had violated a previous parole given him in New York. His good behavior apparently has occurred while under restraint. It was not so good when he was at large. A young woman asked for his parole because she wants to marry him.

The ways of wardens and parole boards puzzle a good many citizens. Why good behavior under restraint impresses them as it seems to we have never been able to fathom, and the number of parolees who when at large on this ground immediately go back to criminal activities does not help us to understand the official estimate of probabilities. We suspect an underworld alliance of crime and politics.

Three years' loss of liberty as a penalty for robbery with a gun seems rather mild unless there are very special circumstances, of which we have not heard in this case. Perhaps a reform has been accomplished, but the number of crimes committed by parolees whose good behavior in prison has been rewarded by release does not encourage optimism among innocent bystanders.

As for the wish of the young woman to marry the youth in question, it is difficult to find in it any reason in public policy for hastening its fulfilment. A eugenic report of the probabilities might be suggested.

Editorial of the Day

TWO RED LIGHTS.

[Editor and Publisher.]

Those who believe that organized journalism was unduly concerned over the free press guarantee in the newspaper code may lose their complete confidence in things as they are when they read the government's argument in the Weirton steel injunction case. One salient phase of that argument was substantially that the steel company, having accepted the industry's code by signing it, could not plead constitutional rights as a defense against objectionable provisions. While the court did not discuss this viewpoint in the opinion refusing the government an injunction, its appearance as a government argument is significant.

A second red light appeared Monday when Supreme Court Justice Faber in New York granted an injunction against picketing of a bakery by union workmen who have been striking for an entire year. By the injunction's terms the strikers are forbidden to publish the fact that their activities have been restrained, or even that there is a strike in the bakery, or, in substance, any other statement that might adversely affect their former employer's business. According to the strikers' counsel the injunction, strictly construed, would even prevent appeal against it to a higher court.

On both sides of the industrial fence and in the government service are thousands of people so bent on their own objectives that they would cast aside to attain them every advance toward liberty that man has made in centuries. That is no new phenomenon, but it cannot be forgotten or dismissed as commonplace by those charged with preservation of the rights of free press and free speech. Hard won, those blessings are in constant danger and can be lost by expedient or complaisant waiver of the principles upon which they are based.

"ENGLAND Tells U. S. She Will Not Pay War Debts."—Headline. Blam! Away goes that lovely tradition, "Hands across the seas," and that equally venerable wheeze, "Blood is thicker than water." Hands don't come across the sea if they've got to carry cash to pay debts and blood is as thin as the film on the eye of a mosquito when it comes to paying an old bill. But that old gag, "English cousins," still goes. Cousins are like that.

INSTEAD OF DEBATING and arranging the import duty schedule congress just turns the whole thing over to the President. Pretty soon Franklin Delano will have to begin the day in his office by calling himself to order, calling the roll and if he finds there's a quorum present proceed to pass a few laws. He oughtn't to have much trouble until he comes to setting up the type for the Congressional Record and running it off on the hand press. Maybe next fall we'll elect printers and pressmen to congress so they can take care of that job. Certainly something ought to be found where congress could make itself useful.

KING GEORGE OF ENGLAND celebrated his birthday day before yesterday, the same day England decided not to pay her war debts. George is said to have looked very happy, but if I had been George I would have been a little bit worried. For if England won't pay her debts, how does George know he's going to get his wages every Saturday for his king job? Maybe they'll tell George that after this all he'll get will be his board and keep. Lots of British aristocrats are firing their butlers these days and they may figure out that if they can get along without a butler they can do without a king. At least until the financial stringency eases up. So that's why I would have worried if I had been King George day before yesterday. A butler or a grand duke or a marquis who loses his job can get a job as doorman or elevator starter for a swank hotel, but a king couldn't hold down a job like that. The hotel would make him wear his crown and his ermine coat and if he got fired from his king job he couldn't take those things away with him and no hotel would hire him. Oh, well, you never can tell these days.

PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG tells the Germans that "the greatest reward of the soldier is in a consciousness of duty cheerfully fulfilled." Shucks, if he gets knocked into unconsciousness by having his head shot off then where is his reward? Huh? In the next war I am going to manufacture fulminating caps or medals and get a real reward that I can trade in for a steam yacht and a country estate with nine automobiles and a barkeep who won't do anything else but make mint juleps for me out on the terrace.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE FANS are talking of applying for an injunction against the puzzle makers to restrain them from putting in "Horizontal No. 17, president of Cuba." They ought at least to make it "President of Cuba at noon, Tuesday, June 5, 1934," or "President of Cuba, between 8 and 9 a. m., Thursday, May 31, 1934." The idea of asking for the name of "the president of Cuba." They might as well ask for the maiden name of the grandmother on his father's side of the three toed sloth or the herbivorous ruminant said to have roamed in prehistoric times along the River Nile.

I am weary of wise men's chatter,
I would dwell where no problems stalk.
There's nothing I lack
So much as a shack
Where no human monsters walk;
There'd be dreaming there,
And no seeming there,
And my heart would have time to talk.

I am weary of drudging noontides,
I long for the whir of wings,
Where the summer calls
To Aeolian halls
Of June; where the whips and stings
Of man's sad lot
Are all forgot
In a realm of woods and springs.

I am spent with the nations' warring;
I yearn for some quiet shore
Where no royal pawn
Can pervert the dawn
With his talk of battle gore.
With the winter spanned,
I shall seek some land
Where my wings can spread once more.

WHAT WARM WEATHER MAY BRING.

With the passing of cold weather there was a lessened chance of the diseases which find conditions to their liking in the winter months. Among these are smallpox, measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, chicken pox, and meningitis. In the battle against the bacteria and viruses which cause these diseases man finds himself aided by climatic conditions. Enough for seed of each of the diseases will prevail during the hot weather, but nowhere will any one of them prevail sufficiently to be thought of as a community menace. The weather will be on the side of man in his combat with the pneumonias, the bronchitic disorders, and with rheumatism. Since so much of the foundations of heart disease lie in the rheumatism field, the passing of winter means something in the contest between man and heart disease.

But there are no unmixed blessings. Hot weather increases the menace of certain diseases. One of these that occasions considerable fear is infantile paralysis. If any community is scheduled to have a serious epidemic of that disease next September the menace is brewing now.

Sleeping sickness of the type that has flared up occasionally in the Mississippi valley in recent years has shown a preference for hot weather. The communities that suffered from it in 1933 can expect to get off well this year, but some other places may not be so fortunate.

There is not much typhoid fever left, but such as there is is more of a menace in the late summer and in autumn than at other seasons. Nineteen thirty-three was a bad malaria year. How much there is to be in 1934 remains to be seen. When malaria is around it generally flares up in May and June, and, becoming more prevalent and more virulent as the season progresses, reaches its peak just prior to the onset of cold weather.

Hot weather is the season of prevalence of food poisoning and acute intestinal disorders of adults as well as of children. The development of refrigeration and of canning and the improvement in transportation have lessened the dangers of food poisonings and acute diarrheas and dysenteries, but the problem of control has not been entirely solved. Warm weather is the season when increase of amebiasis is expected.

It is also the season of hay fever and the various other diseases which are the result of plant poisoning of one kind and another. Of lesser importance are heat cramps, heatstroke, sunstroke, prickly heat, athlete's foot, and pompholyx.

MUSHROOM DANGER.

A Reader writes: I have read recently of many people dying from eating toadstools or poisonous mushrooms. I would like to ask a few questions on the subject. Is there any reliable and simple test to detect a toadstool or poisonous mushroom? Would a toadstool cause a silver fork or silver coin to tarnish if the fork were placed for some time in the heated solution? I have heard of this test for a toadstool but do not know if it is reliable.

How do mushrooms differ from toadstools as to shape, color, and perhaps taste and size? But then, small young mushrooms are just as deadly as toadstools, a doctor writes. Why would this be?

REPLY.

There is no simple test by which one can tell whether or not a mushroom is poisonous. The silver spoon test is unreliable and has led to fatal mistakes. The safest plan is to grow your own mushrooms from stock known to be safe. If a person prefers to eat wild mushrooms grown in the woods he should stick to the kinds he knows to be safe, rejecting all others. There is no way to make poisonous mushrooms safe. Henri Fabre, the great French naturalist, writes that the French peasants cook certain types of poisonous mushrooms in salt water and, in that way, make them safe to eat. A certain professor in an American university says Henri Fabre may be an expert on worms, but he does not know mushrooms. If the plan Fabre writes about works in France, for some reason it will not work in America. Size is not a safe guide in judging mushrooms.

DEPENDS ON TROUBLE.

Constant Reader writes: Is there a cure for catarrh? If so, what is it? Is smoking harmful to a sufferer? What is the cause of catarrh?

REPLY.

The term catarrh has almost gone out of use. What we once called catarrh is known to be a group of diseases, infected sinuses being the most important and most frequently encountered member. The answers to your question depend on which trouble you have. Moderate use of tobacco should not prove harmful in the diseases once called catarrh.

EXERCISE MAY HELP.

E. L. writes:

I am a 16 year old girl and have quite a large stomach.

I lie on my stomach at night.

Is this the cause?

How can I reduce it?

REPLY.

Sleeping on the stomach is not the cause. Are you swaybacked, or short-bodied, or fat? Bending exercises and reducing should help you to overcome the condition.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Chicago, May 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister was married and divorced. About a year later she remarried. It developed that the second man she married already had a wife. When this fact was learned the man disappeared and cannot be located. What will be necessary in order to dissolve the last marriage? Is my sister legally married? Must she obtain a divorce or annulment, or is she free to remarry again without formal action? The marriage took place in a small town in Illinois. If an annulment is necessary could you give me an approximate idea as to what its cost might be and how it would have to be handled? W. B.

Consider the following series: 1. A marries B. 2. A "marries" C without divorcing B. 3. C contemplates marrying D, ignoring No. 2 as bigamous.

Where a ceremonial marriage has been celebrated, such as No. 2 above, it is presumed to be valid. (147 Ill. 210 and other cases cited in Callaghan's Illinois Digest "Marriage," sec. 20.) In other words, if it was contended in court that the children born of No. 3 were illegitimate and C and D sought to sustain the marriage on the ground that No. 2 was bigamous, it might be held that the burden of proof would rest on C and D to show that A and B had not terminated No. 1 by divorce before the contracting of No. 2. Such a negative is notoriously difficult to prove. Of course, the same presumption of validity should operate in favor of No. 3 and might rebut the presumption of validity of No. 2 above discussed, but it has also been held that no presumption of divorce arises from a subsequent marriage (117 Ill. App. 307).

The validity of the proposed marriage, No. 3, should, like Caesar's wife, be above suspicion. In order to avoid all questions, we advise C to secure a divorce or annulment before contracting another marriage.

ZONING LAWS.

Chicago, May 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Where property is not zoned for undertaking business, and frontage consent is necessary, what per cent of the frontage should be secured? J. L. J.

Section 3797 makes it unlawful to establish an undertaking business "on or along any boulevard or pleasure driveway, or in any block in any street in which one-third of the buildings on both sides of the street in such block are used exclusively for residential purposes, without the written consent of a majority of the property owners according to the frontage on both sides of the boulevard, pleasure driveway, or street in the block."

Section 1688 makes it unlawful to establish or maintain such business "on or along any boulevard or pleasure driveway without the written consent of a majority of the property owners according to the frontage on both sides of such boulevard or pleasure driveway in the block."

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

STREET CAR EXTENSION.

Chicago, May 30.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to be advised if there is a possibility in the near future of the Belmont avenue street car line being extended west on Belmont to Narragansett avenue. If this extension were made it would prevent many serious accidents at one of the most dangerous transfer crossings on the northwest side, namely, Belmont and Central avenues. A direct line to Narragansett avenue would also mean a saving of time for all who ride Belmont avenue. V. E. C.

There are no plans at the present time for any extension of the Belmont avenue street railway line westward from the terminal at Central avenue. It appears from the present outlook that any such improvement is a matter of the indefinite future.

HEALTH INSURANCE.

Chicago, May 29.—[Friend of the Insured.]—When I signed up for a health policy I was told that I would receive $30 weekly for all time lost on account of sickness. I was away from work five whole weeks and only received a payment of $90, which would be for only three weeks. I needed the money badly at the time and accepted what was offered. How can I get the $60 for the other two weeks to which I am entitled? W.E.

Since you received payment for only three of the five weeks of your illness it is apparent that an examination of your policy will reveal a waiting period clause which provides that no payments will be made for disability which shall continue for less than two consecutive weeks, which means that the waiting period is the time which elapses between the beginning of disability and the commencement of the payments.

Policies having no waiting period cost considerably more than those calling for waiting periods of a definite number of weeks, because in the latter cases the insured bears the expenses of a short illness himself while the company is relieved of the expense of handling and paying a large number of small claims.

It should be remembered that the difference in premium between no waiting period and a two or four weeks' period enables the policyholder to carry a larger amount of protection against a possible serious illness which usually taxes one's finances. If an examination of your policy shows a two week waiting period you have received payment in full in accordance with your contract. If no such clause appears in your policy the insurance company will undoubtedly reimburse you for the two additional weeks.

DEFENSE OF THE MIDDLE CLASS.

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—The editorial, "Defense of the Middle Class," in my opinion expresses the actual conditions and situation.

I personally thank you for being candid in telling your subscribers of the trend of things and warning them to awaken before it is too late to save our good country and practical form of government from being completely pilfered by an enlarged Tammany Hall.

If other publications only had the backbone to publish the actual truth about the predicament we are in and getting further into, I believe the politicians would be sufficiently awakened to at least check to some extent the financial extravagance and see the necessity of defending the constitution of the United States and also the property and independence of individuals.

Please keep this good work up and soon a sufficient number of our people will be informed of the conditions to cause a change of attitude in Washington. J. V. COWART.

ON BEHALF OF THE MIDDLE CLASS.

Marion, Ia., May 30.—The writer is a poor man and expects to be for the rest of his life, but he wants to remain a free American citizen.

THE TRIBUNE is doing a great work in its effort to present to the mass of citizens the dangers that lie in the theories held by the so-called brain trust and its efforts to put them into practice.

Unless we citizens of the great middle class arouse ourselves and make an effort to prevent it, we are going to find ourselves between the upper and the nether millstones. On one side are the socialistic minded industrial workers who complacently look forward to the downfall of the present form of government, and on the other is an administration that is increasing the national debt to such an extent that already taxes are going to be a burden for the next fifty years. Unless the great middle class of population wants to suffer in the same way as has that of Germany, it must awake to action. Vote in a new congress, and make its voice heard before it is too late. We need neither "revolution" nor "evolution."

We need reform. We do not need new parties. We need the old ones cleansed. The Republican party awaits a leader, a leader who realizes that a great social and political organization that has given our land a great past is ready to give it a great future.

ROBERT BROUSSEAU.

OKLAHOMA'S QUADRUPLETS.

Chicago, May 29.—In this morning's paper I note an interesting report about the arrival of quintuplets in Canada. And along with this, Dr. Fishbein is quoted as making the statement that only one case is recorded where all four quadruplets lived to adult age, probably meaning the Ormsby quadruplets.

Then how about the Keyes quadruplets of Hollis, Okla? I am not acquainted with them, but have followed them somewhat through newspaper articles from time to time since I first saw their baby pictures some 18 years ago. The most recent item I have noted about them is their entering college in Texas last fall. If the medical historians missed them I hope the omission will be rectified. L. C. E.

KID, NOT GOLDEN, GLOVES.

Gary, Ind., May 30.—While watching the fights at the Stadium I felt disheartened, for we pinned our hope upon the certain victory of my compatriots, but after leaving the place of the combat I came to realize that a fistic surrender counts little in international rivalry. Brains are the most potent factor, I believe. Let THE TRIBUNE invite intellectual Polish titans to fight local talent, and should the Poles lose I'll feel morose, but inasmuch as the war waged recently was of a primitive character there is little for us Poles to weep over.

Let Mr. Donald Day, your new Warsaw correspondent, at his return to Poland choose Polish professors of European fame [including Prof. Moscicki, the premier of Poland], scientists [including Mme. Curie-Sklodowska], poets [including the Olympic poet laureate, Kazimierz Wierzynski], litterateurs [including Boy Zelenski and Stanislaw Slonimski], pianists [including I. J. Paderewski], singers [including Jan Kiepura and Sembrich-Kochanska], orchestra leaders [including Leopold Stokowski, Emil Mlynarski, and Joseph Pasternack], painters [including Wojciech Kossak, Tadeusz Styka, Stryjenska, and Skoczylas], sculptors [including Kuna and Wittig], and fiery orators, and let Poland then fight America with their intellects and brains, not fistic opponents.

As good measure it would be advisable to bring over for the great fight the entire cast of the Warsaw dramatic theater, "Rozinaitosci," bearing in mind that George Bernard Shaw's "Applecart" and "On the Rocks" have seen their world première in Warsaw, because Shaw considers Polish actors the best in the world.

In 1919, shortly after the world war, an American soldier of Polish descent, somewhat intoxicated, knocked out with his fists twenty strong men in the streets of Warsaw, for Poles never distinguished themselves on the field of "giving one between the eyes" in the past, and prize fighting is only five or six years old in Poland, while the University of Cracow, Poland, is 570 years old.

SPEAKING OF PARADES.

Chicago, June 4.—I do not contradict Alexander Lindsay's criticisms of our parade. Americans are not paraders.

Then some of us have never gotten over the strain of the hike across France to save the English from the Germans in March, 1918. We drove the Heinies back all right and for days cooled our chow with the butts of the rifles the Scotch had thrown away. The Canadians are good paraders but they don't stand very well under fire.

PATRICK McGILOVICK.

AN INACCESSIBLE BEACH.

Chicago, June 1.—Ever since the beach at Montrose has been moved out, due to the beautifying of our outer drive, we who love to swim and cool off on these hot days and nights have had to walk or bum rides in automobiles from our friends to get out to this particular beach. To my knowledge there is absolutely no transportation provided for those of us who want to use this beach this summer. This beach is at least three-quarters of a mile from the nearest street car. STEPHEN DEAN.

PROTESTANTS JOIN CAMPAIGN ON DIRTY FILMS

Cardinal's Stand Praised Also by Jews.

While Catholic churchmen yesterday predicted that there may be a world-wide religious war on dirty Hollywood films. Protestant leaders of Chicago praised the leadership taken by Cardinal Mundelein on Monday, when he issued his statement announcing that the Chicago diocese will join in the fight.

DR. JOHN THOMPSON.

Among the religious leaders who acclaimed the stand taken by the Catholic church were the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist Chicago temple; Clifford P. Morehouse, editor of the periodical Living Church and a spokesman for Episcopal clergy, and a conference of rabbis, led by Solomon Goldman, spiritual leader of Temple Anshe Emet.

All of them promised support for the movement to end the production of salacious motion pictures. They announced their delight in the broad form of the Catholic campaign, in which they said Protestants, Catholics and Jews will be able to unite wholeheartedly for the first time.

All May Coöperate.

"I'm delighted that the Catholic church has taken action in regard to filthy motion pictures," said Dr. Thompson. "The position of the Catholic church in this drive makes it possible for all straight thinking, clean living people to coöperate in ridding the country of an immoral influence."

Said Rabbi Goldman: "Jewish leaders from all over the United States have pleaded from the pulpit for some means of cleaning up the movies. I am sure that throngs of our people now not only heard with pleasure of the formation of a concerted movement against smut but also will sign the pledge to boycott suggestive photoplays."

The sentiments of Editor Morehouse were published in editorial form recently in his magazne. He said: "It has remained for our Roman Catholic brethren to take action implementing the many resolutions against motion pictures made in the past by various communions. Such action is the only way that appears to have any effect upon the motion picture industry—namely: through the box office receipts.

"The word boycott is an ugly one, but it is sometimes effective when all other means have failed."

Prepared for Fight.

The predictions that the Catholic church was prepared to wage a fight in all the Catholic countries of the world as well as in the United States were made unofficially by spokesmen who refused to allow their names to be used.

"The Catholic church seeks no trouble," they said. "We want to bring about an elevation of the movies' moral tone as quickly and simply as possible.

"However, if the gentlemen in Hollywood say, 'Let the church mind its own business,' we will have twenty million men, women, and children in the United States who will promise to stay away from theaters where suggestive and immoral scenes are being exhibited. We can also exert a tremendous influence on forty millions of persons in countries outside the United States where film producers of Hollywood have markets."

Committee Directs Campaign.

The only official statement from Catholic sources was that of Chancellor Msgr. Robert McGuire from the chancery, 719 North Wabash avenue. He said that Cardinal Mundelein was unprepared at this time to amplify in any way his statement of Monday evening.

Msgr. McGuire said the organization and direction of the war against dirty films was being carried on entirely by a committee appointed by the Catholic hierarchy of North America in Washington last November. This committee is to meet on June 20, in the diocese of Archbishop John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati, its chairman. New directions may be forthcoming at that time, said Msgr. McGuire.

The Legion of Decency, the organization through which the church is attempting to bring the pressure of a general boycott upon the producers of sexy movies, was instituted following meetings of the hierarchy's committee several months ago. At the present time the legion, a voluntary group paying no dues, without officers and without meetings, is being supported by every denomination in the country. The members join by signing pledges to boycott salacious movies.

Elevated Trains Delayed by Fire in Signal Tower

North and west side elevated trains were delayed for 15 minutes shortly before 10 o'clock yesterday morning while firemen extinguished a blaze caused by a short circuit in the signal tower at the Van Buren and Wells streets intersection of the tracks. Power was turned off as firemen brought water towers into use to extinguish the blaze. Assistant Fire Marshal Joseph Mackey estimated the loss at $2,000.

PICK JURY TO TRY 4 ON CHARGE OF CHURCH ROBBERY

Prisoners Face Court After Long Delay.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Thomas Mooney, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Jack Prince, burglary, 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Robert McFarland, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Clarence Durnil, larceny, 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Raymond Palo, larceny of auto, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

A jury was selected in Judge Michael Feinberg's Criminal court to try four alleged members of the west side "42" gang on charges of robbing the rectory of St. Columbanus Catholic church, 331 East 71st street, last Oct. 29. They are on trial for robbing Mrs. Clara Noonan, 7430 South Michigan avenue, who entered the rectory while the robbery was in progress.

The defendants—Tony Mucerino, Albert Ferrari, James Arido, and Joseph Rocco—have been tried for robbing the priests, but they were acquitted by a jury. Assistant State's Attorney Emmet Moynihan says he has made a thorough investigation into the alibi evidence which the alleged robbers presented at their former trial.

Speed Up Jury Selection.

Judge Feinberg hurried the jury selection by announcing that under the law each defendant was entitled only to ten peremptory challenges instead of the twenty challenges heretofore allowed in robbery cases. He ruled the twenty challenge statute applied only to cases in which the punishment could be a flat life sentence and not to a crime such as robbery, for which the punishment is indeterminate, being one year to life.

The judge also informed Attorney Frank A. McDonnell that he would not allow the jurors to be examined as to their religious beliefs, as was done in a previous trial. As a result of these restrictions by the judge the defense exhausted its forty peremptory challenges during the first day and wac forced to accept the jury.

Further Delay Prevented.

Attorney McDonnell challenged a panel of prospectve jurors because they had witnessed his clients' efforts to duck a newspaper photographer. The attorney himself helped his clients avoid getting their photographs taken while Judge Feinberg was off the bench during a recess. The judge, however, simply summoned a new panel and there was no reply.

The defendants managed to avoid trial at one time by jumping their bonds as Judge Donald McKinlay was about to summon a jury. They surrendered three months later and their bonds were raised to a figure which now keeps them in jail. They then took a change of venue from Judge McKinlay.

3 Injured in Fight at Painters' Union Meeting

Three men were injured last night in a fight at a painters' union meeting at 3223 Roosevelt road, following a dispute over the method of nominating officers, the Fillmore street police reported. The attackers, who wielded chairs, had fled when two policemen arrived. Those injured, who were treated at a nearby doctor's office, are Lawrence Brier, 33, 4210 Grenshaw street; Frank Robbins, 36, 1502 North Kedzie avenue, and Leon Metrick, 31, 3502 Grenshaw street.

SAAR COMMISSION REMOVES NAZIS FROM CONTROL OF POLICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUCKEN, May 5.—President Geoffrey G. Knox of the Saar governing commission took action upon his return from Geneva tonight to try to make effective the new German guarantees against terrorism to force a favorable vote in next year's plebiscite.

Knox took the police department out of the hands of the Nazi controled city administration in Saarlouis, where three violent incidents have occurred since the guarantees agreed upon at Geneva. Control of the police was given to the district council, which is directly under the governing commission, and enjoys none of the autonomy of the city hall. Similar action is expected to follow in other towns.

The action of the government in Saarlouis followed by only a few hours the latest incident. The Saar Economic union, the leading anti-Nazi organization in town, this morning found its offices wrecked. Windows were broken and furniture smashed and thrown into the street. Yesterday the proprietor of the premises was beaten.

Catholics are prepared to make an issue of this incident because a large portrait of the pope was one of the things destroyed.

SINGER HEIRESS HAD DELUSIONS, ATTORNEY SAYS

Attacks 5 Million Will of Florence Pratt.

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—The late Mrs. Florence A. Pratt, daughter of Isaac Singer, sewing machine inventor, developed "mental delusions" in 1918 or earlier and "was not possessed of the testamentary capacity required by our laws," Harold H. Corbin, an attorney, declared today in Surrogate court.

Mr. Corbin represented Mrs. Pratt's sister, Mrs. Margaret A. Alexander, who objects to probate of the will disposing of most of the 5 million dollar estate to trades people, detectives and friends.

Seabury Represents Beneficiary.

Mr. Corbin related several incidents in support of his contention that Mrs. Pratt was of unsound mind when the will was drawn. Samuel Seabury, representing two legatees, said most of the charges as to Mrs. Pratt's mental condition were "from hearsay and not supported by any evidence."

Mr. Corbin charged that Mrs. Pratt violated a physician's order that her husband, Henry Pratt, former New York attorney, was not to be given a tub bath when he was seriously ill in 1924. He said she placed her husband under a shower and turned on hot water, causing him to scream for help. Mr. Corbin said Mr. Pratt died several days later.

Dispute Business Ability.

Mr. Corbin also said that Mrs. Pratt gave large sums of money to friends and later, becoming enraged because of some incident, sued them for the return of the money. Once, Mr. Corbin continued, Mrs. Pratt gave the chauffeur a thousand pounds and immediately sued for its recovery.

When she obtained judgments against creditors, Mr. Corbin said, she made no effort to collect.

Lee McCandless, counsel for the Guaranty Trust company, called several witnesses to the stand and introduced correspondence between them and Mrs. Pratt which was intended to show that the testatrix was an "exceptionally keen, practical and shrewd business woman," as she was described by Mr. Seabury on Monday at the opening of the trial.

ELECTION BOARD ENDS CANVASS ON JUDICIAL VOTE

The election commissioners' canvass of votes cast in Monday's judicial election was completed last evening, and the tabulation of the totals was under way last evening in the quarters of the board of election commissioners. The final results of the election will be announced today, when the results of the canvass conducted by the election commissioners and that made by clerks in the office of County Clerk Sweitzer, who has jurisdiction over the election in country precincts, will be added.

Last evening members of the Republican county committee gathered to consider the advisability of a contest of the election of Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington to a vacancy in the Circuit bench. The name of the candidate was written in on the ballot at the direction of Democratic precinct committeemen when the party decided to back him after the sudden death of Ald. Frank J. Corr, the regular nominee. Attorneys for the Republicans said that there may be grounds for a suit in his election, but no decision was reached when the meeting adjourned.

CHINESE PREPARE TO SIGN RAILWAY PACT WITH JAPS

Would Resume Trafic to Manchukuo.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 5.—Although the action still awaits ratification by the executive yuan, highest organ of the Chinese Nationalist government, reports from Tientsin today said through tickets are already being sold in preparation for the inauguration of direct rail communication between Manchukuo and China.

While China has carefully refrained from taking any action which might be interpreted as de facto recognition of the Japanese protected state and as neutralizing the nonrecognition policy adopted by the league of nations, observers declare the latest development constitutes practical recognition of Manchukuo and China's complete observance of the terms of the Tangku truce which ended Sino-Japanese hostilities in north China.

Japs Concentrate Troops.

While negotiations, mostly secret, were proceeding at Nanking the Japanese steadily increased their military forces along the Great Wall. This led the Chinese to believe that unless they agreed to Japan's terms the Nipponese would act arbitrarily.

Chinese newspapers regard the most serious element in the resumption of rail communication as the fact that the Japanese controled South Manchuria railway will operate trains directly into Tientsin and Peiping. This eliminates exclusive Chinese control over the 300 mile section of the railway between Peiping and Shanhaikwan, which practically becomes a subsidiary of the South Manchuria road.

The Japanese already have strong military garrisons along the entire route from Shanhaikwan southward through the so-called neutral zone, including large forces both at Peiping and Tientsin.

Plan Further Expansion.

It also means a further expansion of the South Manchuria line, which operated only 650 miles in Manchuria prior to the seizure of that territory in 1931, but has now expanded to a system of about 3,000 miles.

The Japanese recently made a loan to the Chinese Peiping-Suiyuan line, indicating plans for still further future expansion in Inner Mongolia. This would bring the entire region in addition to north China within the scope of Japan's military and economic influence.

Dr. H. H. Kung, finance minister, today announced a prospective budget deficit of $100,000,000 silver due to military expenditures in connection with the war against communists. This war has consumed $450,000,000 silver out of a total government income of $816,000,000 silver.

[A Chinese silver dollar is currently worth 28 cents.]

NATIONS HEDGING ON LEAGUE PLAN FOR BAN ON ARMS

GENEVA, June 5.—(AP)—The league of nations today dispatched urgent cablegrams to Moscow and Tokio petitioning Russia and Japan to join an international embargo on shipments of arms to Paraguay and Bolivia.

The pleas were sent to the two nations after Italy had announced that it will not send arms to the warring South American nations if Japan and Russia refrained from doing so. League officials fear the problem is becoming a sort of an endless chain, and that Russia and Japan may make participation contingent on definite action of other states. Italy, it was stated, reserves the right to fill arms orders already received from the belligerents.

Luxemburg has agreed to participate in the embargo, but the league still awaits a statement from Germany. Officials are finding it increasingly difficult and complicated to apply a watertight, collective ban on arms.

All Corrected Tax Bills Sent to Four Townships

George Hagenauer, chief auditor in the county treasurer's office, announced yesterday that all of the corrected 1934 tax bills were in the mails for the city townships of Rogers Park, Lakeview, Northtown, and Jefferson. Already payments totaling $150,000 on the $750,000 due from these townships have been made, he said. The auditor urged that property owners who fail to receive corrected bills for taxes still due should notify the treasurer's office.

Lose Fat Safely and Quickly

Kruschen Salts—(a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body should have to function properly) purify your blood of harmful acids, and aid the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material—the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy foods you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have Kruschen Salts.

Take a half teaspoon every morning before breakfast in a glass of hot water—little by little that ugly fat disappears, you'll feel better than ever before—years younger, more energy. You'll soon possess that enviable beauty, clear skin, sparkling eyes, superb figure which only perfect health can impart.

An 85c bottle (lasts 4 weeks) at any progressive druggist in America. Money back if Kruschen doesn't convince you that it is the safest, quickest, easiest way to lose fat.

A Hartford woman writes: "I'll tell the world Kruschen Salts is wonderful stuff to reduce." An Ohio woman lost 10 pounds with one bottle.

Henderson, Barthou Exchange Names.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, June 5.—The disarmament conference today degenerated into a propaganda duel between hostile ideas and blocs of nations as the steering committee again met and again adjourned without adding anything new to the deadlock which has existed since the middle of last week.

This afternoon's session was a repetition of yesterday's, only a little more vicious. It was marked by another one of those old men's quarrels, like the Sir John Simon-Louis Barthou one of last week, which has done so much to poison the atmosphere here. The French foreign minister — Battling Barthou, the press gallery has dubbed him—was on one end of it. The other party was Arthur Henderson, British president of the conference.

Henderson Passes Lie.

Barthou made a speech setting forth with his usual bluntness the French thesis that the conference must not coax Germany back, but must let her make up her own mind. His way of expressing himself ruffled his adversary, and Henderson blew up.

He accused Barthou of making a false statement, indignantly refuted the veiled accusations of partiality in his functions as president of the conference, and virtually called Barthou an old trouble maker.

He wound up by challenging the French delegation to contribute some constructive proposal, threatening otherwise to convoke the general commission tomorrow and announce to the world that the conference has broken down.

Barthou Offers Apology.

Barthou saw the trap which British diplomacy had set for him, and into which he had almost walked. He saw that if the conference closed down now, the blame would be thrown on the French, which is just what the British want, so he beat a strategic retreat. He made a handsome apology, which Henderson somewhat less handsomely acknowledged, and declared that the conference must not close down. He didn't offer any constructive proposals, however.

The meeting then adjourned until tomorrow to let the boys cool off. The meeting of the general commission, which was scheduled for tomorrow, was postponed to avoid a public blow-up.

6 KILLED, MANY SHOT IN SPAIN'S FARMERS' STRIKE

MADRID, June 5.—(AP)—Six persons were killed and many wounded in bitter clashes on the first day of Spain's general farm strike, it was revealed tonight. Censorship delayed publication of the news.

Official sources had pronounced the nation-wide strike a "failure" and declared the number of workers who left their jobs was so small that the threatened loss of crops was avoided.

Clashes between strikers and workers occurred chiefly in the provinces of Aranjuez, Badajoz, Jaen, Granada, and Seville. Two farm owners were killed at Manchareal when civil guards fired upon strikers and farm owners. At Alconchel farmers attacked civil guards, knifing a corporal, and the guards shot into the crowd. One farmer was killed and three wounded. Three persons were killed at Aranjuez when civil guards dispersed strike demonstrators.

Four hoodlums, riding in a car without lights, outdistanced a police squad early yesterday morning after a pursuit which began at 47th street and Damen avenue and ended at 36th street and Wabash avenue.

CUBAN HOODLUMS RENEW ATTACKS ON FOREIGNERS

Beat Up Spanish Consul's Driver; Guard U.S. Homes

HAVANA, Cuba, June 5.—(AP)—Rowdies today attacked and beat the chauffeur of the Spanish consul here in the second attack on a diplomat's driver within a week.

The chauffeur, Justo Perna, 35, was seriously injured by three men who wielded clubs, but physicians said he would recover. One of the alleged assailants and a man accused of driving their automobile were arrested after police went to the Spaniard's rescue.

While Perna attributed the attack to the fact that he does not belong to the Havana Chauffeurs' union, the authorities strengthened their precautions for protection of foreigners.

Guard United States Property.

Heavy guards already have been placed about prominent Americans and American property as the result of terrorists' activities. These include two attacks on the home of Jefferson Caffery, American ambassador, and the waylaying of the automobile of H. Freeman Matthews, first secretary of the embassy.

The American chauffeur, Charles Taylor, escaped uninjured when gunmen stopped him May 28, broke his windshield, and warned him and his employer, Matthews, to leave Cuba.

The Spanish chauffeur was attacked as he waited in the car for the wife of Consul Rafael Lopez Santonja, who was shopping. The machine was parked in the Prado, boulevard which stretches from the waterfront to the capitol.

Police Shoot at Attackers.

The three men rode up in an automobile, jumped out and beat Perna with their clubs. Police ran to the scene, shooting at the assailants, who fled.

The man accused of taking part in the attack gave his name as José Huesca, a Cuban. He was caught by guards at the United States embassy, which is three blocks from the scene of the attack.

Because of continued terrorism, the secretary of the interior announced tonight, Cuba's constitutional guarantees, protecting individuals from molestation by the state, will continue suspended for a further 90 day period.

President Mendieta suspended ten of the guarantees on March 6. The constitution provides certain articles may be suspended in case of "serious internal disturbances."

Federal Judge Refuses Mooney Reconsideration

San Francisco, Cal., June 5.—(AP)—Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure late today declined to reconsider his decision denying Tom Mooney's petition for a writ to free him from San Quentin prison, where he is serving a life term for conviction of the 1916 preparedness parade bombing.

REPORTS A GAIN IN JOB CHANCES FOR GRADUATES

University graduates in all fields of learning will find their chances for employment this year greatly increased over last year, according to F. W. Cosner, director of placement for Northwestern university, who yesterday announced the results of a survey on the subject.

"Jobs can and are being found," he declared. "By the middle of July we expect to place nearly 60 per cent of those seniors who have made application for work. A year ago we were able to find jobs for only 25 per cent of those applying."

Many employers, however, are asking for graduates of last year and the year before, Mr. Cosner said, a stiff competitive situation for this June's graduating classes. Large corporations, he said, are once more in the field for college men and representatives have already hired a number.

The pay of jobs open to this year's graduates averages slightly less than $100 a month, the survey showed. The outgoing collegian, however, is ready to take anything ranging from $20 to $25 a week.

BRITISH POSTAL SYSTEM PROFITS $61,000,000; RECORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 5.—The biggest profit in its history was earned by the British postoffice for the year ending last March.

This was revealed in a report presented to parliament tonight by Postmaster General Sir Kingsley Wood, in which the surplus for the year 1933-'34 was estimated at $61,980,000 at par, an increase of $6,701,415 over the previous year.

Of this huge sum more than $58,000,000 was accounted for by the postal services, while $7,140,000 came from telephones. On the telegraph service, there was a deficit of more than $3,000,000, which, however, was the lowest in many years.

"TODAY I'M A SALESMAN, AND I'M MAKING GOOD MONEY AT IT!"

"After four years in a university, and a year at the Beaux Arts, I got a job in an architect's office, here in Chicago. I was a draftsman, and not bad at it. I've figured out fancy cornices and set-backs for some of the big new buildings here. But that was before the depression! We had twenty-five draftsmen in our office, when the going was good. They melted away, two and three at a time. Finally I went. I knew it was coming, but well . . . I was out of work three solid years. One day I met Collins. He used to be the engineering shark in our office. Figured stresses and strains and all that. He looked prosperous and I asked him how he did it. Said he was selling. Told me that you can make real money selling if you get hooked up with the right concern and they show you how to do it. I'm getting along fine and I like the work. I don't care if they ever start building again!"

● Have the opportunities in your line dried up? Are you tired of waiting and hoping? Have you turned your back on selling opportunities because you were pre convinced that you couldn't sell?

Don't let wrongly-conceived notions bar the way to a future which may hold big things for you. Invest a little time, right now, in finding out about the sales opportunities which are open today!

Turn to the Salesmen, Solicitors, etc., column in the Tribune Want Ad section now and read the ads of concerns calling for men to add to their selling organizations. Make up a list of the offers which appeal to you, and then follow them up—today!

BANK'S HANDLING OF BUSBY ESTATE UPHELD BY COURT

Widow Loses Suit Against First National.

The First National bank was not negligent in handling the estate of the late Leonard A. Busby, traction magnate, but was faithful, competent and used its best judgment in liquidating the estate, Circuit Judge George Fred Rush ruled yesterday.

Consequently, he denied the petition of the widow, Mrs. Esther C. Busby, who filed suit against the bank to recover $507,344 equity in the estate, which was engulfed in the depression stock market.

The ruling upheld that of Probate Judge John F. O'Connell, made last Nov. 27. Attorney Edward Johnston, counsel for Mrs. Busby, announced that he would carry the fight to the Appellate court.

Result of "Freakish" Market.

The essence of Judge Rush's opinion was that the wiping out of the estate was the result of a "freakish and unpredictable" market condition, and that while the bank's judgment could now be criticized, in the light of history, it was a sincere and honest judgment at the time. The opinion said:

"It is true, as Mr. Johnston argues, that if the assets had been sold as quickly as the executor (the bank) received letters of administration, the estate might have cashed in and saved a part of the equity. But no one suggested such a quick sale, and no one was able to judge such an event.

"No one moved the court or requested the executor to throw the estate upon the market. The bank's judgment was a considered and careful judgment, but in this unpredictable period of deflation of values and credits, and in a market of freakish ups and downs, their judgment, however careful, was doomed, as we know it now, to be mistaken.

Reasoning of the Court.

"It would have been better to sell at once, we all now know as a matter of history. But is this executor, acting for the most part through its president (the late Melvin A. Traylor), the personal friend of Mr. Busby, after using his best judgment, to be found guilty of negligence, and to be charged wih some vague sum for not selling at some vague point of time, because the evidence shows as a matter of history that it would have been better to have sold as soon as letters were obtained?

Mr. Busby's estate, at the time of his death, in September of 1930, was estimated at $1,637,000.

Mrs. Busby had testified before both Judge O'Connell and Judge Rush that, had the bank acted promptly during the market panic, a net value of $650,000 could have been recovered for her. Instead, she said, she found herself penniless where she expected an income of $25,000.

Points to Makeup of Estate.

In commenting further on the handling of the estate, Judge Rush's opinion said:

"The estate, aside from insurance provision for his [Mr. Buusby's] family, consisted of nine-tenth in speculative shares of stock and one-tenth in bonds, all but $139,000 pledged as collateral to secure loans from brokers and banks.

"Mr. Traylor, president of the bank, was a personal friend of Mr. Busby, and together with the regular officers of the bank in the trust department gave his own special services and advice in administering and in liquidating the estate.

"Mr. Traylor obtained a loan of over half a million dollars from his own bank in order to free the stocks and bonds from where they were pledged as collateral for loans at different brokers and banks, so the entire assets might not be sold out by some great drop in the market.

Money Staked by Bank.

"By this loan the executor bank staked its own money upon the faith of the success of the liquidation of the Busby estate. It was Mr. Traylor's idea and judgment more especially that in liquidating the estate of his friend he and the officials of the bank would pay attention to the true market values of the same.

"The bank officials made a careful list of what stocks and bonds to sell before others, and obtained Mrs. Busby's consent to sell. Up to Sept. 1, 1931, within a year of Mr. Busby's death, they sold about three-fourths of the entire estate.

"The desperate condition of the estate itself, and the unprecedented depression and freakish condition of the market, with its alternation, small ups and longer downs, forced the estate into insolvency."

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: A Bright Thought

DOCTOR REVEALS 'QUINTS' BEGAN AS SEXTUPLETS

Says 6 Embryos Were Formed.

CORBEIL, Ont., June 5.—(AP)—The country doctor who presided over the birth of Mrs. Ovila Dionne's quintuplets revealed today that but for an accident of fate there would have been six children instead of five.

"I think there was a possibility of sextuplets," said Dr. A. R. Dafoe in discussing the five mites, 8 days old, who are holding their own against the death medical scientists have widely predicted for them.

"I believe six embryos formed and one did not mature," he declared.

The five little Dionnes—Marie, Emilie, Cecile, Annette, and Yvonne—lay in their baskets and incubators impervious to the publicity. Medical attendants declared they are gaining strength.

Annette Punches Yvonne.

Today Annette, who weighs 2 pounds 4 ounces, punched Yvonne in the nose. Yvonne weighs 2¼ ounces more than Annette. It may have been an accident, that punch in the nose, but to Dr. Dafoe it was evidence of increasing animation and strength.

"It looked really funny," the doctor said.

The quintuplets had a distinguished visitor today who joined with the family physician in expressing the belief that if the little girls continue to feed well for the remainder of this week they will continue to grow.

Visitor Doctor's Brother.

The visitor was Dr William A. Dafoe, Toronto specialist and demonstrator of obstetrics at the University of Toronto, a younger brother of Dr. A. R. Dafoe.

The Toronto physician, the first visiting medical man to see the infants, expressed amazement that the five little bodies, now totaling only 10 pounds and 2½ ounces in weight, could hold life.

"Of course," he said, "they have no right to be alive at all. But they are and that is the wonder of it.

"Both my brother and I are convinced they are uniovular babies, that all five lives sprang from the same cell. They are what we doctors call identical babies. This is proved by the fact they are all female and that there was for them all but one placenta. The blood supply all came from one stream, which also helps along the uniovular theory."

Astonished at Appetite.

The Toronto specialist expressed astonishment at the eagerness with which the children feed. He endorsed the feeding every two hours. Although he said the practice in a hospital is to feed premature babies every three hours, the Dionne infants could not wait that long.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe said that Marie, weakest of the infants, was somewhat stronger today. He indicated there had been no change in the babies' condition and that their chances of living were neither more nor less than previously.

STUDENTS WALK OUT, GAIN RIGHT TO OPEN HIGH SCHOOL WINDOWS

Andover, N. Y., June 5.—(AP)—By striking, Andover High school students have won the right to have the windows open on hot days, even if open windows make the rooms warmer.

They wanted the windows open yesterday, but the janitor told them open windows interfered with the ventilation system and would add to the warmth. The students were determined and so was the janitor, so more than 100 boys and girls walked out.

Today the board of education had a test made. The building was about six degrees warmer with the windows open, but the students insisted on the right of opening them if they desired and the board told them they might.

$250,000 FIRE IN ONTARIO.

SARNIA, Ont., June 5.—(AP)—Damage estimated by the fire department at from from $250,000 to $300,000 was caused today by fire which broke out in the basement of the Zeller store and spread quickly to three other nearby business houses on Front street.

2 HURT IN CRASH WITH STOLEN CAR; YOUTH ARRESTED

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 26; recovered, 18; stripped, 4 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Monday].

One youth was captured and another escaped under police fire yesterday after the stolen automobile in which they were riding crashed into another car, seriously injuring two men.

Walter Drezsik, 17 years old, 1409 Huron street, was arrested by Sergt. Fred O'Day and his squad after the stolen car had crashed into a machine driven by Joseph Leone, 23 years old, 4512 Lowe avenue, at Cornell street and Ashland avenue.

Two passengers in Leone's car were hurt. They are Victor Zito, 31 years old, 651 Division street, and Joseph Guzzardo, 21, of 1152 Milton street.

Slight Quakes Are Felt in California After Storm

San Francisco, June 5.—(AP)—Slight earthquakes were felt today in the San Joaquin valley, but no damage was reported. The shock was recorded at Pasadena on instruments of the Carnegie Institution of Washington Seismological laboratory and attendants estimated it was centered about 300 miles to the north. The tremors followed a freak rain with thunder and lightning. Precipitation at Hanford totaled .11 inch.

A. S. Alschuler Honored by Armour Tech Alumni

For serving as trustee of the Armour Institute of Technology for 15 years and sitting on the school's executive board since 1928, Alfred S. Alschuler, Chicago architect, last night received the alumni association's annual award for service to the institute. Nearly 300 alumni attended a dinner at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club.

2 MORE TESTIFY TO SHAKEDOWN IN LANGER TRIAL

State Employes Tell of Gifts to Leader.

Bismarck, N. D., June 5.—(AP)—Two more state employés were added today to the list of witnesses who have testified they pledged part of their salaries to the Leader, state administration newspaper, as the government continued presentation of its case against Gov. William Langer and seven co-defendants.

P. W. Lanier, United States district attorney, told the court he sought by this testimony to show violation of a state law and that a general conspiracy existed.

Under U. S. Indictment.

The defendants are charged in federal indictments with conspiring to obstruct operation of congressional recovery and relief legislation by seeking contributions to the Leader from workers paid with federal relief funds.

Miss Vera Inman, highway department telephone operator, told the jury she had given four post-dated checks for $10.50 each in payment of pledges to the Leader.

Lose Jobs for Demurring.

L. A. Cook, assistant bookkeeper for the state highway department, said he had contributed 5 per cent of his salary after he was asked to pledge by Harold McDonald, solicitor for the Leader, and a defendant in the case.

Two former state workers testified they were discharged following their failure to contribute to the Leader.

FARMER HANGS HIMSELF.

English, Ind., June 5.—[Special.]—Dan Enlow, 48, farmer living near Taswell, committed suicide by hanging this morning. Despondency over loss of the sight in one eye and ill health are blamed.

MOSCOW HAILS ARCTIC EXPLORER WHO WAS SAVED FROM ICE FLOE

MOSCOW, June 5.—(AP)—A great crowd, its mass brightened with the red banners of the proletariat, today thronged a railroad station to greet Prof. Otto Schmidt, arctic explorer who was rescued with other members of his party from an arctic ice floe last winter.

The rescue and the intrepid expedition of the venerable, red bearded explorer had thrilled the soviet nation. So eager was the populace to honor the professor that cavalrymen and police motor cars had to swing into action to prevent a wild rush to the platform which he mounted to make a short address.

The greeting took place in the Alexandrovsky square. Airplanes maneuvered overhead, all arms of the military were represented and bouquets were showered on the embarrassd professor. The steamer Cheliuskin, in which Prof. Schmidt's expedition went north, was crushed by ice. Lives of all but one of the exploration party were saved.

COMPANY GIVES CHARITY $5,574 IN UNCLAIMED TAX

Marshall Field & Co. yesterday turned over to the Community Fund Allied Chicago Charities a check for $5,574, collected as sales tax under the old law which was declared unconstitutional and for which the persons who paid the tax have failed to make claims. Last July the same concern sent the community fund $31,410 from the same source. An additional sum was retained to pay off claims as they came in from the persons who had paid. The amount paid yesterday represents the last of the unclaimed tax funds.

FULLER'S DEATH IN AUTO WRECK HELD ACCIDENT

A coroner's jury, after investigating the death of William Fuller, 39 years old, 209 Lake Shore drive, who was killed on May 19 when his automobile crashed into the Grant monument in Lincoln park, returned a verdict of accidental death yesterday.

A statement from Miss Betty Ryder, 830 Sunnyside avenue, a radio writer who was with Fuller at the time of the accident, described how the speeding car brushed against a parked automobile and then plunged into the statue. Miss Ryder is in a hospital because of her injuries.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce to Pay Bills, Save Homestead

NICE, France, June 5.—(AP)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce has dispatched an urgent cablegram to the sherif saying she will pay the butcher, baker and dressmaker to save the homestead. Tradesmen here had attached lavish furnishings of her French villa, and officials were threatening to dispose of them at auction to pay the bills of the merchants. The cablegram today said Peggy is leaving New York for France June 9.

CHILD, 13, DIES "NO SQUEALER"; ARREST BOY, 15

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—A swarthy Chickasaw Indian boy, 15 years old, wept tonight because he defeated a very pale pale-face in battle, though he contends Meyer Geller, 13 years old, "chose him" by pegging him in the eye with a pebble.

Meyer died of blows received in the contest. Scarcely recovered from spinal meningitis, Meyer had won the epithet of "fraid-cat" because he avoided fights.

After he came from school, he complained that his "head hurt." Soon the seriousness of his condition became evident, and he was told of the danger of dying. He refused, however, to identify his antagonist, other than to say he was "a bigger boy."

"I ain't," he explained, "a squealer."

"I wish I hadn't paid any attention to him. I didn't want to hurt him bad, but he was as big as me and I didn't know he was weak."

AUTOIST LOSES ARM.

Lincoln, Ill., June 5.—[Special.]—Driving with an arm out of his automobile, Waid Howard, 45 years old, of Atlanta, lost the arm today when his car and a truck sideswiped.

HIGH MASS TODAY AT NOTRE DAME FOR O'DONNELL

Clergy and Alumni Will Attend Service.

Solemn requiem high mass will be held today for the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame university, who died Monday morning after a lingering illness. The services will be held at 10 a. m. in the Sacred Heart church on the university grounds.

Rev. James W. Donahue, superior general of the Congregation of Holy Cross, will chant the mass. There will be no sermon. The Moreau Seminary choir of Notre Dame will sing.

Alumni to Attend.

Hundreds of prominent alumni of the university, members of the clergy and Notre Dame supporters from various parts of the middle west are expected to attend. Among the clergy who have signified their intention of attending the services are the Rev. Charles Coughlin of Royal Oaks, Mich., and the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, D. D. V. G., auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

Burial will be in the Community cemetery on the campus of the university.

Pallbearers will include four former classmates of Father O'Donnell. They are the Rev. Eugene Burke, the Rev. Charles Doremus, the Rev. John McGinn, and the Rev. John Ryan. Others are the Rev. Thomas Burke and the Rev. William H. Molony. All are members of the Congregation of the Holy Cross.

Ill Since March, 1933.

Father O'Donnell, only 47 years old, was one of the youngest university presidents. He was elevated to the presidency in 1928 from an English professorship. He immediately launched a $5,000,000 expansion program which included the construction of numerous academic buildings and the stadium where Notre Dame football teams have attracted thousands each season.

He fell ill in March, 1933, of a streptococcus infection of the throat and left lung. The infection spread to his intestines and soon after he ceased his activities at the university.

W. E. SHARP DIES; HEAD OF RAILWAY SUPPLY CONCERN

William E. Sharp, 64 years old, railway supplies manufacturer, died Monday night in his home at 10848 Longwood drive. During his career he perfected a number of railroad devices which won him recognition.

Born on a farm in Huntington county, Indiana, he was educated in the public schools there and later became an apprentice in the Chicago and Atlantic railroad shop, now the Erie road. He later went to work with Armour & Co., but resigned in 1911 to become vice president of the Grip Nut company. He became president in 1916.

Mr. Sharp was a Mason and a member of the Odd Fellows' club, the South Shore and Beverly Country clubs and the Union League club. He was also an elder in the Presbyterian church and a member of the board of directors of the Chicago Industrial league and the Presbyterian hospital.

Mr. Sharp is survived by his widow, Mrs. Minnie Elizabeth Hutsell Sharp, two daughters, Sarah Pauline and Agnes A., and a son, John Hutsell Sharp. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 today at the Bethany Union church, thence to Oakwoods cemetery.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Soft as an Anvil

FORMER MAYOR OF JACKSONVILLE, ILL., DIES IN HIS OFFICE

Jacksonville, Ill., June 5.—(AP)—John J. Reeve, mayor of Jacksonville from 1927 to 1933, died suddenly in his law office today. He was 72 years old.

He was grand chancellor of the Illinois Knights of Pythias in 1917 and supreme outer guard of the order in 1922. Prominent in Republican politics, Reeve was postmaster here from 1904 to 1912, practiced law 40 years, and was a member of the board of governors of the Illinois Bar association.

ALDERMAN CORR IS PAID TRIBUTE BY CITY COUNCIL

A resolution expressing sorrow at the death of Ald. Frank J. Corr [17th], and extending sympathy to members of his family was passed yesterday by rising vote of the city council. The resolution was introduced by Ald. Terrence F. Moran [16th], whose seat was next to that of Corr in the council chamber.

The city hall will be closed today in deference to Mr. Corr, and the entrances will be draped in black. Mayor Kelly and the aldermen will gather at the hall at 9:15 a. m. and will go in a body to the funeral services at St. Bernard's church, 67th street and Stewart avenue, at 10:30 a. m.

After the passage of the resolution the mayor and members of the council spoke briefly, praising Corr for his work as alderman and during the time he was acting mayor of the city.

Funeral in Joliet Today for Arthur C. Leach, 55

Funeral services for Arthur C. Leach, 55 years old, wealthy lumberman, who died Monday, will be held at 1:45 p. m. today in St. John's Universalist church in Joliet. He was a former president of the Joliet school board, the Rotary club and Association of Commerce. Mr. Leach is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Ione Leach Davis of Joliet and Mrs. Norman J. Williams of Chicago Heights.

Funeral Services Held for Mrs. Florence Mayer

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence Blum Mayer, widow of David Mayer, pioneer dry goods merchant, and mother of three sons and a daughter prominent in Chicago, were held yesterday afternoon in the Rosehill cemetery chapel. The service was read by Dr. Solomon Freehoff, formerly of Chicago and now of Pittsburgh. Burial was at Rosehill.

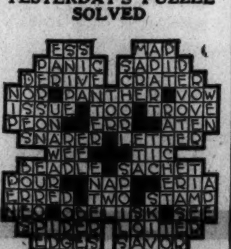
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



COLUMBIA CHAIN HAS NEW SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT

George Givot Heads Talent Lineup.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

George Givot, who rose to radio fame last season as "the Greek ambassador of good will" on NBC, has been engaged by the Columbia network to head the talent lineup for an hour's show every Saturday evening from 9 to 10 o'clock. An orchestra of 25 pieces, singers, stooges, and other air favorites yet to be chosen will complete the entertainment roster. First program will go on the air next Saturday.

Al Jolson is on his way to make a third effort to conquer the microphone. On his first major encounter with radio a season or so back Al practically admitted defeat. A year ago he joined the lineup of the Paul Whiteman-Deems Taylor circus and achieved a measure of acclaim. Jolson and Ruby Keeler, his wife, have just left Hollywood for a leisurely cruise via Panama back to New York. After a short vacation at his Scarsdale home he will be featured on Whiteman's Music Hall, dramatizing great moments from the lives of the great.

"Mystery" Baritone.

That "mystery baritone" on the Whiteman hour has been recognized by many local listeners as Norman Cordon, who sang with Chicago's Merriemen quartet for several seasons and who appeared with the Chicago Grand Opera company last winter. Cordon used to sing at the Chicago church where J. L. Kraft, president of the company sponsoring Whiteman, worships. The baritone was not brought to the attention of the program builders, however, by Mr. Kraft.

Joe Penner will start a 20 week layoff July 1. He will take a boat for California and picture making. He is to return late in the fall and is signed through 1935 and 1936 for radio appearances. . . Lum and Abner, whose rural humor, was supplanted on the networks by Fred Waring's music, will probably be brought to Chicago from Minneapolis soon by their current sponsors, time and outlet yet to be determined. . . . Zasu Pitts will be a guest in the Hall of Fame program Sunday; Mae West may follow on the succeeding Sunday, although negotiations are not completed.

Baar to Lead Parade.

Bill Baar, radio's Grandpa Burton, in full makeup, will be grand marshal of the children's day parade at the Fair tomorrow. . . . Gladys Swarthout's husband, Baritone Frank Chapman, has been teamed with her on the new NBC Garden hour series. . . . Jack Benny, busy enough now with radio and the movies, has been signed for a new play to be produced in the fall by Sam Harris. George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind are writing the piece, which is to be titled, "Bring Back the Girls."

Betty McLean, local NBC actress and producer, is the bride of Alfred J. Kendrick, general manager of the World Broadcasting company, since last Saturday. . . . Schumann-Heink will celebrate her 73d birthday Thursday, June 14. Marking the occasion the famous contralto will sing "Stille Nacht," identified with her name for generations on her broadcast next Sunday evening. . . . Lawrence Salerno, W-G-N baritone, will inaugurate a sponsored morning series, Monday, June 18. . . . Ralph Kirberry, the "Dream Singer," will replace Walter Winchell when he leaves the air for the summer.

CAROLINE AHL, 84, WILL BE BURIED THIS AFTERNOON

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock today for Mrs. Caroline Ahl, who died Sunday afternoon in her home at 8424 North Oakley avenue at the age of 84. She had been ill since October.

Mrs. Ahl was born in Schoenbruch, Germany. She was married to Frederick Ahl, a wagon maker, and 45 years ago they moved with their four children to Chicago. Mr. Ahl died of pneumonia seven years later. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Grace Gumpert, with whom she lived; Mrs. Anna Hauck, Mrs. Emmy Claus, one son, Otto, nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The services will be held in a chapel at 2056-58 Belmont avenue. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Kills Self Near 'Whoopee' Auto Ride He Once Owned

Henry H. Ruby, 57 years old, a used tire dealer living at 4541 North Central Park avenue, shot himself to death yesterday at Wolf Lake, North Hammond, Ind., within a few yards of an automobile "whoopee ride" that he had once owned. He had talked with the present operators of the ride for a time, and then had retired to one of the vacant cottages nearby. An hour later he was found dead, a revolver in his hand. Relatives said he had been worried over business affairs. The body was taken to the Whiting, Ind., morgue.

Lieut. Frank Scholle Jr., Ex-Official of Legion, Dies

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—Lieut. Frank Schoble Jr., blinded world war veteran and former national vice commander of the American Legion, died tonight in a hospital after a nine months' illness. He was 47.

GEN. AINSWORTH, SYSTEMATIZER OF RECORDS, IS DEAD

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—One of the army's most able organizers, Maj. Gen. Fred C. Ainsworth, retired, will be buried tomorrow in Arlington cemetery with full military honors.

Ainsworth, whose methodical mind brought order out of the confusion that once prevailed in the army's record division, died today at his apartment after a long period of failing health.

Born in Woodstock, Vt., Sept. 11, 1852, Ainsworth was commissioned as first lieutenant and assistant surgeon in 1874. He participated in several Indian campaigns in the west and in 1892 was detailed for duty as chief of the record and pension office.

Ainsworth's retirement in 1912 was at his own request because of a difference with the chief of staf and secretary of war over methods of reorganization in the adjutant general's office.

250,000 MOURNERS STORM POLICE AT TOGO'S FUNERAL

TOKIO, June 5.—(AP)—Japan's common people, saying farewell today to their hero, Admiral Marquis Heihachiro Togo, paid him a more moving tribute than the gold braided dignitaries who participated in the state funeral.

During the noon hour the casket rested in a shrine in Hibiya park and after the princes, admirals, and ambassadors departed the public was permitted to pay homage to the hero of the Russo-Japanese war, who died May 30.

So many persons attempted to enter the park and file past the casket that police frequently were on the verge of losing control of the multitude. An estimated 250,000 persons filled the park to overflowing.

Police reported one person died of heart failure and 53 others were treated at first aid stations for fainting and minor injuries.

N. H. HULTIN, 64, UNDERTAKER ON NORTH SIDE, DIES

N. H. Hultin, 64 years old, veteran north side undertaker, died Monday at his summer cottage at Lac du Flambeau, Wis., of heart disease. He had been ill for more than a year. Mr. Hultin, a native of Sweden, came to Chicago as a youth. He had been an undertaker for 40 years. He was a Mason, Shriner, Knight Templar, Knight of Pythias, Odd Fellow, Moose, and Elk. He also belonged to several Swedish societies and to the Medinah Country club. Funeral services are to be held at Trinity Lutheran church, Seminary and Barry avenues, at 3:[illegible] p. m. tomorrow. Until that time the body of Mr. Hultin will lie in state in the Hultin undertaking establishment at 3176 North Clark street.

Like an Accordion! The unique accordion fold of the Chicago Tribune's new 1934 Chicagoland Map makes it easy to handle. You need never have more than one-eighth of the map open when driving—it is the same size when driving as when in your pocket. This new, finest of all Chicagoland Maps covers more territory, gives more information. Many new features have been added—tourist camps, separated 2 and 1-lane pavements, wooded areas other than forest preserves—are just a few. This new map shows, clearly and accurately, the safest, quickest roads to any place in the Chicago territory you may want to drive to for business or pleasure—towns, golf courses, airports, beauty spots. The Newest for Sports Wear

From a Chicago shop . . . the newest active and spectator sports wear ensemble, a slim dress of candlewick bedspread stuff, matched to a loose swagger coat also of the same tufted muslin. Made of a salmon pink muslin and crossed with navy blue and white cotton tufts.

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

A Candlewick Bedspread Can Go Places Now

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Something decidedly new, under this summer's sun!

Good old candlewick counterpanes or bedspreads are now all slashed up for super smart sports dresses. They are just daring enough to make the most hardened shopper gasp with amazed unbelief. Imagine a pale yellow muslin background tufted in bunches of ginger brown, beige, and bright yellow, the bunches in large diagonal rows, or a dusky pink background with white and blue tufts of contrasting yarn.

What you will lose your heart to is a swanky swagger coat of all white, also made of this bunchy stuff. It makes the best looking summer sports coat you ever wore. The entire story sounds a bit goofy, but you'll be surprised how knockout they all are.

These are dresses in short, cool looking sleeveless styles, two piece costumes with a slim tufted dress and matching long loose coat, all the edible cool colors as well as some of the breath taking high color combinations, to wear for strong contrast against beach and countryside.

Fashion photograph . . . one of the best of the counterpane costumes, an effective two piece ensemble of sleeveless dress and smart swagger length coat. White yarn cord and tassels trim the shoulders and belt line. The background is soft salmon pink with the criscross rows of candlewicks tufts in dark blue and white. A brand new costume for country and spectator sports wear.

Similar costumes in other color combinations are available. Beach lounging pajamas in old ivory color are flamboyantly splashed with crimson tufts, with huge beach bags also made of the same old fashioned tufted muslin.

Stephen Ames Has Seven Day Party at Beach

He and Bride Entertain Guests for Week.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 5.—[Special.]—Last Sunday Stephen Ames and his bride, Raquel Torres, started what they called a "seven-day week-end party." The aim was to provide movie colony guests with seven days of victuals and refreshments, or at least as many days as the hardy could hold out.

The scene of this mixture of hospitality, jollity, and endurance is the cottage Ames recently took at Malibu beach, and prominent among the guests who were holding out well during initial laps were Jack Larue, Nancy Carroll, Fifi D'Orsay and her Chicago husband, Maurice Hill; Mona Rico, Don Alvarado, Bob Woolsey, and Monte Blue.

Some guests, like Carl Laemmle Jr. and Charlie Butterworth, were "off and on dropper inners"; others set out to outstay each other. As you can imagine, this party has had its lively phases. Some of the time you couldn't hear the roar of the Pacific ocean ten yards outside the front door.

Ames, who is a wealthy New Yorker and the ex-husband of Adrienne Ames, put four Hawaiian musicians on salary and brought them back with him on the return voyage of his honeymoon trip to Honolulu with Raquel. The four Hawaiians have been doing a musical marathon entertaining the seven-day guests, with Mrs. Ames at times donning a hula skirt and climbing onto a table to wriggle a visual accompaniment to their rhythm. I don't see why a sound film of the Ames party wouldn't make a movie short.

John Reginald Owen, British actor, and Miss Billey Edis Austin, British film actress, have taken out a three day notice of intent to wed. Owen is 46 and Miss Austin is 27.

A letter from Rufus C. Dawes to Julius Klein, in charge of Universal studios' preparations to film a screen story about Whistler, his mother, and his painting "My Mother," made an impression at the local studio. Mr. Dawes called the movie men's attention to M. M. Quaife's writing in his book "Chicago" which told how the artist's grandfather built the first Fort Dearborn and also noted that the name "Whistlerville" was first suggested for the metropolis of Illinois instead of Chicago.

Dorothy Jordan's studio announces that she has given up her film career for motherhood. She is the wife of Merian Cooper, producer for Radio-RKO and is accompanying Mr. Cooper to Pompeii on his trip to gather data and material for the forthcoming film based on Bulwer-Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii."

Kay Francis has unwrapped the bandage from her right forearm and returned to work at Warner's following the accident in which she cut an artery pushing her arm through a pane of glass.

Lou Brock, producer at Radio studio, has tried the experiment of inducing his audiences to smell his pictures. In other words, when they see the ocean on the screen Brock wants them to smell the sea and he tried his experiment with preview audiences of "Down to Their Last Yacht," having a chemical that was supposed to bring sniffs like salt spray, dissolved in the ventilating system of the showhouses in Hollywood and Santa Barbara. Brock says they can do the same thing with flower gardens, boudoirs, tropical settings, factory shots, and gunfire.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A LADY writes in, with some irony, to report the comment of a second woman to whom she recently was introduced. The second woman commented on the remarkable likeness that existed between the first woman and her daughter.

Solace—Musicians—World roads.

"But you should see my son if you want to see a great resemblance," answered the woman, her heart touched by the mention of her children. "He looks even more like his father than our daughter resembles me."

"Well, I wouldn't worry," advised the other. "Just as long as they're healthy. That's all that counts."

THE other evening a small group that had been gathered together at the Tavern club by the Ernest Byfields because of the arrival in town of Heywood Broun was discussing matters of the moment. At one point in the conversation Mr. Byfield commented that he had taken a great dislike to the German nation because of the anti-Semitic campaign, and David Leavitt had answered that he thought it was pretty hard to hate a nation.

He called to mind a day in 1917 when he was behind the allied lines, filled with hate for the enemy. He was weary and cold and ill and filled with bitterness over the loss of comrades. Suddenly he and his companions listened with interest to the peculiar timing of an enemy machine gun. There was a series of short and long bursts of sound and after puzzling over it for a time they discovered the reason. The unseen gunner was firing his gun to the tempo of "Ach, du Lieber Augustine." It was pretty hard to make him a victim of hate, Mr. Leavitt added. Stimulated by the German's example he began to practice, too, and pretty soon could play "All Policemen Have Big Feet" on his machine gun.

THE "roads of the world," as exemplified in the open space opposite the Ford building at the Fair, is a neat and imaginative feature of a pretty thrilling exhibition. If the names of far places thrill you, you'll like riding along in a new flivver and gazing fascinated at the sections of famous highways of the world reproduced alongside the driveway. There is the stone paved Summer Palace road from Peiping to the western hills; there is the Grand Trunk road in India, running from Calcutta to Afghanistan by way of Khyber Pass that was in use 2,000 years ago. There is the sand of the great caravan route through the Sahara, in use before the dawn of history, and the Cortez road, built in Mexico of cobblestones by the conquistadores about 1550. The Road to Bagdad, paved by the Romans some three hundred years before Christ, and the Diamond Rush road from Port Elizabeth to Kimberley, of gravel and twigs, stir the imagination, and so does the Street Called Straight in Syria, probably paved by Julius Cæsar. There are others, including the Lancaster turnpike, the first stone road in the United States, and the pine blocks of Wells street, Chicago, that gave way to cedar blocks thirty years later. A youth in a sky blue uniform, at the wheel of the car, gives you all the dope, talking as meaninglessly as a parrot. . . . But so would we all, no doubt, after the first thousand repetitions.

Hollywood

The Gossipel Truth.

Hollywood, Cal., June 4.—[Special.]—Marlene Dietrich is escorted several places by Brian Aherne, her former leading man. . . . Miss Dietrich's husband is still visiting her, but he doesn't care to go prancing about the village much. . . . The new director sensation is Eric Charrell, who does about two takes a day. . . . He is a sensation because of things like this: He spent several hours searching for a gray hat instead of the black hat the leading lady in "Caravan" was wearing, despite the fact that both colors photograph the same.

The Alan Mowbrays expect a baby. . . . Maxie Rosenbloom must be getting ready to fight again, for he is in training, visiting the night spots. . . . His companion is Inez Norton, who is looking good. . . . The Merry Widow waltz, the big number of the flicker of that name, will feature 180 dancing couples. . . . Will Rogers will play the lead in "Ah, Wilderness!" for Metro. . . . Rogers makes a different curtain speech every night on the stage of El Capitan theater. . . . One of the best was: "Plenty of credit belongs to O'Neill, for all I have to do is to read his lines. It's like being in Roosevelt's cabinet."

Anna Sten's "Resurrection" will be called "We Live Again" because Universal owns the original title and won't release it. . . . The big number of Mae West's "It Ain't No Sin," which was inserted at the last moment, is a Negro spiritual with 150 singers. . . . The gal who leads the singing and will steal many notices is West's colored maid, Libby Taylor. . . . Mary Carlisle, a Metro player, borrowed a costume from Fox to go to a Universal costume party. . . . Mary went with a Paramount executive and rode in a Warner Brothers studio car.

June Knight is now a redhead and tells her friends that she is really going to marry Paul Ames. . . . William Schott, who directed "The Milky Way," which was sold to Paramount for $40,000, was married to Florence Ross. . . . Joan Crawford visited singer Phil Regan on the M-G-M set. But she is merely fond of Phil and his singing, and wants to be nice. . . . The top man is still Franchot Tone.

Al Jolson is taking two waiters from the Hillcrest Golf club to be butlers in his Scarsdale home. . . . Charlotte Granville, veteran actress of the theater now working in the flicker "Now and Forever," is actually being given lessons in acting by Phyllis Lawton, a youngster, each day before she appears before the camera.

Metro is receiving complaints from exhibitors and fans because they don't hear the song "Rip Tide" in the flicker, "Rip Tide." . . . Spencer Tracy, playing polo the other day, scored the winning goal for the opposing team.

Chester Hale and Linda Parker, a Metro stock player, are holding hands. . . . Walt Disney was stopped by one of the artists at his Mickey Mouse factory and asked if he worked there—and if so, what was Mr. Disney like. . . . Regardless of the title under which it will be released, they call "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" "retakes" at the studio.

The rivalry of J. Warner and S. Goldwyn continues. . . . At a meeting of screen notables where they were contributing to a worthy cause, Warner donated $5,000; Goldwyn didn't attend but he sent word that he would contribute whatever Warner did. . . . This was told to Jack, who was asked if he didn't wish to increase his $5,000 donation. . . . Warner replied: "I couldn't be that mean to Goldwyn."

Ernst Lubitsch, Gregory Ratoff and Jeanette MacDonald were talking about Lubitsch's new house, which he is building and furnishing. . . . Ratoff, in his usual excited manner, spoke about the beautiful Steinway piano he was going to present to Lubitsch for the new house. . . . Ernst kidded Gregory and said that he didn't believe him. . . . Two days later Lubitsch, on the set, was informed that a beautiful piano had been delivered to his uncompleted home. . . . He immediately sent a telegram to Ratoff, apologizing for doubting him and thanking him for the piano. . . . Later that day he learned that the piano was a gift from Miss MacDonald. . . . When you see Jean Harlow in "100 Per Cent Pure" you will see Jean Harlow.

Another piano story about another director is told by Sam Marx. . . . Josef Von Sternberg, doing the musical score for "Scarlet Express," rushed into the music department and said: "I thought up a great note of music. It's to be the musical theme for the picture. Get me a piano so you can hear it." . . . A piano was immediately rolled into the room. . . . Von Sternberg hit the key at the extreme left end of the keyboard and listened. . . . No, that wasn't the note. . . . He hit another key and listened. . . . He continued this until he struck the last key at the extreme right of the board. . . . No, that wasn't the note. . . . "Bring me another piano," shouted Von Sternberg, "the note isn't on this one."

Good Morning!

The best thing that can be said about this foreign made "Love in Morocco" is that it gave a lot of extras a lot of work.

The story is stupid; the acting, in the main, unbelievably amateurish, and if I ever heard punker dialog I've forgotten about it.

A movie that makes you think of the silent "westerns" at their worst. Story by Rex Ingram and Benno Vigney. Direction by Rex Ingram. Star, Rex Ingram.

The same Rex Ingram who directed "The Four Horsemen"!

Hard to believe.

Nursery Benefit.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If you take our advice you won't go through the summer without at least one bath extravagance, one swell frivolity that helps you kid yourself into thinking that you're pretty glamorous as girls go, despite the fact that you hate the heat and simply cawn't get away to Newport for the season.

Personally, we'll go without lunch for a certain bath essence that's sold in a couple of Chicago shops. It's fairly expensive, but in one or two stores it's carried in a small size bottle at a price that won't throw you into a faint.

It's just heavenly, this concentrated bath essence that softens the water and has such an incomparable fragrance. Let a few drops trickle in while the bath water is running and the lovely scent of a bed of tube roses permeates the room.

It's strictly a romantic fragrance. It emphatically does NOT put you in the mood for a couple of swift sets of tennis; rather, you'll want to slip on your filmiest frock and go out and make a conquest.

The way the scent clings to the skin is amazing; it really lingers for a long while. This essence, which comes from England, by the way, is oily, so all the dry skinned ladies who have to choose their bath trimmings carefully can embrace it fearlessly.

It's ideal for travel because the little bottle takes up such a tiny bit of room in the suitcase, but with us that's a small point. Grand and glorious baths take the curse off traveling and armed with this luxurious essence you can have them whenever you wish.

St. Luke's Board to Be Guests of Mrs. Reed

Plan Annual Style Show at Luncheon Today.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. KERSEY COATES REED is entertaining her fellow members of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital at luncheon today at her lovely home in Lake Forest to discuss plans for the annual fashion show next fall. The date is set, Tuesday, Oct. 23, but many other details will be worked out today and the various committees will be appointed by the president, Mrs. John W. Gary, who is serving her eighth term in that responsible position.

Preliminary work to insure that the next show will be as successful and if possible, more so, than those of previous years will start immediately; although, of course, the real hard work will be done next fall. St. Luke's fashion show always is a highlight of every season from the standpoint of the amount of money made, and the women who work so hard to make it so successful are justly proud of their results.

The grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel is to be the setting for the fashion show again and, as is the custom, there will be an afternoon showing and another in the evening.

The other officers of the board are Mrs. Raymond M. Ashcraft, Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, Mrs. Philip L. Reed, Mrs. Sterling Morton, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, and Mrs. I. Newton Perry.

Will Open Home for Exchange Sale.

Mrs. Reed's palatial home will be opened to the public on Tuesday, June 19, when the Chicago Woman's exchange will hold its first summer sale there. Conversation today undoubtedly will touch on this, too, for most of the St. Luke's board members are members of the exchange board also. Mrs. Gary is second vice president of the latter; Mrs. Philip Reed is president; and Mrs. Kersey Reed is a director.

Mrs. Philip Reed is arranging a sale in Marion, Mass., where she has a summer place, for July 20 and 21, at the Sippican Tennis club, and there are numerous other sales being planned for resorts in Wisconsin, Michigan, and points east.

Among them are one at Lake Geneva on June 26 at which Mrs. Henry Bartholomay and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne will be hostesses at their summer place; one on July 6 at Mrs. Edward C. Crossett's home in Wianno, Mass.; one on July 10 and 11 in Watch Hill, at the Ocean house, at which Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, and Mrs. George R. Nichols, members of the Chicago colony in that fashionable resort, will assist; and one in Southampton on July 16 and 17, for which that very good friend of the exchange, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, will open her house. Mrs. Valentine will have her sister, Mrs. W. Vernon Booth of New York, with her this summer, so she will assist the days of the sale.

Service Club Holds Meeting.

About fifty members of the Service club gathered yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John Dern in Winnetka for the last meeting until next fall. Mrs. Dern, the president, looked cool and fresh in a blue and white striped frock. Mrs. G. Gaylord Olmsted Jr. was named chairman of publicity; Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. and Mrs. Herbert Kennedy were appointed in charge of boxes, and Miss Honoré White was made ticket chairman. To Miss Mary Louise Gardner fell the job of advertising manager.

No name and no theater were de-

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe, studying languages and making business contacts, she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young English singer. She decides to stake him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for a special opportunity, approved by him, of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara is going to sell her car for expense money. Before turning it in she goes on a wild drive in the country and runs out of gas. A stranger who has followed her in a car tows her to a garage. The stranger, unknown to Cara, is Redman Harmer.

INSTALMENT XV.

THE UNRECOGNIZED MENACE.

They drew up at the gasoline station before the garage that Cara had passed not so long before on her way out.

The garage hand came to her pilot for instructions. She jumped out and gave them.

"Leak in tank. Can you stop it temporarily and send a mechanic into Toronto with the car tonight? I'm Miss Follette of Follette's Steel."

"Sure, I can then," the garage hand promised. She got into the other car beside this stranger.

"Now, please—quick!"

The corners of his mouth curled up in a smile, but he obeyed. "You shall be there soon after seven-thirty." He looked straight ahead, and settled down to drive.

"I love Jerry," she thought. "I shall always love him. If I'm Redman Harmer's wife I'll still love him. I shall follow his successes all over the world with my heart." And she thought with anger and amazement of this Harmer who could make such a bargain.

The big roadster devoured distance and scorned time. Already they were fifty miles on the way and the clock only registered six-thirty

"What are you thinking?"

"How do you know I'm thinking?"

"I see your face in the windscreen when the light changes."

"Well, then," she had to raise her voice and lean her shoulder nearer his. "I was wondering if a woman is ever right to marry for money."

"No?"

"No."

"Then should she ever marry a man she could not possibly love?"

"No."

She nearly cried out bitterly: "I am likely to do both," but held it back.

It was as though she wanted to hurry the car along. The man stole a look at her.

"Decency," she thought, "decency!" Besides, it was not his business. No need to bore him with the puzzled patterns of her life just because he was being at once chivalrous and kind.

However, he spoke again:

"Those are both abominable things for a woman to do."

"She might have to," she cried in his ear.

"Then it would be abominable that she should have to."

She leaned forward instead of resting in her seat. The attitude was unconscious and the man knew it. It was as if she wanted to hurry the car along; as if her soul wanted to speed before it on the wings of the wind. He stole a look at her. Her hair was swept back and her eyes alight. So had he seen her on Trolese heights. So had he seen her in Munich listening to opera as if a mighty emotion had just come astonishingly into her life. He saw her as youth rushing and soaring, and at the same time as the earthbound loveliness of desired woman. And he wanted to know savagely the reason for her every mood. Follette had told him so little over the telephone, and only of the arrangements for this month at Mulligan's. Why was she in such mad haste to get back to Toronto early tonight?

"It's very good of you to trust a stranger," he said, as, with the sunset behind them, they came into the western environs of the city.

She answer at a tangent: "I want to be put down at the Sheraton Hotel, please. Do you know it?"

"Yes, old-fashioned women relatives of mine stay there occasionally when they come to Toronto."

"A friend of mine is there now. But he isn't old-fashioned." She added: "He's a singer."

"Why come to Canada?"

"I brought him."

"He is lucky."

"Isn't it an honor to help a marvelous artist?"

"Some artists impress one with that point of view."

She would not answer that. It was unworthy of powder and shot. Presently he said: "You are rather famous yourself, Miss Follette."

"I? I'm just business."

"'Just business.'" He echoed it. "And is not business the romance of the world? The steel which makes the rails that span countries. The plantations which grow the tea, the coffee, the beans . . . the sweet smell of growing beans, Miss Follette! The yellow cotton flower!"

"My father thinks of it just like that."

"And you?"

"I used to, too. Before I went to Europe."

"Good-by," she called, "thank you." And was inside the cool dimness of the interior like a flash of quicksilver.

He did not wait at the portico an instant, because of the momentarily absent doorman, who, returning, might see and recognize him. But though he drove straight on, though he had not seen, he knew of a man who came to meet her in the vestibule, how their hands touched, how their looks fused. . . .

And then he was busy nearly all night with his preparations for leaving Toronto at daybreak.

She went into the dim vestibule, hat in hand, beautiful and tousled. A few old ladies sat about gossiping in whispers. From near an old-fashioned stand of flowers Jerry Flint advanced.

He had made a toilet. He was no longer the wild youth of the Alster sailing, or the steerage of an Atlantic boat. He was new to her, sleeker even than he had managed to be at Anny's table, suave and handsome in dinner clothes. He hadn't told her at lunch that he had bought the best ready-made dinner suit he could get—with the rest of her loan—that morning on purpose to do her honor. Now here she was, dusty, eager, active—no languid evening beauty to flatter a man, the same Cara! Jerry knew a definite shock of disappointment. He had hoped the millonaire's daughter would roll up in her car pruned and dressed to please the eyes of men, especially his eyes. Did she not owe him this considering that they loved one another?

He noted, though, how desk clerk, and commissionaire, and manager bowed before her. That, anyway, was good.

"Cara, mio! "Carissima!"

Her eyes ran over him. She was eager to apologize, telling him the tale of misfortune. "I'll go and wash my face anyway," she said penitently, and vanished.

He saw old ladies looking after her and the manager going up to two of them and telling them something with an expression of admiration. He was telling them who Cara was, all about her. The steel princess! No doubt she was romanticised here by some such name.

The afternoon with Anny had not been so bad. She had given him a standing invitation to luncheon on Mondays, and a date for first a private party, then a concert had been tentatively arranged. She had suggested an agent. Of course a lot would depend on Ricardini.

Cara returned and they went in to a good dinner. He ordered for her lavishly.

Her money paid? Well, he would return it to her some day. Meanwhile they loved each other.

Doris Blake Answers

He'll Appreciate Greeting.

"Dear Miss Blake: I kept company with a young man at one time. His birthday is nearing. Would it be right to send him a card? UNCERTAIN."

Yes, if you are still good friends. He will appreciate your thought of him on his birthday.

There's Only One in Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: Can a fellow or a girl be in love with two people at once? BELL."

You can be extremely fond of two people at the same time, but when it comes to love, there's just no place for the second one, Bell.

She Claims the Most "Ornery" Mate in World

But If She's Hooked It's Her Own Fault.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"An article you wrote the other day burns me up. Did you ever tell about the meanest, orneriest husband in the world? Oh, no. Not you! But I will.

"Well, I have him.

"I married him in my second year in college. He said his income was sufficient to take care of us both. I believed him. Well, I found out he owed his college debt, had a salary of about ten a week, owed everybody, and, on top of that, was a drunkard and a cheater. I realized, after I was married to him for two months, that I had gotten stung. But I loved him and tried to make the best of a bad bargain. He is brilliant, but an educated fool. I saved his money, worked hard, catered to his every wish and whim. What have I got? Nothing. While I was making over his shirts for baby's rompers, he was spending $10 a dozen for American beauty roses for some other woman and telling her how I did not understand him. I left him, had a wonderful position when he came around promising everything if I returned. I did. He has continued to cheat and lie, and now he is getting old and unattractive and knows the best friend he ever had is getting ready to leave him.

"Men, believe me, are the mean, ornery sex, Miss Blake, although you do not seem to know it.

"WILLABELLE X."

Now, is it grown up to damn a sex for the carryings-on of some of its members? If you were a man with a case against our side, you'd be damning the whole army of women. It isn't grown up logic, sister. Silly! From a woman with two years of college, not bright at all!

Convinced you were stung, you did go back for more punishment. Call it heart, or call it weakness, or call it love, a woman whose marriage flops like yours can't absolve herself entirely. That's why it is better to adopt an easier philosophy about human nature and its orneriness and weaknesses and follies, and the breaks some folks get and others are denied by virtue of their own manipulation of the strings called fate.

St. Luke's Board to Be Guests of Mrs. Reed

cided upon for the club's annual review, for which the date has been set, however—Oct. 20. The meeting was held indoors because of threatening clouds, and after the business had been settled the guests refreshed themselves with iced tea, cakes, and sandwiches.

Finance Meeting of Women Voters.

Mrs. Frank P. Hixon will open her home on Rosemary road in Lake Forest tomorrow for the annual "finance field day" of the Illinois League of Women Voters. Members of the finance department of the league will attend the meeting and will make plans for meeting the league's budget requirements.

Mrs. Quincy Wright will be among the speakers at the meeting which will include representatives of the fifty local leagues of women voters throughout the state.

Macomb isn't very far from Chicago but it's far enough so that when two of its most attractive residents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Bacon, come to Chicago for little visit their many friends welcome the chance to see them and to entertain them.

The Bacons are coming up this week-end especially to attend the Arden Shore benefit at the opening of the new French casino Friday night. They will be in a large Dutch treat party at the benefit, which gives promise of being one of the gayest of the early summer.

The Bacons will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom of the Drake Towers while they are here, going to Lake Forest for Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Kingman Douglass. Mrs. Douglass is giving a dinner for them and later taking her guests to the Orphans of the Storm benefit at the Deerpath theater.

Saturday at noon Mrs. James A. Cathcart is giving a luncheon for the Bacons at her home in Lake Forest and Sunday the Harold Beacoms will entertain at luncheon for them.

The Thomas Gowenlocks will entertain at the Arden Shore benefit for Dr. Titus Zbyszewski, the Polish consul general, who will be leaving Chicago this summer.

Mrs. Byron Harvey to Give Luncheon.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey is giving a small luncheon Sunday at the Shoreacres club in Lake Bluff. She and Mr. Harvey are remaining in town for the summer, keeping their apartment open, but they will have a trip later on.

The Henry Hoopers will be busy for the next week or so entertaining Mrs. William Mitchell from Middleburg, Va., who arrived Monday evening. Later in the summer Mrs. Hooper expects to take the children up to Lake of Bays in Canada for a visit with Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Bertha are leaving today for the east where they expect to witness two graduations, the one of their daughter, Marjorie, at Smith, and the other of their son, Edward Jr., at the Berkshire school in Massachusetts. The family plans for the summer are indefinite. Edward is planning to attend Yale in the fall.

Among the homecoming students is Miss Pauline Seipp, from her junior year at Vassar. Miss Seipp, a debutante of last winter, will spend about three weeks here and then she will sail on a North Cape cruise, to be away about six weeks.

Miss Cherie Burnham is being married this afternoon to James Warren L. Stone in the spacious home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham, in Evanston. Before the fifteenth century fireplace in the music room, Miss Burnham and Mr. Stone will exchange their wedding vows, with the Rev. Charles Bowen, from St. Mark's Episcopal church, officiating. The couple will make their home at Lake Charles, La.

Miss Betty Wickes Engaged in East.

From their home, Wickliffe in Brooklandville, Md., comes the announcement by Dr. and Mrs. Walter Forman Wickes of the engagement of their daughter, Betty Young, to DeWitt Linn Sage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Sage of Jericho, L. I. Miss Wickes is a granddaughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Pere L. Wickes of Baltimore and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Otto Young of Chicago. She is a sister of Mrs. Daniel Baugh Brewster, Miss Kitty Wickes, Walter F. Wickes Jr., and Miss Nancy Young Wickes, whose engagement to Stephen Carlton Clark Jr. of New York was announced recently.

There seems to be an unusual amount of activity in alumnae organizations these days . . . that is, in organizations that have been rather quiet . . . and the latest association to come to life is that of the University School for Girls. It is planning a large reunion luncheon next fall at the Casino.

These plans were decided upon at the annual meeting of the alumnae association Monday afternoon in the school. At the meeting Mrs. Robert M. Curtis was elected president.

The Rev. Theodore C. Hume will give the address at the graduating exercises of the school tonight at 8:30 in the school, 1106 Lake Shore drive. In the graduating class are the Misses Virginia Nicolson, Carrie Lee Johnson, Peggy Young, Helen Riordon and Alsa Elaine Bahr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gould Hutchins of 9540 Longwood drive and Miami Beach, Fla., announce the marriage of their daughter, Jane Louise, to Elliott Davis Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Davis of Los Angeles, which took place on May 22 in Miami Beach.

Cascading Ruffles Lengthen Line of New Paris Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Molyneux is featuring an old time ruffle trimming in his new midseason collection. He puts double, cascading ruffles down the right side front of some of his smartest daytime frocks to make you look taller and more slender. Our illustration shows how he does it. He has the same kind of trimming on plain dark blue and black dresses, the ruffles being of net or chiffon.

The model pictured is made of black, pink, and beige printed crêpe de chine, the background being beige. The jacket shown in the background is made of the same silk, but has a black background.

The dress is a one piece with loose sleeves. The blouse is straight in line and the skirt is gently flared, so it is comfortably wide at the hem. The ruffles begin at the right side of the front neckline and meet the ruffles of the skirt at the waistline.

The loose coat has sleeves like those of the dress and is about fingertip length. It has no collar, but has revers.

Don't Become Emotional Over Child's Blunders

Try to Understand the Causes Behind Them.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There is no question about it—the less emotional you are in training your children the better for them and for you. And it makes no difference whether the habits you're working on are those of eating or sleeping or playing or obedience or toileting, if you don't feel angry or ashamed or irritated or generally wrought up you'll get better results.

And when I say don't feel that way I mean it. The trick is not well turned if you feel all those emotions and just throttle down your annoyance or temper and put on a calm exterior. Of course that's infinitely better than venting all your emotions on your child. But the important thing for the long, long trail, is not to feel these things about your child's behavior.

These emotions prevent you from dealing with your child in the way best for him. But if you understand each kind of behavior, if your mental attitude toward it is different, then your emotions will not rise and "gum things up." You won't feel the same if you know that your baby must touch things to develop his sense of touch—that your four year old who is used to all your attention doesn't want to be ignored when visitors come—that your five year old doesn't know what the obscene word means or that it is obscene—and so forth. When your attitude is different, your feeling is different.

Of course you won't be perfect—who expects it? And don't try to be one of those frightfully cool detached impersonal mothers that are held up by some authorities as the ideal parent. Wouldn't you hate to be the child of such a robot? Today's advice has nothing to do with suppressing warm loving emotions and spontaneous expressions of affection and fun and companionship — don't mistake me.

Catholic Hospital Group Hears Plea for United Efforts

A union of resources and effort was urged yesterday to take the place of a "magnificent isolation" in solving the hospital problems of the present day by the Rev. John W. Barrett, director of the Illinois conference of the Catholic Hospital association. He opened the thirteenth annual meeting at the Drake hotel after more than 200 nuns from the 60 Catholic hospitals in the state had attended a mass at the Holy Name cathedral.

The keynote of the two-day meeting, said Father Barrett, who is diocesan director of hospitals, is that co-operative thought and action should replace the attempts of individual hospitals to overcome obstacles facing all of them. The path into the future is beset with obstacles, the solution of which, he said, is "uncertain and problematical."

"It is to the eternal credit of our hospital sisters throughout the country," Father Barrett declared, "that during the depression not one of our Catholic hospitals has been forced to close its doors and that in the face of an ever increasing demand for charity and a gradually decreasing income."

Congratulations for the work done were given the delegates to the meeting by the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, in the name of Cardinal Mundelein. Bishop Sheil spoke to the Sisters at the Holy Name cathedral.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Wieland of 1111 Sheridan road, Wilmette, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Bernice, to Paul Edward Kling of 3000 Sheridan road, Chicago. The wedding will take place at the Wielands' country home at Pistakee Bay, Ill., on Saturday.

Mrs. Edgar Charles Rice of 8338 Kenwood avenue announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Eleanor, to Newell Hillis Long, which will take place at 4 p. m., June 23, in Ida Noyes hall at the University of Chicago. The ceremony will be performed by the bridegroom's father, the Rev. M. F. Long of Boone Grove, Ind.

John M. Garvey of 5400 Lakewood avenue announces the approaching marriage of his daughter, Mary Emily, to James Edward Hartnett, son of Mrs. John J. Hartnett of 1344 Chase avenue, which will take place Saturday morning in St. Ita's church.

Italian Decoration.

Mrs. Joseph Soravia, president of the Italian Woman's club, will be decorated by a representative of the Italian government at a luncheon tomorrow at the Palmer house.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

Yesterday I explained why I regard all responses made with four card suits as constructive, leading almost inevitably to a game contract, and not as possible safety measures in order to retreat to a partial score contract. I also explained why it is obligatory for the responding hand to make a rebid when his first response evokes "two no trumps" from the opener. Logically, therefore, under my general no trump theory, the conditions for 4-4-4-1 are only slightly different from those for 4-4-3-2.

In view of the distinctly greater inducements for contracting for game in a major suit if you can locate an eight card joint holding for trumps, and remembering also the attractiveness of this distribution for slam play, I advise a takeout in a biddable major suit regardless of the nature of the singleton. If both majors are biddable, show the hearts also provided this bid will not compel the opener to go beyond three no trumps.

Do not bid a major suit weaker than K J x x

Do not bid a four card minor suit except

[1] In a tournament only, if it consists of 100 honors.

[2] In the process of developing a slam try after the bidding has gone beyond three no trumps.

If your singleton is an ace or a king, but your hand contains no biddable major suit, bid your hand exactly the same as any other hand on which the only choice is between passing and bidding two no trumps—but rate your king as a half trick, though unguarded, and appraise the hand as a whole in view of its primary trick values, its protective elements, and the extent to which the strength is concentrated or scattered.

For game purposes, regard a singleton ace or king as just another high card in your hand, and do not let it induce you to prevent the opening bidder from closing the bidding at three no trumps. Do not let it deter you from accepting a slam try in no trumps if the opening bidder makes a jump rebid, and your hand has the primary and other requirements for accepting a slam try without a five card suit having been shown. Do not let a singleton deter you from inviting a slam if your hand calls for it under the same kind of high card appraisal.

Revalue a Singleton in a Suit Slam Try.

The only time to become excited about a singleton ace is when your partner is developing a slam try in terms of a suit in which you have made a takeout. Assured of four trumps in partner's hand, a singleton ace, or to a somewhat less extent a singleton king, will afford you great elasticity of play. Having ascertained that you control the timing factor, so that the enemy will not be able to cash in tricks before you can assume the lead and take some discards, bid toward your slam optimistically when your partner has invited big things without knowing of your high singleton.

Where 4-4-4-1 Differs from 4-4-3-2.

When my partner, having bid a no trump, shows a sudden hankering after suit play, the possession of a singleton affects my bidding in this manner:

Opening bidder	Responder.
One no trump	Two spades
Two no trumps	Three hearts
Three spades

With

Sp. K J x x	Di. x x x
Hts. K J x x	Cl. x x

I would next bid three no trumps; whereas with

Sp. K J x x	Di. x x x x
Hts. K J x x	Cl. x

I would bid four spades. My partner has passed a delicate decision to me for some good reason.

BY MARY MEADE.

Tragedy in the kitchen! Mrs. Van Deezner was in the throes of preparing delectable tidbits for a critical assembly of bridge hounds. Hard cooked eggs for the sprucing up of a molded salmon mousse for lunch turned out to be the Waterloo. They got themselves well cooked, these eggs, but turned up on the mousse with ghastly green rings just between the yolks and the whites. Horrible! Nothing to do about it, but just wait until I get to the phone, vowed Mrs. Van Deezner. Whereupon the lady called the cooking editor and this is what she discovered about rings about eggs.

The yolk of an egg contains considerable iron. The white boasts a like large amount of sulphur. When an egg is cooked in hot water for 15 minutes or more a sulphur gas, known as hydrogen sulphide, is formed in the white. If enough of this gas is formed it will get together with the iron in the egg yolks, forming the dark green ring of a compound known as ferrous sulphide. If the egg is cooked in water not quite up to boiling, and is cooked for only 15 minutes, very little of the gas will be formed and so no green ring may bother your eggs. That is the reason, by the way, that we're now saying [and meaning] "hard cooked eggs" rather than using the old term, "hard boiled eggs."

But even with correct cooking heat and a short length of time over the burner, eggs sometimes hold one more trick up their sleeves with which to slay us. When an egg is through with its cooking we do one of three things: Dash it into cold water, changed frequently; let it calm down slowly in its hot water, or remove it altogether from the wetness and allow it to cool its cheeks on the cold kitchen table. The method we pick will finally determine whether or not we are to have rings. For, to keep the trouble-making hydrogen sulphide gas from going in and bothering the egg yolks, it is necessary to distract its attention and carry it out of the egg. Cold running water playing over the hot eggs is the best prescription. For, according to a rule to which we were exposed back in school, cold water on the outside of the egg will lower the "pressure" of air just inside the shell. To make up for this, the gas in question will rush out and spread itself harmlessly just under the egg shell instead of seeping into the egg yolk, as it would if the egg stayed in its hot water bath, or even cooled off at room temperature.

Which settled the case for Mrs. Van and gave us a brand new idea for the use of hard cooked eggs when there is no salmon mousse upon which to lavish them. The name—

BAKED STUFFED EGGS

6 hard cooked eggs
4 teaspoons butter
3 uncooked egg yolks
⅛ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
2 teaspoons minced parsley
1 cup sour cream

Cut the cooked eggs in halves crosswise. Remove the yolks and mash them thoroughly. Add the melted butter, one uncooked egg yolk, the parsley, and seasoning. Stir in two tablespoons of sour cream. When thoroughly blended, fill this mixture back into the egg whites and press them together in twos, forming whole, stuffed eggs. Place them in a buttered baking dish. Now beat the two remaining egg yolks and stir them vigorously into the sour cream. Add a dash of salt to the mixture and pour it over the stuffed eggs. Place the baking dish in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for half an hour.

Also, the hostess with a nose for news in cookery will be frittering her eggs this summer. And, since a bad black line around the yolk would be very unpleasant in fritters, remember the sad case of Mrs. Van Deezner and hark back to paragraphs two and three for instruction. The fritters follow:

ROYAL EGG FRITTERS

4 hard cooked eggs
½ cup ground chicken
2 tablespoons minced celery
½ cup mayonnaise
Deep fat for frying

Cut the cooled eggs lengthwise and remove the yolks. Fill the whites with the ground, seasoned chicken meat combined with the celery. A little mayonnaise blended with the chicken will make it more stay-putable. Now dip the eggs in a simple fritter batter and fry in deep fat [375 degrees F.] until golden brown. To serve with such hot, crunchy fritters as these, cream the yolks with the mayonnaise, add the parsley, and serve cold.

Ladies Fair, Keep Your Chins Up for Loveliness and Morale

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Said a woman to one of her pals, "My stocks have dropped, my income has dropped, but I'll be darned if I'll let my chin drop." That was in the late months of '31. Upon running into the woman here recently there was occasion to note that she had kept her chin up well. Of the age when chins have to be tended with loving care, and when sorrows are likely to bow them in personal indifference, this woman took hers over for nightly treatment just in time. And, believe it or not, keeping that chin of hers up, physically, did an immense amount of keeping it up psychologically before the world. But we women are like that, aren't we? If we can keep fooling the public about dropping chin lines and crêpy throats, we can keep on going. For that matter the same holds good for any corrective of which one stands in need. Succumb to it and you flop in many ways. Fight it out, and you're ready for other worlds to conquer.

But, to get back to the woman who refused to let her chin muscles follow depression orders, surely, she said, it was hard keeping it up. Many a night she'd rather have gone to bed and be pursued by the money worries. But when she found herself faltering she recalled that the nights she did do her chin and throat preserving duties thoroughly, she was not harassed with money thoughts. Again, that's female psychology that a male would dismiss as "nutty" probably. Neck exercises the woman did do, injecting the smart trick of applying nourishing cream before she began them. Five minutes by the clock were allotted the neck movements. Then three minutes by the same clock for patting chin and throat with the back of the hand. Then a rub with ice folded in a piece of linen, and then a fairly strong astringent was applied. This care, consistently enough, made the woman aware of certain faulty head holding positions of which she was guilty. No more chin slumping when reading, walking, standing, or sitting, and that's a whole youthful neck and chin line story in itself.

GOLF CLUBS PUT SKIDS UNDER OLD MAN DEPRESSION

Show Financial Gain for '34 to Date.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The optimism prevalent among manufacturers, professionals, club managers, and just plain golfers, prior to the opening of the 1934 season, was not without a good deal of foundation, a survey of conditions among member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association reveals.

It now appears that the boys were not kidding themselves back in March and April, when they announced they would come out fighting, prepared to win the next round in a battle which they have been waging against Kid Depression for more than four years. A majority of district clubs, after having nearly taken a ten count, rallied nobly last year.

Furthermore, they are making no bones about their intentions of finishing off the Kid once and for all this season. Thus far they are away out in front on points, and the early season confidence has trebled itself, fortified by notable increases in all club departments during the last six playing weeks.

Everybody Is Happy.

Instances wherein dining room revenue and bar receipts were doubled, not to mention a marked boost in pro shop sales, were reported by a number of presidents of C. D. G. A. clubs yesterday. All pointed out a surprising increase in actual number of rounds of golf played. Most of them attributed it to improved financial conditions, with more spare time.

Briergate, according to its president, Richard P. Hummer, enjoyed its greatest Memorial day program since 1929. Two hundred and fifty-eight caddies who worked, not to mention 150 dinners served in the dining room and scores of cold lunches in the grill, are ample testimony to this statement. The new bar in the locker room also has been a source of revenue. The club operated at a profit last year with a roster of 147, and this year took in 90 new members. Although the club has been officially open only since May 26, the bar has been averaging $50 daily and $200 on week-ends. The club is looking forward to the installation of a watering system within a year or so as a result of the present outlook.

Membership Is Up.

The month of May proved to be an exceptional one in Olympia Fields' history, William G. Wise, president of the organization, said. The membership was increased to more than 800 through the acquisition of 150 new members, and additional applications indicate a full roster in the near future.

"There is no question that Chicago and its environs are taking to golf with a new spirit," Wise said. "Not only have 150 new members been added, but our old timers are turning out better than in several years. Some material indication of the aroused interest may be had from the fact that in May our pro shop sold five times more supplies and equipment than in the corresponding month last year, with greens fees from guests being four times greater than a year ago."

Another to report a marked change in conditions was David B. Johnson, now in his second year as president of Midlothian. Among the increases at the south side club were 200 per cent in bar sales, 150 per cent in the dining room, and 100 per cent in greens fees. The last was shown in the face of a raise in greens fees. Johnson ascribed much of the present success to the fact that the entire club had been redecorated and refurnished, so much so that the visitor to Midlothian who has not been out this year will hardly recognize it.

THE GUMPS—IN TIME OF NEED

LONDOS THROWS INDIA'S SINGH ALL OF A SUDDEN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jim Londos, the Greek Adonis, grown a bit fat about the midriff, remains heavyweight wrestling champion of some portions of the United States and India. He added this latter territory to his American domain last night at the Stadium when he threw Jagot Singh in 35 minutes and 20 seconds. Londos' victory was accomplished by a butt to Singh's jaw followed by a body lock.

At no time was Londos on the offensive until the unexpected conclusion. But in text, the bout followed the scenario long familiar in wrestling contests. Singh chased the wary Greek about the ring, scared him thoroughly with a toothy scowl, pitched Londos into the ropes, and then, just when he apparently was about to win, Londos laid him out on the canvas.

6,200 Are Present.

The limited labors, some suspected that the men skipped several scenes in act 2, possibly was agreed upon because the attendance totaled only 6,200. Officials of the Stadium suggested that the gross receipts might be $10,000.

The fans, however, were all for the red trunked, barefooted Hindu. They gave him their choicest cheers and Londos nothing but raucous boos. And when Londos launched himself head foremost to butt Singh to the canvas the crowd set up such a noise that it completely ruined a speech Strangler Lewis tried to make. Lewis, whose proudest boast is that he has 16 decisions over Londos, waved his arms in the center of the ring, but it served only to make him the boo leader.

"When some promoter puts $50,000 in the bank for Londos," White told Lewis, "you can have the match."

Garibaldi, Sarpolis Draw.

Gino Garibaldi and Dr. Karl Sarpolis wrestled 30 minutes to a draw in the semi-windup. The match was far more interesting than the windup, and near the conclusion, after a wild mêlée, both men lay apparently helpless on the floor. At the last second both recovered painfully and clinched until the referee pried them apart as time expired.

Hans Kampfer of Germany threw Jimmy Parker of Chattanooga, Tenn., in 15:21 with a reverse body lock. Pat McGill, Ireland, used an airplane spin and body slam to toss Joe Rogacki of Poland in 10:49, while Buckets Goldenberg, Jewish professional football player from Milwaukee, and George Mack, a Russian, panted through 20 minutes without a decision.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

INTERCOLLEGIATE football lost one of its stanchest supporters with the passing of the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame. . . . Father O'Donnell and his intimate friend, the late Knute K. Rockne, probably did more to popularize college football and keep it on a high plane than any pair of educators of our day. . . . The White Sox trainer, Dr. Ad Schacht, who rates the Dr. as a graduate chiropractor, holds a fight referee's license in Washington, Oregon, and California. . . . Ad says he has refereed more than 7,500 bouts since he started officiating in 1907, the most discussed being the Bud Taylor-Pancho Villa scrap, which resulted fatally for the latter. . . . The doc says the best fight he ever worked was one between Tiger Flowers and Jock Malone. . . . Schacht carries a six inch scar on his left shoulder, which he says he got when Willie Meehan, enraged at an adverse decision, knocked him out of the ring. . . . They say that Ben Eastman, Stanford's great middle distance runner, ran a quarter mile in practice the other day in 52 seconds and followed with another quarter in 56 seconds, making the half mile in 1 minute 48 seconds. . . . His coach, Dick Templeton, predicts Eastman will do it officially if pressed in the national intercollegiate games at Los Angeles. . . . Eastman and Charles Hornbostel of Indiana are joint holders of the present record, 1 minute 50 and 9-10 seconds. . . .

He also can tell what kind of pitches he has hit and by whom pitched in reviewing all his hits. . . . He also can tell where they went. . . . He has been checked by experts with scorebooks in hand. . . . The Chicago Blackhawks have moved all of their training paraphernalia from Chicago Stadium, which may or may not indicate trouble about a lease for next season. . . . Clubhouse badge No. 1 for the Arlington race meeting has been issued to Col. Matt Winn, president of the American Turf association. . . . Strangler Lewis claims he has thrown Jim Londos 24 times, but the records show the number as 16. . . . CARDINALS POUND LON WARNEKE TO BEAT CUBS, 6 TO 3

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 5.—The Cubs were reintroduced to Paul of the famous Dean family today and it was a sad meeting for the former. Young Paul pitched more like a veteran than a 21 year old sprout and the upshot was that the Chicagoans subsided before the league leading Cardinals by 6 to 3 in the series opener. It was young Paul's sixth straight victory of the year and nobody has beaten him, although he has been knocked out. The Cubs mauled him twice earlier in the race but Paul was merely a rescuer on those occasions.

It was bad enough for the Cubs to have their pennant ambitions crimped by a league freshman but there was another happening even more painful. This involved a slashing assault by the Cards on Lon Warneke, supposedly the ace of the Cubs' staf. Warneke, although apparently lacking the hopping fast ball for which he once was noted, ran into grief as early as the second inning. He was permitted to struggle with his assignment until the locals had piled up a lead sufficient for young Paul's purposes.

Lon Has Three Sad Innings.

Warneke's term of service covered four innings, three of which were sad affairs. In the first of the three there were a double and triple. In the next there were two doubles. In the next, when the league leaders settled the issue with three runs the toll off Warneke was one single, one homer, by Jim Collins, one double and another single. After this Roy [Lefty] Joiner performed and in a four inning workout yielded only two hits. These were turned into the Cards' last run.

The trouble with the Cubs' attack was that it faded down to a whisper after a noisy start. Babe Herman hit his first homer of the year with a man on in the first inning. This kept the Cubs in front for a limited spell. The Chicagoans got two more hits in the third but didn't score. From then on they were a complete flop before Dizzy's young brother. Twenty of the last 22 Cub batters failed to see first. The only break in this continuity occurred in the seventh, when there were two hits, one a homer off Bill Jurges' bat.

Babe Loses One.

Babe Herman's heroics in the first inning came after two men had been disposed of. Billy Herman grounded to Frisch, after which English singled to right center. The next occurrence was a strikeout for Klein. Then the Babe took charge of one of P. Dean's fast balls and spanked it into the far end of the pavilion in right center for two runs. Cuyler singled to right and went to second when young Dean committed a balk, but Camilli fanned.

The Cardinals made no impression on Warneke in the first but improved considerably in the second, one scoring and another run being halted at

TRIBUNE GOLF SCHOOL.

THEY'RE a serious minded body of students intent on obtaining all the benefits possible. That's the impression we took away from the first informal lesson of THE TRIBUNE's golf school Monday night.

Because instruction is free and formality of registering is made simple, we thought possibly some might turn out for a lark or from mere curiosity. That was not the attitude of the more than 300 players gathered at Elmgate, nearest to our residence, with women slightly outnumbering the men. They were there for business, to improve their game from the instruction received, and to win, if possible, some of the prizes offered by THE TRIBUNE and the courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association.

Professional Jimmy Dwyer had enlisted the cheerfully given services of four fellow pros whose courses are not in the school. While the crowd was gathering these five gave an exhibition of wood and iron shots down the fairway, the pupils carefully noting the form displayed.

Then, after the constructive purposes of the school had been explained. the crowd was divided into five groups with a pro in charge of each. Stance, grip, and backswing were explained in this first lesson.

Then there was class practice in swinging as in mass calisthenics to the count of the pro, who moved around among the group correcting individual faults. The whole affair was businesslike and methodical. Particularly impressive was the earnestness of both pupils and teachers. If fees were being paid and received, there could not have been more concentrated effort.

None can say whether Joneses, Hagens, Goodmans, and Lawson Littles will develop from this great mass of 20,000 hitherto unorganized golfers. Certainly those who take advantage of the free instruction will better their game and thus derive more enjoyment from their time spent on the links.

PARKE H. DAVIS, AUTHORITY ON FOOTBALL, DIES

Easton, Pa., June 5.—[Special.]—Parke H. Davis, one of the leading figures in collegiate football for many years, died today. He was 63 years old. In addition to the widow, a son, John Detwiller Davis, and three daughters, Miss Elizabeth V. Davis, Mrs. Thomas Porter Robinson, and Mrs. A. Donald Grosset, survive. Funeral services will be held Friday.

Davis played at Princeton from 1890 to 1892. In 1893 he coached at Wisconsin and later at Amherst and Lafayette. Davis was recognized as statistician of the game and also was a member of the rules committee from 1909 to 1915.

JONES PITCHES SIX HIT GAME; STOPS HEMSLEY

3 Hurlers Stagger Through Nightcap.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Old Samuel P. Jones whittled out one of his pitching masterpieces to give the White Sox an 8 to 2 victory in the first game of yesterday's double header with the St. Louis Browns. Then Manager Jimmy Dykes virtually surrendered because of the pitcher shortage and the Brownies galloped to a sloppy 10 to 5 achievement in the second game.

Jones held the enemy to two widely separated singles after a rather stormy first inning. The tail-enders gave Sam errorless support.

The only Chicago comfort in the second game was afforded by Zeke Bonura. Zeke, you know, has been a mite put out by Manager Rogers Hornsby's early season scoffing at his hitting talents. In the first game Zeke got two singles and two walks in five trips to the plate, but this was just a warm-up for what he did in the otherwise discouraging second game, in which he made his No. 14 homer of the season, also a double and a single. The big Bayou boy scored three of his team's five runs.

Browns Have Little Fun.

The Brownies had all their fun in the first game before the afternoon's business was 10 minutes old. A homer by West and successive singles by Burns, Pepper, and Garms accounted for all their runs and two-thirds of their hits. After the first inning a single by West and one by Burns formed the total hitting done by the visitors.

The two runs the Browns made kept them ahead until the fourth, when a double by Appling and a single by Madjeski tied the count, the Sox having scored one in the first inning on singles by Haas and Bonura and Simmons' long fly. Madjeski also figured heavily in the maneuver that put the Sox in front for the first time. Eddie doubled to start the seventh and rode home on the first of Evar Swanson's two late singles.

FIRST GAME

The Brownies bounced off to a two run lead in the first inning after Clift had fanned. West lined a homer into the right field stands. Burns followed with a single to center and stopped at second on Pepper's pop single which evaded Boken. Garms singled to right center, scoring Burns and sending Pepper to second. Pepper was caught trying to steal third and Appling threw out Garms.

The Sox got one run in the first inning when Haas singled to right and went to third on Bonura's single past Melillo. Simmons sent a long fly to West, Haas scoring and Bonura reaching second. Appling popped to Burns.

Luke Has Hard Time.

Appling's life seemed in jeopardy most of the time he was about the business of tying the score in the fourth. After going hitless in 13 times at bat, Luke socked a double into left center and well nigh tore his left foot from its mooring sliding into second. After taking time out Luke was revived and hobbled to third on Dykes' sacrifice.

Boken grounded to Bejma and Appling apparently was trapped at the plate. Hemsley dropped the ball just as Luke went into reverse, then hastily picked it up and hit Appling in the back of the head. Appling got back to third and Boken reached second. After again taking time out to get his head and foot rubbed, Appling scored on Madjeski's single to left, but Boken was out when he tried to score, Pepper to Hemsley.

Simmons led off the sixth with a double to right center but never advanced past second. Madjeski doubled to the left field scoreboard to launch

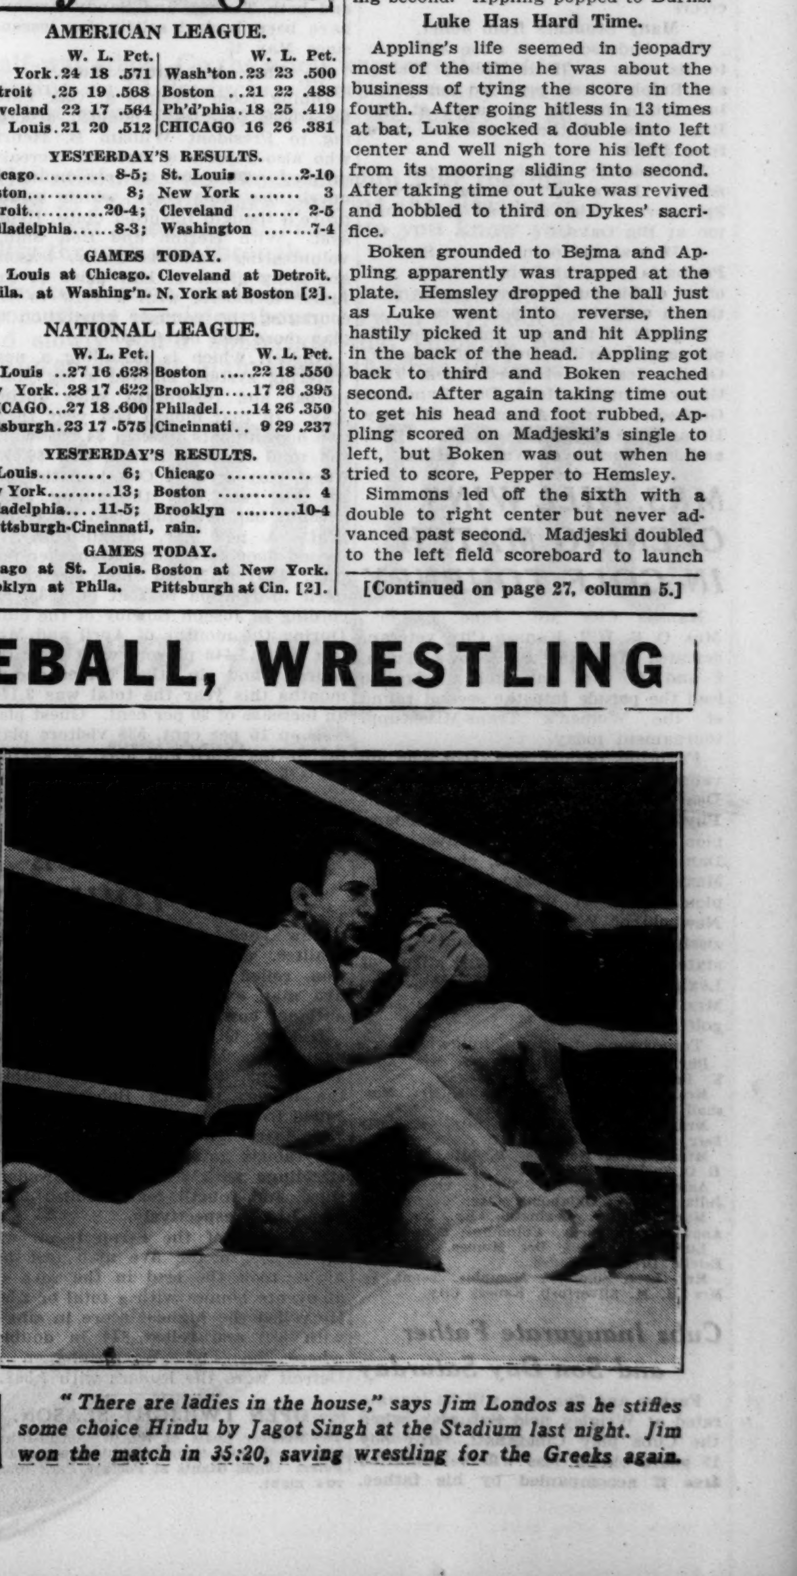
Jack Yorgan and his assistants explained stance, shift, and follow through to six hundred at the Harlem course. The pupils come early, stay late and practice eagerly under the supervision of the masters who conduct The Tribune's second annual school.

Bob Boken attempts to score standing up in the fourth inning of the first game against the Browns, but is tagged out by Hemsley. The Sox won, 8 to 2.



"There are ladies in the house," says Jim Londos as he stifles some choice Hindu by Jagot Singh at the Stadium last night. Jim won the match in 35:20, saving wrestling for the Greeks again.

7,000 MEN LEARN HOW TO DRIVE AT GOLFING SCHOOL

Women Report Tonight in Tribune Classes.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

More than 7,000 men learned how to improve their driving stroke during last night's lessons at the 19 courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association. These were the first of the men's classes in the series of free instruction which is being sponsored by THE TRIBUNE in conjunction with the Daily Fee association.

Tonight the women will report for lessons and tomorrow night couples will take their turn. Friday will be for juniors—both boys and girls. The entire enrollment numbers in the neighborhood of 20,000.

Grip, stance, and swing occupied last night's teaching period. The club used was the driver. At each course the method of conducting the lesson was governed to a large extent by the number of pupils present, but whether the classes were large or small, it was reported that the students found the lessons thoroughly practical.

Some Get Individual Instruction.

In some cases it was possible to give individual instruction. At Mission Hills, for instance, the class was so small that the professionals supervised each pupil personally in fixing the grip and making the swing. The small enrollment at this course is explained by the fact that it came into the school after most of the 20,000 entries had been received. It is located at the corner of Sanders and Techny road, in the neighborhood of Northbrook. This course will give Sunday afternoon lessons in addition to those on the regular four nights of the week. Those who find conditions too crowded in the classes in which they now are enrolled have been invited to switch to one of the outlying clubs such as Mission Hills, Twin Orchard, Big Run, or Techny Fields.

Courses closer to the center of population handled big classes with remarkable efficiency. In the case of each large class, there was a sufficient number of assistant professionals present to assure all of the pupils of close supervision.

Learn Golf Etiquette.

Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley included a ten minute talk on golf etiquette in the lesson which he gave to 250 pupils, with the assistance of his brother Packy and Charles Blasgen. Among the points which Walsh stressed in his talk was the fact that it is no sin to dig a divot, but it is a major crime to fail to replace it. He also brought out the point that a slow foursome will get more enjoyment out of its game if it allows a faster group of players to shoot through it. He also suggested that the early comers to the school bring putters so that they can get in and practice on the putting greens before the lesson begins. As some of the clubs where there are elaborate putting courses, a fee is charged for the use of greens, but most of the clubs where the lessons are being given will permit pupils to have free putting practice before the regular lessons begin.

At Evergreen Al Megeff and five assistants handled a class of 450. At Cog Hill Joe Jemsek and Tony Scavone gave a lesson to 100 pupils. After each pupil has received individual instruction in stance and swing he hit fifty balls under the close supervision of the professionals. At Chicago Meadows Les MacArthur and his assistants coached a class of 300. There were 600 at Harlem for a lesson from Jack Yorgan and his staf of six assistants. Yorgan demonstrated from a stand while the class followed his motions. The assistants walked in and out among the pupils correcting errors.

Many Students from Joliet.

Reports of progress among the pupils came from Jim Dwyer of Elmgate, George Jenkins of Northbrook, Tom Geary of Indian Head, Dan Lynch of Golfmoor, Harry Adams of Hickory Hills, Dave MacIntosh of Oak Hills, and Pat Cusack of Walnut Hills.

MRS. HILL WINS OPENING MATCH IN GOLF TOURNEY

Kansas City Mo., June 5.—(AP)—Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City veteran, defeated Mrs. Ray S. Fellows, Tulsa, 8 and 6, with par golf, today to lead the parade into the second round of the Women's Trans-Mississippi tournament today.

ties, were installed. The clubhouse, locker room, dining room, and dining porch were repainted, replastered, and redecorated, and a new caddy house built. On Memorial day alone 268 dinners were served on the dining porch. All of these changes required an outlay of $30,000. With a quota of 275, Midlothian now has a membership of 250. Twenty-five places were reserved for resigned members, and 12 have already taken advantage of these to return to the club.

Glen View also has enjoyed an extremely heavy business, both on the course and in the dining room. Fred L. McNally, president of the club, said 390 attended the Memorial day party, with 210 playing golf. The club presently will open its new $25,000 swimming pool.

Medinah, the huge west side club with its three courses, is also in the parade of optimistic members of the C. D. G. A. Receipts in all house departments, including the bar, have mounted nearly 30 per cent already, and a boost of 40 per cent more play from the membership itself has been noted. A membership drive which began last June 1 produced 350 newcomers, raising the roster to 1,100. The vicinity of the clubhouse, pro shop, caddy house, and parking section has been completely landscaped with lawns, flowers, and hedges, at a cost of $3,000, and a $4,000 asphalt driveway from the main gate to the clubhouse proper has been laid. Pro shop sales also are on the upswing, and both Tommy and Sandy Armour have been booked solidly for lessons since May 15.

They Are Eating More.

Dining room receipts at Oak Park have been practically doubled, according to President William B. Henri, who also reports a material increase in play. The club is introducing a novel idea this year which might prove a thought for other clubs, Henri said. With Horton and Ren Smith volunteering enthusiastically, lessons are being given at half price to the junior members, with a view to encouraging the younger generation to play more and better golf.

Kildeer, which is installing a new watering system, showed a big jump in bar and restaurant sales during May. In that month last year these two departments took in $4,700, while the total for last month was $6,500. Guest play at Glen Oak is noticeably up this year, and the dining room revenue has been increased by 40 per cent. A new bar, installed in the second floor dormitory, is another feature. Play at North Shore speaks for itself in relation to that of 1933, according to Joseph Bowlby of the club. During the months of April and May last year, 2,440 players went over the course, and in the corresponding months this year the total was 3,140, an increase of 30 per cent. Guest play was up 15 per cent, 538 visitors playing during April and May, as against the 475 for the same period last year.

MINERALITES TAKE 3D PLACE IN PIN TOURNEY

New York, June 5.—(AP)—The Mineralites, all-star American combination, rolled into second place in the five man event of the fourth international bowling tournament today.

Led by G. Jarrett's 822 for four games, the Mineralites knocked over 3,820 pins, leaving them 56 behind the leaders, Stroh's Bohemian Beer squad from Detroit. The Strohs rolled 3.876 last night.

Syracuse gained third place in the standings with 3,719, while Sweden's third and fourth teams rolled 3,417, and 3,164, respectively.

J. Norris of the Stroh team, who rolled 838 in the five man test last night, took the lead in the race for all-events honors with a total of 2,562. He rolled the highest score in singles with 880 and rolled 844 in doubles, where he and Wreppenhagen of Detroit were the leaders with 1,598.

OPEN TWILIGHT SEASON.

D. M. Durkee Wins Rischer Trophy in Oil Burners Golf

The Chicago Oil Burner association held its eighth annual golf tournament yesterday at Medinah Play was over No. 1 course for prizes.

Competition was keen for the H. S. Rischer trophy for the best net score. D. M. Durkee, 82—13—69 and Louis Bourdon, 112—43—69 tied, but Durkee had the lower handicap to capture the prize. The trophy goes to the member winning three years in a row. Thus far eight different names, including Durkee's, are on the silver cup.

Among the low net winners were: Guests—F. S. Houwink, 84—12—72; C. R. Bennett, 90—18—72; A. R. Pederson, 90—18—72; J. J. McGowan, 96—24—72; C. G. McMinn, 102—30—72, and K. R. Munro, 115—43—72.

Other members taking net awards were Bourdon, Dr. Donald Whammond, 99—29—70; H. A. Matthews, 110—40—70; Edwin Goddard, 80—8—72; Carl Moore, 88—16—72, and H. M. Shaffer, 94—22—72.

M. F. Swaney, a guest, led the field in gross with 36—37—73, which included three birdies. W. C. Zingheim, another guest, was second with 40—38—78; Jack Belmont was the lowest member in gross with 38—41—79.

The annual banquet followed at night, W. A. Matheson president of the association, presiding.

The Kildeer Country club team defeated Ridgemoor by a record score of 24 to 3 yesterday in an upset in Northwestern Golf league play.

In other matches over this course, Bunker Hill defeated Edgewater, 21 to 6; Park Ridge beat Rolling Green, 20 to 7, and Westward Ho defeated Medinah, 18 to 9.

Standings in the league follow: Par. Ridge, 41; Bunker Hill, 35½; Westward Ho, 30½; Killdeer, 29; Medinah, 21½; Edgewater, 20½; Rolling Green, 20½; Ridgemoor, 17½.

Low scorers in the tourney play yesterday were Tick Wagner with 69, Charles Christopher, Bob Blake and Fred Wagner with 74s and Al Rand with 75.

William Flynn of Glen Ellyn, Ill., was elected captain of next year's Northwestern university golf team last night. Flynn, who is a senior, will accompany Ted Payseur, Wildcat golf coach, and Bob Brown, captain of this year's squad, to the western open tournament at Peoria next week.

Harry Benner won the blind bogey event in the annual tournament of the H. D. Swanson agency of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company yesterday at the Olympia Fields Country club. He had an 85. P. A. Hoche won the high gross prize with 136.

Inaugurating their golf season yesterday with a breakfast party, which was followed by competition over No. 2 course for prizes on selected holes, 150 women members at Medinah Country club enjoyed a complete day. The last of the contestants finished ahead of a rainstorm, which continued for an hour.

Mrs. W. H. Denker is chairman of the golf committee, which has prepared an interesting program for the remainder of the season. Handicaps will be allocated as soon as new members have played sufficient games.

The prize winners were Mrs. C. E. Dreis, Mrs. H. W. Rattray, Mrs. H. R. Rothrick, Mrs. L. G. Stuck, Mrs. A. F. Pearson, Mrs. E. F. King, Mrs. A. M. Lloyd, Mrs. G. W. Bischoff, Mrs. H. H. Geisler, Mrs. A. N. Anderson, Mrs. J. E. Gardner, and Mrs. C. B. Seibert.

FOUR CHICAGOANS WIN $500 EACH IN DERBY SWEEP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 5.—Four Chicagoans and a resident of Kenosha, Wis., are richer by $500 each as a result of drawings for consolation prizes in the Irish Hospital sweepstakes here today in connection with the 156th running of the English Derby at Epsom Downs tomorrow.

A total of $114,700 was distributed among 227 residents of the United States in today's drawing. The Chicago winners: M. E. Latimer, Paul Alban, John Hayes, and "Lucky Gamble." The Kenosha resident who will collect $500 is W. Seagrave.

An additional drawing tomorrow will determine the winners of 600 more $500 prizes.

Golfing Greats Predict New Low in Open

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—Leading golfers today surveyed the possibility of setting a new 72 hole record for the national open championship tourney which begins Thursday on the heavily trapped Merion layout.

It was not due to a lack of respect for this 6,694 yard, par 70 course that golfers like Johnny Goodman, the open king, Lawson Little, British amateur titleholder, Paul Runyan, and Macdonald Smith anticipate the lowering of the 286 mark held jointly by Chick Evans Jr. and Gene Sarazen, but because of the tempting and negotiable opportunities the course offers to every type of golfer.

Pros Ought to Do Better.

Goodman, Runyan, and the veteran Smith believe the winning total will be a stroke lower than the existing record, while the heavy-hitting Little predicted it would take 284 to win.

"This is the finest golf course the open has been played on in many years," said Smith, 44 year old Scot who has been striving for a quarter of a century to win the open.

"Merion does not favor long hitters or those who are keen up to and on the greens. It simply rewards good golf. Any golfer who can put together four good rounds, plus the breaks that go with that kind of golf, might find himself well under 285."

Goodman and Little base their opinions on the fact that the last two times the national amateur tourney was played here the qualifying medals were captured with 36-hole totals of 142. Their theory is that if the amateurs can do that well, the pros ought to do better.

Runyan Champions Accuracy.

Runyan likes Merion largely because position play is of prime importance and his game is 90 per cent accuracy.

The first six holes, aggregating 2,565 yards, give bombardiers like Craig Wood and Little a chance to square their shoulders and whack the ball.

Players of the Runyan and Goodman style—straight but not powerful—come into their own on the second block of holes, which virtually is a matter of a drive and a pitch with heavy emphasis on the pitch. The rest of the way is a test of courage. In Sarazen's opinion, any golfer who can play the last five holes in par for the four rounds will win the title.

Laffoon Shoots 67.

Ky Laffoon, 25 year old Denver professional who has been playing as many as 45 holes a day in preparation for the national open, gave the rest of the field something to think about today when he scored a 67 for his second sub-par round in three days. The man was out in 33, three under par, and back in 34, even par, despite a six on the par four 11th hole. Laffoon's average for seven rounds is even par 70.

Goodman used up 75 strokes on his first full round. He has yet to find the key to the fast and closely cropped greens. Little reported a 77. Gus Moreland of Dallas, Tex., and Jack Westland of Chicago, Walker cup players, had 74 and 78, respectively.

MAROON STARS OF PAST TO PLAY VARSITY NINE

University of Chicago stars of other days returning tomorrow for the annual dinner of the Order of the C, will endeavor to prove they retain their agility by meeting the Chicago varsity baseball team in a game at 3 o'clock o.. Greenwood field.

H. O. Crisler, who is now head coach of football at Princeton, will pitch for the alumni. He formerly was the Maroon baseball coach. Fred Walker, old time major leaguer, will be his relief. Tony Hinkle, athletic director of Butler, will be another pitching candidate for the alumni.

Skee Sauer, Elidor Libonati, and Nelson Norgren, of the pre-war days, and numerous recent graduates, including Haydon Wingate, Marshall Fish, Claude Brignall, John Howell, Robert Kaplan, William Urban, and Arthur Cahill will report for the game.

Mosquito Days Arrive in the North Country

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Fisherman! You had better carry a bottle of mosquito preventive in your pocket if you are going north to the lake and stream country any time soon. After our recent trout fishing expedition into the north country, where we had a ringside seat to observe the size, quantity and drilling ability of mosquitoes, we recommended either a pungent, potent mosquito dope, or tin helmet, tin shirt, and galvanized iron gloves.

Of course, the average trout fisherman expects insects along the stream during part of May or early June. One old timer who has fished trout for years in Wisconsin always insists "the fishin' ain't goin' to be no good 'til the mosquiters bite you plenty."

One also may expect black flies, too, an insect that [to us] is no nuisance at all. We put on a good insect dope, and the black fly leaves us alone. His incessant buzzing about is just harmless music.

On our recent trip we found it took more than one application to keep the mosquitoes in their places. In fact, one had to maintain a thick layer of the substance on neck, face, and hands at all times. We also found this year's crop of skeeters keen about riding. One fisherman suggested it was the result of the drouth. The mosquitoes are half starved and have not the strength to keep on the wing very long!

When we were on one stream about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, we had plenty of dope to keep the mosquitoes from biting, but we noticed that one cloud had gently settled on the back of our fishing jacket and cap, and there we were, wading down stream with a party of mosquitoes apparently enjoying the ride. Stuart Prosser, Lake Forest sportsman, who was fishing another stream about 30 miles from us, reported later that he was becoming round shouldered carrying mosquitoes while fishing!

Of course, the mosquito peak usually lasts only a short time. Like the wave of black flies that comes every year, they appear briefly and then disappear. Once mosquitoes have had their days, fishermen or vacationists may go north without fretting about swarms of these insects. It is the trout fishermen in the stream who invariably receives the main attack of the mosquito regiments because he is in the water all the time, close to low areas along the streams where mosquitoes breed and dwell.

Here is the recipe for the mosquito preventive we used and found effective on this recent trip: Olive oil, 1 ounce; pine tar, ¼ ounce; camphor, ½ ounce; citronella, ¼ ounce; oil of sassafras, ¼ ounce, and pennyroyal, ¼ ounce.

HITCHCOCK FACES CECIL SMITH IN POLO TOURNEY

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Two of America's three ten goal polo stars, Tommy Hitchcock of New York and Cecil Smith of Texas, will be opponents in the first tournament of the Long Island season. They will play on opposite sides in the first round of the Westbury Challenge cup competition, starting Saturday.

Hitchcock will ride No. 3 with the Greentree four, the other members of which are Bobby Lehman, C. V. [Sonny] Whitney, and J. H. [Jock] Whitney. Smith is listed No. 2 man on the Westbury team with Robert Hassler, H. W. Shaffer, and R. S. Allison as his associates.

The arrival today of a string of 16 ponies for the University of Missouri team heralded the challenge of the westerners to five eastern teams in the intercollegiate tournament, starting this Saturday at the Blind Brook club, near Purchase, N. Y. Missouri's players, due by auto tomorrow, meet Princeton, the defending champion, in the first round. The other entries are Yale, Army, Harvard, and Pennsylvania Military college.

Salvatore and Sharkey Will Meet Tonight

Geno Salvatore, La Salle 135 pound boxer, will oppose Jackie Sharkey of Minneapolis, Minn., tonight in the eight round windup of the first boxing show at Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard. Salvatore has not been beaten as a professional. Sharkey is expected to be his strongest opponent.

Lou Terry, St. Louis lightweight, and Carl Scalise, Chicago, meet in the six round semi-final. Other matches:

Art Donovan vs. Gene Lewis [4], lightweights.
Tommy Habel vs. Johnny Matthews [4], welterweights.

George Van Der Hayden, South Bend, Ind., featherweight, yesterday informed Promoter Johnny Coulon that he will be unable to go through with his scheduled 10 round meeting against Leo Rodak at White City Monday because of a hand injury suffered in training.

Tommy Corbett, Omaha, Neb., signed for two contests yesterday. On next Tuesday he is booked to head the card at Western stadium. His opponent may be Geno Salvatore. He is matched with Mickey Joy for eight rounds June 18 at Marigold Gardens. . . . Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., has agreed to face a suitable opponent at Marigold next Monday. . . . Pete Sofie, Seattle, Wash., middleweight, yesterday placed himself under the direction of Louis Gross.

Frank Siglio, Cicero lightweight, opened drills yesterday for a 10 round encounter with Johnny Farr of Cleveland, O., a week from tonight at Sparta stadium. . . . Lenny Cohen and Bobby O'Dowd, 122 pounders, are paired for six rounds. Pete Nebo, Key West, Fla., junior welterweight, arrived yesterday from Kansas City Mo. . . . Benny Ray will manage Nebo during his stay in Chicago.

Karl Ogren, middleweight, has left a Kenosha, Wis., hospital after having his appendix removed several weeks ago. . . . He plans to resume workouts next month. . . . Tait Littman, Milwaukee, Wis., 165 pound fighter, will be out of action until July 1 because of a boil on his arm. . . . Joe [Lefty] Sulka, Polish Youth organization welterweight, will clash with Joe Conrad of the C. Y. O. Friday in the main bout on the amateur program at P. Y. O. gymnasium, 4633 South Ashland avenue.

Johnny Phagan and Hayden [Young] Stuhley, middleweight rivals, will hook up for the third time this year in an eight round feature match at Bacon's casino tomorrow. Phagan was awarded an eight round decision over Stuhley at Marigold Gardens in their first effort. They fought 10 no decision rounds at Davenport, Ia., in the other.

Bouts on tonight's schedule include:
At Milwaukee, Wis.—Billy Miller vs. Joey Kaufman [8], Laddie Tonelli vs. Sherald Kennard [8] and Danny Neenan vs. Joe Tesch [6] all welterweights.
At San Francisco, Cal.—Sammy Slaughter vs. Kid Leonard [10], middleweights.

EPSOM, June 5.—Camp fires were twinkling on Epsom Downs tonight as the advance guard of a million onlookers began gathering for the 156th running of the Derby stakes tomorow afternoon.

Tipsters and bookmakers were there already staking out claims for good positions around the course. With them was a sprinkling of racing enthusiasts who shivered in a cold night wind for the sake of being near the winning post tomorrow. Gipsies were there, too, huddled around their camp wagons ready to tell fortunes by wholesale when the first crowds arrive in the morning.

Colombo Remains Favorite.

Lord Glanely's unbeaten colt Colombo still remained the favorite although odds narrowed by nightfall. Riding him will be the Australian jocky, Johnstone, a comparative newcomer to the Derby course, but the champion jocky of France last season despite being a foreigner and new to French courses.

Many prophets think Colombo too temperamental and without stamina for the Derby course, which, because of its hills and sharp turns, is the most gruelling flat racing test in the world.

Colombo's sire is Manna, who once won the Derby himself. His trainer, Hogg, who has made a specialty of training stayers, has no doubt of Colombo's endurance. Hundreds of thousands of pounds have been staked on him. There have been only two such heavy favorites since the war.

Umidwar Second Favorite.

The second favorite in the field of 18 is Aga Khan's Umidwar, who not only is owned by the eastern potentate, but whose name in Persian means "hopeful." Umidwar has forged ahead as the dark horse although he finished fifth in the 2,000 Guineas, his only race this season. Aga Khan has two other colts in the race, Badruddin and Alishah, but they are outsiders. The third favorite is Lord Woolavington's Easton, ridden by Gordon Richards, England's champion jocky who has won 51 races this season. Steve Donoghue's mount, Medieval Knight, also attracted a flood of last minute bets tonight on the jocky's reputation.

Buys Share of Ticket.

Lord Glanely is so confident of his horse's ability he has purchased a half share in a sweepstakes ticket on him.

Windsor Lad, owned by the maharaja of Rajpipla, was backed by a sizable faction at 100 to 9, but the odds on the rest of the field were of the write your own ticket variety. The only American owned horse in the Derby, William Woodward's Bondsman, was at 45 to 1. At the bottom of the list was Baron Munchausen at 140 to 1.

Most of those who do not fancy Colombo's chances believe he may come to grief at Tattenham corner, a sharp turn where a horse with legs of his reach is likely to tie himself in a knot.

DRIVERS FROM OUT OF TOWN IN ROBY AUTO RACE

Out of town drivers will be well represented in the field that will face the starter's flag in the "Roby 100" Sunday afternoon when this year's running of the midwestern dirt track automobile championship event gets under way at the Roby Speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis avenue.

Early entries received by Jack Leech, director of the race, bear the names of Mike Moscan, Michigan City ace who will drive a Frontenac special; Gerald Roberts of Whiting, Ind., who will pilot a Ruthenberg Special; Louis Broum of Urbana, and Don Rue of River Grove, Ill.

Mikel Protests Suspension of Jocky; Fined

J. D. Mikel, the downstate horseman from Bloomington who has been winning a race or more nearly every day, scored at Washington Park yesterday afternoon with the aged plater Lamp Black.

Despite the victory it was a stormy afternoon for the young Illinois turfman. After the running of the first race Tommy King, star jocky of the Mikel stable, was suspended for five days for a listless ride on the favorite Flag Time.

Mikel protested the ruling and was plastered with a $100 fine for his conduct in the presence of the stewards.

They are Joseph McGee's Light Brook, T. C. Worden's Leonard Wilson, D. R. Midkiff's Tearout, Mrs. Valentine Crane's Celebrant; C. C. Van Meter's Stay, Mrs. Frank C. Mars' Gallaclay and Wood F. Axton's Chief Evergreen.

If Jack Howard sends his unbeaten colt Albuquerque to the post in the 2 year old stake he will likely rule as the post time favorite. Try Sympathy from Willis Sharpe Kilmer's stable which will be shipped here from Detroit for the race will also muster a big following.

The more than 70 horses in the Audley Farm stable have arrived in Chicago. Their names will begin appearing in the entry lists at Washington Park within a few days. The horses were delayed at Douglas Park in Louisville by an epidemic of sickness.

Barney Ross, the newest maker of fistic history, will be a guest of honor at Washington Park tomorrow afternoon. Horse racing and an occasional $2 wager on the outcome is the hobby of the lightweight, junior welterweight and welterweight champion of the world.

Larry Johnson Finds Baer Is Open to Blows

Asbury Park, N. J., June 5.—(AP)—Max Baer, preparing for his June 14 heavyweight championship match against Primo Carnera, found another one of his sparring partners tough today as he stepped through eight fast rounds at his training camp.

Larry Johnson, Chicago light heavyweight, found the Californian an easy mark as he connected consistently with left hooks to the body and straight lefts to the face. He staggered Baer with a right smash to the chin near the close of the two round session.

CARNERA SHOWS OFF.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 5.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, showed a small but select clientele today how he could beat Max Baer a week from tomorrow night, how he could tie him, and how he could lose most thoroughly.

He gave all three of these contradictory displays in rapid succession against three sparring partners. It might have been worth the championship of the world to Baer if he could have watched.

Carnera is down to fighting weight of 258 pounds now for the fifteen round test in the Madison Square Garden bowl June 14. He will train every day until next Wednesday.

JOHNSTON AND BROOKS ENTERED IN A. A. U. TRACK

Jimmy Johnston, sprinter, formerly of Illinois State Normal college, who was a member of the 1932 Olympic team, and John Brooks, all around track star of the University of Chicago, are members of the Chicago Park District team which has entered 94 men in the 33d annual Central A. A. U. outdoor track and field meet to be held Sunday afternoon at Soldiers' field at 2 o'clock, in conjunction with the tryouts of the Polish-American team.

More than 200 entries have been received for the various events, but it is expected that the number will be nearly doubled by the time late applications are filed.

Athletes residing in the central district may compete in both the Polish tryouts and the A. A. U. events, it was ruled today by the committee in charge.

EDDIE RAN BEATS JACKIE PURVIS IN 5 ROUND BOUT

Paul Lee beat Oscar O'Hanion [5].
George Black beat Eddie Allen [5].
George Trapp and Angelo Garlow drew [4].
Toots Bernstein beat Jimmy Brown [5].

TWILIGHT GAME TODAY.

The West Side Colonels of the Wisconsin-Illinois league meet the Miller High Lifes in a twilight game tonight at Sparta stadium, 21st and Kostner avenue, at 6:30 o'clock.

RED SOX POUND VAN ATTA; WHIP YANKEES, 8 TO 3

Rhodes and Ferrell Yield Only Five Hits.

Boston, Mass., June 5.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, former star of Cleveland's mound staf, turned in his first victory for the Red Sox today in a brilliant exhibition of relief pitching that enabled Boston to defeat the New York Yankees, 8 to 3. Ferrell relieved Gordon [Dusty] Rhodes in the fourth and allowed only two hits in the last 5 2-3 innings. Both of them came in the ninth when the Red Sox had the game safely tucked away.

Russell Van Atta made his sixth start of the season for the Yankees and was batted out for the sixth time. Danny MacFayden yielded only one hit after he took the mound in the fifth. Score:

TIGERS, INDIANS SPLIT.

Detroit, Mich., June 5.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers split a double header today with Cleveland, and if Shortstop Knickerbocker of the Indians had not slammed out a triple in the ninth inning to win the second game for the Indians, Detroit would be leading the league tonight. The Tigers took the first game, 20 to 2. They had the second game won, 4 to 3, in the ninth until Knickerbocker hit a triple off Hogsett to score pinch batters Seeds and Winegartner, who each had singled ahead of him. Scores:

Giants Collect 16 Hits; Beat Braves, 13-4

New York, June 5.—(AP)—The Giants bunched their hits in three innings, piling up four runs each in the third, fifth and sixth to defeat the Boston Braves, 13 to 4, today.

Home runs by Travis Jackson, Hughey Critz and Mel Ott were included in New York's total of 16 hits and all but two of those helped to score runs. Hal Schumacher was a bit wobbly at the start and embarrassed by four Giant errors but managed to gain his sixth victory of the season. Score:

PHILLIES WIN PAIR.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—The Phillies pulled out a pair of last minute decisions over the Brooklyn Dodgers through home runs today, winning a double header, 11 to 10 and 5 to 4.

In the first game, a 30 hit affair Bud Clancy celebrated his debut as a Philly before the home fans by swatting a homer with two on base and two out in the ninth to win. In the second Ray Benge held the Phils to three hits in the first seven innings only to see them win in the eighth when Ethan Allen's homer with two on base climaxed a five run rally. Score:

BROTHERS FROM PARKER WIN DOUBLES TITLE

John and Charles Shostrom of Parker High school won the doubles title in the University of Chicago's interscholastic tennis finals yesterday They defeated Chester and William Murphy of Tilden Tech in the final, 6-3, 7-5. The Murphy brothers, who won the state title at Champaign two weeks ago, were leading 5-2 in the second set when John Shostrom broke through their lobbing game with a series of midcourt smashes for the victory.

The Shostroms will fight it out between themselves for the singles title this afternoon at 61st street and Ellis avenue. John, the elder of the brothers, will be seeking his fourth consecutive U. of C. singles title. He is No. 1 ranking western junior. Charles is rated No. 1 in the boys' division.

Following the play today, and as a Maroon alumni reunion feature, Max Davidson and Trevor Weiss, Big Ten doubles champions, will play John McDiarmid, 16th ranking amateur in the country, and Art Jorganson, another Parker star. After this match they will meet the Murphy brothers.

Cards Whip Warneke and Cubs, 6 to 3

the plate. The powerful Mr. Medwick started it with a two bagger to right. Cuyler went to deep center to take Collins' fly and this let Medwick move to third. V. Davis hoisted to Babe Herman for the second out but Orsatti sent a three base line drive to left center to score Medwick. When Klein's throw-in eluded Jurges, Orsatti tried to stretch his contribution into a homer but Billy Herman recovered and threw to Hartnett in time to nip the bold runner.

Cubs Threaten in Third.

The Cubs started off in the third as if determined to do big things. English and Klein singled with one out and Rothrock fumbled the latter's hit. This put runners on third and second. Nothing came of this because both Babe Herman and Cuyler were retired on infield rollers. Then, as a sort of celebration over this escape, Dean figured in the run with which the Cards tied it at 2 apiece in the home third. Durocher opened with a double and scored when Dean doubled. There were none out when this happened, but Warneke set down the next three batters.

Here is what happened to Warneke during the scoring of three Cardinal runs in the fourth. Medwick opened with a single to center. Although two strikes were registered against him, Collins sent a line drive home run onto the right field pavilion roof. That meant two runs for the Cards as well as Collins' tenth circuit drive of the season. V. Davis banged a double against the right field wall for the sixth extra base hit off Warneke. V. Davis galloped to third on Orsatti's fly and scored on Durocher's single to center. P. Dean then grounded into a forceout, Whitehead walked and the suffering ceased on Rothrock's fly to Klein.

Paul Has Some Fun.

From the third to the seventh young Dean had a gay time. He fanned Camilli and Hartnett in the fourth. He fanned Pinch Batter Galan and W. Herman in the fifth. These four strikeouts were part of the harsh treatment accorded twelve successive batters, none of whom reached base. The string was broken by Jurges, who whacked his homer into the left field bleacher with one out in the seventh. After two were out in this inning Joiner singled but it didn't mean anything.

Joiner held the Cards hitless in the fifth and sixth but they got a pair of hits in the seventh for their final run. The first was a single by Whitehead past Jurges. Rothrock bunted and came close to beating it out. Then Frisch singled to right to score Whitehead and Babe Herman backed against the wall to get a fly delivered by Medwick. There was no hitting after this by either faction.

Another for Paul

White Sox and Browns Split DoubleHeader

the home seventh, but he fared better. Hemsley, encouraged by the fact he had caught Swanson snoozing off second in the third inning, tried to catch Madjeski in a similar nap, but made a low throw, enabling Madjeski to reach third. Jones fanned, but Swanson singled to right center, scoring Madjeski. Haas flied to West, then Bonura singled to left, Swanson stopping at second. Simmons forced Bonura.

Appling opened the eighth with a single to center and reached second on Dykes' sacrifice. Boken singled to center, scoring Appling and then took second on the throw-in. Madjeski was given an intentional pass and Jones fanned. Boken executed a delayed steal of third, then Swanson again came through with a single, scoring him. Haas singled to right, scoring Madjeski and putting Swanson on third, after which Bonura walked, filling the bases. Simmons singled to right, scoring Swanson and Haas and putting Bonura on third. Appling lined to Melillo.

SECOND GAME

Bejma and Grube walked at the outset of the second inning. Coffman attempted to sacrifice, but forced Bejma at third, Bonura to Dykes. Clift knocked a homer into the left field stands, scoring behind Grube and Coffman.

Appling was replaced by Chamberlin at the beginning of the third inning. It was Luke's first absence from the lineup this year. Chamberlin did not get a play until the fourth, then he gummed up the works prettily. With one out West singled to center. Burns grounded to Boken, who tossed to Chamberlin at second to force West. But Joe dropped the toss and both runners were safe. Pepper singled through Boken, West scoring and Burns taking third. Garms fouled to Dykes and Melillo forced Pepper.

The Sox made two runs in the fourth despite the curse of a double play. Haas singled to center for the second Chicago hit and stopped at second when Bonura also singled to center. Simmons singled to right, scoring Haas and putting Bonura on third, whence he scored while Simmons and Chamberlin were going down in a double play. Dykes flied to Garms.

One Big Nightmare.

A double play also produced the Sox's third run. Boken beat out a bunt toward third and continued to second when Clift threw the ball past first. Shea caromed a single off Burns' glove, Boken stopping at third. Uhalt batted for Gallivan and tapped into a double play, Boken scoring. Swanson fanned.

Heving took over the pitching at the start of the sixth. He walked West, then Burns slammed a double play ball at Boken, who promptly showed again that he does not know how to make the elemental tag play. Boken failed to tag West, who pulled up three feet away from him, then threw to Bonura to get Burns while West ran on to second. Pepper singled to deep short, West stopping at third. Garms singled to right, scoring West and Pepper, and took second while Swanson was kicking the ball around in right center. Melillo singled to left, Garms stopping at third. Bejma singled to right, scoring Garms. Grube fouled to Bonura, and Coffman fanned. Heving held the Browns to three hits and one run in the seventh and to one single in the last two innings.

The Sox made a run in the ninth inning on doubles by Bonura and Chamberlin.

Sox Send Lyons Against Browns; May Face Newsom

Ted Lyons is scheduled to pitch for the Sox against the St. Louis Browns in this afternoon's game at Comiskey park. He probably will be opposed by Buck Newsom.

The Sox are rebuilding their pitching staf. Harry Kinzy, late of Texas Christian, and Ralph Meade, late of Illinois Wesleyan, bore their gloves into the Sox camp yesterday.

St. Louis scribes report a 400 per cent improvement in the Browns' attendance since Hornsby's lads have been up there battling.

Rollie Hemsley, batting leader of the majors, didn't get a hit in the first game. He did get two cracked knuckles and a bump on the shin. Frank Grube caught the second game.

A shower interrupted the first game in the sixth inning. The contest was suspended three minutes, after which the weather was hotter than ever.

GOPHERS AWARD "M" BLANKET TO PROFESSOR PAIGE

Minneapolis, Minn., June 5.—[Special.]—Prof. James Paige, who retires this month after 28 years as Minnesota's faculty representative in Western conference athletics, was presented with the traditional "M" blanket usually given only to graduating senior athletes, at the annual spring gathering of Gopher letter men today.

Motorcyclists Race Tonight on West Side

Flat track motorcycle racing will be introduced to Chicago on the one-fifth of a mile track at the Logan Square baseball park, North Kedzie and Elston avenues, at 8 o'clock tonight. Eighteen heats comprise tonight's program. As many will be run tomorrow night, and again on Friday night. Thereafter there will be racing one night a week during the summer.

The Chicago meet has drawn internationally known cyclists, the latest one to enter being J. W. Ferguson of Toronto, Canada, lately returned from competing in England. Marcus Leo Kelly, the Pacific northwest champion, also is entered, along with Dick Springston of Fresno.

Noel Flaistad, representative of the American Motorcycle association, is in charge of the meet. Tonight's races will be started by Wild Bill Cummings, winner of the 500 mile Indianapolis race last week.

COLUMBIA CANOE CLUB ENTERS 68 IN FAIR REGATTA

Sixty-eight members of the Columbia Canoe club, headed by Louie La Brant, national singles blade champion, yesterday entered the canoeing regatta to be staged in Swift pool at the World's Fair June 14 and 16.

La Brant, who won the national title in A Century of Progress lagoon last summer, is a graduate of Rockford High school. He boasts a mark of 4:19 for the 800 meters straightaway event.

BUSH JOINS CUBS; ROOT TO OPPOSE CARDINALS TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 5.—Guy Bush rejoined the Cubs this morning and immediately announced he wouldn't be able to pitch the second of the series with the Cardinals tomorrow. The Mississippian is still suffering with pains in the region of the short ribs. Because of the Bush ailment Charley Root will have to oppose Dizzy Dean tomorrow. Windmill Jim Weaver will try his luck in the final Thursday.

Pat Malone showed up this morning wearing a black shirt. He explained that it was a polo shirt. That isn't what his surprised mates called it.

A tall screen has been erected the length of the right field pavilion at the local park, but instead of being at the front of the stand it is at the back, so it will be just as easy as before to land homers on the roof. The idea of the screen was that it would soon save its cost by preventing baseballs from dropping into the street.

This morning Babe Herman was letting everybody in the hotel know that this would be the day on which he would hit his first homer of the season. He made good by furnishing the homer in his first time at bat.

Two exhibition dates have been fixed for the Cubs. They'll play at Toronto, Canada, July 8 on their way east, and at Syracuse, N. Y., July 27 on their way west.

The Cubs didn't have to contend with the dashing Pepper Martin today. Martin was slated to start, but in the pre-game practice pulled something in his throwing arm and was benched in favor of Phi Beta Kappa Whitehead.

Alice Marble Improves; May Sail in Two Weeks

PARIS, June 5.—(AP)—Alice Marble, United States tennis star who has been confined to the American hospital since her collapse at Roland Garros stadium May 24, is suffering from pleurisy, her physician said today. She is improving daily, but her sailing may be delayed another two weeks.

SUN CAPTOR WINS BY SIX LENGTHS IN SPRINT EVENT

Pays 2-1 Odds in First Victory Since 1932.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Clean cut evidence that he may have something to say about the best horse among the sprinters around about Chicago this season was given at Washington Park yesterday by Sun Captor from the barn of Jake Lowenstein.

Sun Captor, a big black son of Sun Briar and a castoff from the Willis Sharpe Kilmer stable, won the Kapp Meyers purse in a common gallop by six lengths. There wasn't a horse behind him which was able to make it interesting at any stage of the race.

Trailing him home at the end was Regardless in second place, and Ashen, from the Shandon Farm stable in third position. Prince Pompey, the favorite, was a soundly beaten fourth.

First Victory Since 1932.

This was the third start Sun Captor was making in the Lowenstein colors and he ran an altogether different race than he did for Owner Kilmer as a 3 year old last year and as a 2 year old the year previous. It was the first time he had looked at the winning post since he was a 2 year old back in August of 1932 at Saratoga.

He is a big fellow and may have just reached his full growth. He peeled off this seven furlongs over a rather difficult slow track in 1:26 4-5, which was probably the best race he has run during his career.

When the start came Jocky Westrope sent Sun Captor right out into the pacemaking rôle. From the time his nose showed in front at the gateway he was never headed.

Prince Pompey Fails.

In the early stages Prince Pompey was near enough to him to arouse hopes in the hearts of the favorite players that he might rally at any instant and sail on past the black son of Sun Briar. He tried it on the turn into the stretch, but Sun Captor pulled away from him.

Prince Pompey had nothing to say about the race from then until the struggle ended. Regardless conquered Prince Pompey soon after the stretch run started, but never got close to Sun Captor. Ashen rallied and went on past the collapsed Prince Pompey in the final stages to take down third money.

Sun Captor was at 2 to 1 in the betting and Owner Lowenstein was sighing a bit last night and regretting that he had not made the speedy gelding eligible to more of the rich stakes that are to be decided in Chicago this year.

Brown Feathers Wins.

A 2 year old race called the "Violet" was the secondary feature and it found the favorite Brown Feathers staging a rally in the stretch to beat out Que Gato from Tom Taggart's French Lick Springs stable by a length, with Diavoless from Mrs. Frank C. Mars' stable of Chicago third.

HADDOCK MEETS WAGNER TONIGHT AT MARIGOLD

Bobby Wagner will meet Dale Haddock of Birmingham in the ninety minute windup. Bull Curry, Italian easterner will wrestle Frankie Hart of Holland, Mich.

Stan Buresch, Australian champion may introduce his Kangaroo Kick if he gets angry at Gorilla Parker, his opponent. Karl von Lehman, a German, will encounter Toots Estes. Hy Sharman faces Wild Bill Brooks in the opening encounter.

TODAY'S SELECTIONS

DAILY DOUBLES

FLOOD OF LIGHT PIGS SENDS PRICE TO NEW MINIMUM

Hog Trend Is Irregular; Cattle Rise.

The heavy influx of unfinished and light pigs continued yesterday and pressed some classes of stock weighing under 180 pounds into the lowest price brackets on record, considering their quality. Receipts here totaling 32,000 were the heaviest for Tuesday since January.

Offerings at all points are running above 1933 and 1932. The 11 leading markets handled a combined total of 111,000 hogs, 27 per cent more than on the same Tuesday last year and 48 per cent more than two years ago.

Sharp criticism was given the FSRC for its failure to support prices. Many traders accused buyers representing this account of actually depressing the market more than the average commercial buyer. The three packers buying for the government obtained 3,200 hogs averaging 130 to 180 pounds within a range of $2 to $3, a record for "relief hogs."

Hear Contracts Extended.

While the contracts on which the packers are working for the government terminate today, it is understood they have been extended until June 15 to bridge the gap between old and new contracts.

The spread between "government weights" and commercial hogs reached a new wide point yesterday. Nothing for the government sold above $3, while selected butchers to commercial hog buyers topped the list at $3.70, showing a 5 cent advance over the previous session.

Lights weighing under 200 pounds sold at weak to 25 cents lower prices yesterday, the bulk of the supply consisting of these kinds forced in by the drouth. Medium and weighty hogs of good quality, however, were active and strong to 5 cents higher, closing at the high point of the session.

A combination of adverse factors has been working against the market for lightweights. Record hot weather, liquidation of light hogs, the processing tax, and bootlegging of pork have all figured prominently in driving prices for light weights and pigs into the lowest price levels in history.

Prime Beef Holds Advance.

Better grades of beef steers continued to hold recent sharp advances and were again near the highest price levels in the last 19 months. Most good to choice grades yesterday sold at steady to strong prices, the top late reaching $9.85, while the plainer classes of cattle and butcher stock lacking flesh ruled weak to lower. The spread between common and best grades of all live stock is widest of the season.

Choice yearlings were steady, but others declined. Selected 840 pound yearlings sold at $8.75. Because of the long dry spell farmers are buying very little replacement stock and this has left the feeder division without support. Trading was slow and prices weak to lower. Some off quality feeders are being sold as low as $2 and occasionally for less, while only the selected kinds are listed at $4.50 and above.

Old mutton sheep yesterday sank to the lowest prices on record. Top ewes were listed at $2, the new low. Yearlings and lambs also declined, but these still are well above 1933 and 1932 price levels. City butchers obtained selected native new crop lambs at $9.25 and packers bought at $9 and under. Early shorn yearlings, previously classed as lambs, were sold at $7.50 and below.

MINNESOTA SHIPS DROUTH CATTLE TO STATE LANDS

St. Paul, Minn., June 5.—[Special.]—Two million acres of state public lands today were thrown open for the feeding of drouth stricken cattle, with additional 6,000,000 acres of lands held in reserve to be used if necessary.

The state lands were thrown open to the use of the farmers of the state's 23 drouth stricken counties by Gov. Olson, and at the same time plans for the trek of thousands of head of cattle to the lush grasses of the woods and burned over areas in the northern part of the state were being made by Adjt. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh.

Farmers Keep Best Animals.

Coincidentally state drouth relief headquarters announced receipt of the first reports from appraisers in the drouth counties, revealing that farmers are not selling all of their animals, but are retaining their best animals as foundation stock for herds to be built up when pasturage again is available.

The pasturage was thrown open and the government buying was definitly under way as showers, and in some places hard rains, continued to provide relief from the three months' lack of precipitation which has burned up pasturage and brought thousands of head of live stock to the verge of starvation.

Offer 15% of Herds for Sale.

The reports on the result of the start of the federal purchase of starving live stock was announced by P. E. Miller, state drouth relief director. The reports, he said, came from 17 of the 23 drouth stricken counties and covered visits of appraisers to 2,664 farms. On these there were 118,157 cattle, of which the farmers want to sell 17,748 animals, or about 15 per cent of their herds. The average number offered for sale per farm was a little less than seven animals.

Arrangements have been completed for the shipment of about 10,000 animals to upper Mississippi wild life refuge near Winona today, grazing lands there having been thrown open by the federal government. Conferences are to be held at Duluth today and at Bemidji Wednesday to plan for the emergency feeding of other thousands of cattle in northern Minnesota forest areas.

FEDERAL RULE OF TOBACCO CROP GROWS NEARER

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—The possibility of strict federal control of tobacco production increased today with privileged status being given the Kerr bill in the house.

The rules committee approved procedure limiting debate on the measure which would give Secretary Wallace authority to reduce tobacco acreage. A little later the ways and means committee made public its formal report urging passage of the Vinson bill to reduce tobacco taxes 40 per cent.

Chairman Jones [Dem., Tex.] of the agriculture committee plans to ask house action on the Kerr control bill this week. The measure is similar to the Bankhead cotton control measure.

FRENCH WHEAT SURPLUS PUT AT 1,500,000 BUSHELS

PARIS, June 5.—(AP)—Reports were current tonight that France is prepared to export more than 1,500,000 bushels of wheat at a price slightly less than 50 cents a bushel. It was said the grain would go to the United Kingdom and Denmark.

It was said in well informed quarters that the government was expected to be asked to maintain a minimum domestic wheat price at a level to be determined after the yield of the current crop becomes known.

Prospects for the French crop have improved with recent rains and production this year is estimated at about 330,000,000 bushels. The crop in French colonial portions of northern Africa also is said to be good.

Canadian Wheat Exports Fall Sharply Last Week

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 5.—(AP)—Export clearances of Canadian wheat from all ports last week totaled 2,721,934 bushels, out of North American shipments of 3,256,000. This compared with 4,671,546 in the same week last year.

SUGAR PROCESS TAX HALF CENT A POUND; MAY INCREASE PRICE

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Rexford G. Tugwell, as acting secretary of agriculture, today set the processing tax on sugar at a half cent per pound. This is equal to the reduction in duty on Cuban sugar and will go into effect at the same time, June 8.

The tax will be levied on direct consumption sugar from the first domestic processing of sugar beets and sugar cane. "Direct consumption sugar," was defined as any sugar to be used for any purpose other than further refining. "Raw value," was defined as a standard unit of sugar testing 96 degrees by the polariscope.

All taxes and quotas will be based on this "raw value" standard. In the case of sugar beets, the raw value is determined by multiplying the weight of such sugar by 1.07.

Administration officials, while admitting that the tax possibly will mean an increase in sugar prices to consumers for a short time, said that in the long run they will level out to about the present point because the price increasing effect of the tax will be cancelled by the reduction in duty on sugar from Cuba, principal supplier of the domestic market.

Funds from the processing tax which are estimated at $64,760,000 annually, will be used by the farm administration to make benefit payments to sugar beet and sugar cane farmers in return for adjustments in their production to bring the total supply of sugar this year down to about the domestic consumption figure.

Manufacturers of cane juice or molasses who do not produce more than 200 gallons during any single season are exempted from payment of the processing tax. Producers making up to 500 gallons will be taxed for any amount over 200 gallons and other manufacturers will be taxed on all production.

GRAIN EXPORTS GAIN FOR WEEK; SAG BELOW 1933

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week totaled 138,000 bushels against 19,000 bushels the previous week and 179,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year. Commerce department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those for the week before:

Wheat, none, against 400,000 bushels; barley, 25,000 bushels, against 5,000; corn, 112,000, against 10,000; oats, 1,000, against none. No exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grain exported last week from North American ports totaled 237,000 bushels, against 234,000 bushels the previous week while exports of North American wheat flour were 15,000 barrels against 12,000 barrels the previous week.

RETAILERS TOLD NEW DEAL IDEAS CONFUSE NATION

McNair Flails Socialistic Control of Business.

The philosophy of the New Deal, which countenances the activities of the NRA, price fixing, and the forcing of socialistic measures on the American business man, was criticized yesterday by Malcolm P. McNair, director of research, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, in a talk before members of the National Retail Dry Goods association at the Palmer House.

Discussing the business outlook, Prof. McNair warned his audience in the following words:

"You still have to contend with all the uncertainties and vagaries of the administration's recovery-reform-control program. I have never made any secret to you of my attitude toward the NRA. I do not accept the philosophy on which it is based.

Deplores NRA Burocracy.

"I deplore the unwieldy and autocratic burocracy which it requires. I am steadfastly opposed to its price fixing and price maintenance proclivities. I consider that it has been principally successful solely in achieving what it was ostensibly designed to prevent, namely, a serious discrepancy between retail price levels and consumer purchasing power.

"As for the general business picture, it is clear that we still are witnessing a race between the natural forces of business recovery and growing uneasiness and lack of confidence of the American business man over the large measure of state socialism which is being forced upon him in the guise of a recovery program.

"There will be no real and lasting improvement until there is confidence; and until there is confidence the pump priming activities of the federal government cannot be relaxed. Hence, we can only pray that confidence will be restored before the pump priming has emptied the reservoir of public credit."

Cites Cut In Store Expense.

Prof. McNair stated that the most significant achievement by department stores in 1933 was the reduction in the rate of total expense, a reduction achieved in the face of both declining sales volume and the wholly unprecedented regulatory activity of the federal government.

There is yet no indication that prices are going to rise sufficiently to increase or even maintain last year's highly favorable gross margin, he said. Physical volume is currently below the corresponding months of 1933 and the resistance of consumers to higher prices is very real.

Discussing the general situation with respect to department stores, Prof. McNair said that for the first time in ten years studies disclosed a substantial increase in gross margin, a noticeable drop in the total expense rate from the unprecedented peak reached in 1932 and a restoration to the profit column after the substantial losses recorded in the depths of the depression.

Sees Lack of Code Compliance.

Elmer F. Wieboldt, president of the local retail code authority for Chicago and a member of the national retail code authority, predicted greater compliance with the labor provisions of the retail code and the creation of a separate board to handle labor disputes.

"Unfortunately, we have to admit there is not the percentage of compliance with the labor provisions we ought to have under the code," Mr. Wieboldt asserted. "It is not easy to get all merchants to live up to wage and hour provisions or to get employés to report violations with the present shortage of jobs."

Mr. Wieboldt said that the code authority is working to reduce the red tape in carrying out the provision of the NRA.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—Raw sugar advanced 5 points today to 2.78c for spots. Sales confirmed included 13,500 bags of Philippines nearby at 2.73c, 32,200 bags of Porto Rican due, June 25 at 2.78c, to local refiners, and 40,000 bags of Porto Rican for June shipment to an outport refiner at 2.75c.

Early advances in futures was followed by reactions, with the market closing net unchanged to 1 point higher. Sales were 24,500 tons, including 15,000 in exchanges.

The announcement late in the day that the rate of processing tax on the direct consumption of sugar has been set at ½c per pound raw value for sugar beets and sugar cane was just about as expected and had no influence. Prices:

WHEAT RALLIES SWIFTLY AFTER EARLY RELAPSE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An early loss of more than a cent in wheat here yesterday was dramatically routed shortly after noon as realization grew that rains received over night afforded only slight relief to the drouth stricken crops. Prices shot up 6 cents from the day's low, retaining a large portion of the advance to the close and ending with a net improvement of about 4 cents. All deliveries closed above the dollar mark, July ending at $1.00⅞.

Other grains duplicated the market leader's action, although fluctuations were confined to smaller proportions. Oats attained the maximum allowable advance of 3 cents for the session and held the advantage to the final gong, with July at 44¼ cents. At the close wheat was 3⅞ to 4⅜ cents above Monday's finish. Corn was 2¾ to 2⅞ cents higher, July finishing at 56¾ cents. Rye advanced 2⅛ to 2⅜ cents, and barley was 3¼ to 3½ cents higher.

Winnipeg ended its session unchanged to ⅛ cent over Monday, while Liverpool closed 1⅛ to 1⅜ pence under the previous day.

Rains Cause Early Decline.

Initial weakness was based largely on receipt of fairly generous rains throughout the United States and Canadian spring wheat area. Surprise passage by the lower house in congress of the commodity control bill added a mild bearish influence, while extreme weakness in Winnipeg found immediate reflection here. Weather forecasts were not particularly bright for plentiful precipitation and later reports from the drouth area indicated that moisture received was not of great benefit.

Sentiment immediately turned about and efforts to reinstate holdings found grains rather tightly held, with the result prices moved up without effort. Volume was disappointing, although greater than Monday, but was too thin to permit absorption of heavy orders. Traders reported that often buying or selling orders for as little as 10,000 bushels would swing values an eighth or quarter cent.

Crop Damage Continues.

Crop damage reports in many instances declared the overnight rains would be of little benefit. All advices from both winter and spring wheat areas revealed continued deterioration. One message said three northwest spring wheat states would produce only 50,000,000 bushels. The Occident Milling company was more conservative, saying these states—the Dakotas and Montana—might produce a 40 per cent crop with favorable conditions. Dry weather was again reported abroad with Broomhall estimating a total reduction of 14 per cent in this year's crop.

Strength in corn was based largely on unconfirmed rumors that the government was acquiring 12,000,000 bushels for relief distribution.

RALLY AT WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 5.—The Winnipeg wheat market opened 6 to 6½ cents lower but rallied strongly and unchanged to ⅛ of a cent higher. Selling by local traders and from Chicago at the start was offset by export buying on the breaks and the market reacted around midsession.

The feature of the market was the first excited response to rains and the export demand later. Rains last night in Manitoba were the heaviest in years but grasshoppers are a menace.

LAKE IRON ORE MOVEMENT FAR ABOVE YEAR AGO

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 5.—[Special.]—Movement of iron ore from the Lake Superior basin to lower lake points increased 150 per cent in May compared with May, last year, according to the first full month report of navigation issued today at the St. Mary's Fall canal.

The report showed that 2,611,241 tons of iron ore were carried east during the month compared with 953,152 tons last year and 134,214 tons in 1932. Total freight last month was 5,744,695 tons, compared with 3,490,182 tons in May, last year, and 1,568,833 tons in May, 1932.

The 1934 season is shown in the report to be far ahead of the last two years despite the late opening of navigation. Among other commodities included in the report were: wheat, 28,633,467 bushels; other grains, 13,151,893 bushels; soft coal [westbound], 1,525,605 tons; oil [westbound], 86,122 tons. The total number of lock passages was 1,487, compared with 1,267 in 1933.

Soap Concern Lifts Prices Due to New U. S. Oil Tax

In order to allow for the recent excise tax on cocoanut and other imported oils used in the manufacture of soap, the Procter & Gamble Co. has increased its prices by an average of 3 per cent.

Rains Viewed Too Light to Help Wheat

A large percentage of wheat traders here and in other markets have apparently made up their minds that rains over the northwest and southwest have been insufficient, and that there is to be a light crop. They are strong believers in higher prices. Pit traders said yesterday it was as difficult to buy wheat at the close as it was to sell early in the day without bringing price recessions.

Traders believe the prospect of a bullish crop report by the government on Friday will give a strong tone to the market until the figures are announced. Confidence was much greater yesterday and practically every one is bullish, although a decidedly choppy action is likely due to daily weather changes.

Drouth is not confined to the United States. Broomhall, world grain authority, reported yesterday:

Germany—Rains inadequate. Drouth continues.

A message received from H. E. Weber of Fergus Falls, Minn., by Winthrop Mitchell & Co. did much to turn the declining trend of the grain market. It is based on reports from field men who have just returned from a tour of the Dakotas and Montana.

"Thousands of acres have nothing green on them," Weber reports. "Rain has ceased to be a factor except for forage and the three states can't raise 50,000,000 bushels of wheat. This is a calamity."

Renewed reports of grasshoppers were received from the spring wheat belt. Should the weather again turn hot and dry this may become a major menace, particularly in Canada.

It was said at the close yesterday that prospects of an advance in the price of gold was, in a measure, responsible for late buying of wheat attributed to eastern interests.

"We expect Liverpool to be higher tomorrow, but in the meantime their July wheat closed about 31 cents under ours, whereas the normal difference should be 10 cents above us, and we have seen it as much as 25 cents over," says the Uhlmann Grain company. "So there is a difference of 40 cents per bushel to be made up before we could be on an export basis from Chicago."

Harris, Burrows & Hicks say: "Liverpool wheat is selling at 75 cents for the October, in terms of European currency, and about 45 cents in terms of gold. The price is materially lower than at the time when the world wheat accord was signed and the crop outlook in Europe is far below that of last year."

The government was said to be inquiring here yesterday for millet, sudan and other quick maturing grass and fodder seeds, for possible shipment into the drouth areas. Supplies are light and one leading dealer in millet reported it would be extremely difficult to secure even one car in a hurry.

An unusual condition was revealed on an Indiana farm where a farmer started to cut his clover field and discovered the heads were full of seed. Ordinarily seed is not obtained from the first crop of the season. Experts explained that bees could find no other spot to secure honey and had spent all their time in this clover field, pollinating the flowers.

WARD MAY SALES EXPAND 37.3 PCT.; WOOLWORTH UP

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday reported its sales for May exceeded May. 1933, by 37.3 per cent, continuing the expansion of business which developed many months ago. The May, 1934, total stood at $20,934,510 compared with $15,247,812 for the same month of 1933.

For the four months ended May 31, 1934, sales totaled $75,541,012 against $52,308,663 for the 1933 period—an increase of $23,232,349, or 44.41 per cent. Of the total retail sales increased 26.06 per cent over May, 1933, while mail order sales increased 58.33 per cent.

Sales of F. W. Woolworth company for May totaled $22,004,508 compared with $19,801,192 in May, 1933—an increase of 11.1 per cent. For the first five months sales totaled $101,825,975, an increase of 13.7 per cent over the $89,559,999 in the first 5 months of 1933.

Sale of W. T. Grant & Co. for the first five months of 1934 amounted to $29,288,808, compared with $26,721,697 for the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 9.6 per cent.

Roosevelt's Oldest Son Heads Insurance Agency

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hartford, Conn., June 5.—Formation of the insurance firm of Roosevelt & Sargent with offices in Boston was announced here today by the Travelers Insurance company of Hartford. The firm will be a general life agency for the Travelers company. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, heads the new concern. He recently retired from a Boston insurance agency.

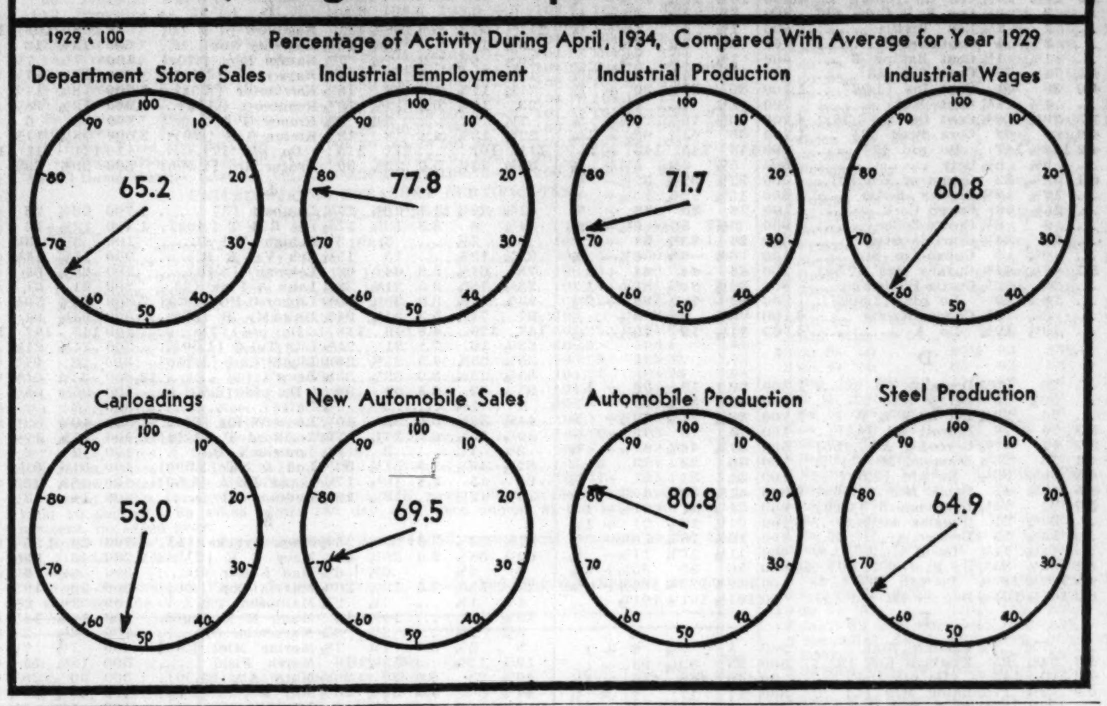
Stage of Business in April as Shown by Eight Principal Barometers



FAVORABLE DIVIDEND ACTION IS TAKEN BY MANY LARGE CONCERNS

Improved business conditions were reflected in favorable dividend actions by a large group of companies yesterday.

Directors of the Kennecott Copper corporation declared 15 cents a share on common stock, the first payment since Jan. 2, 1932, when 12½ cents was disbursed. For the second consecutive quarter the Marine Midland Trust company voted an extra payment of 15 cents in addition to the usual quarterly disbursement of 37½ cents.

Mead-Johnson company approved an additional payment of 25 cents, as well as its usual 75 cent common dividend, while F. & R. Lazarus company declared an extra of 5 cents and the regular 10 cent distribution.

Accumulations on preferred stock of the Johns-Manville corporation were cleared by action of directors in voting $1.75 a share, as well as a regular payment of the same amount. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $2.50 a share on its preferred.

Following declaration of an extra by William Filene Sons Monday, a unit of Federated Department stores, the parent concern yesterday approved an extra of 10 cents a common share.

The only adverse action reported was that of the New England Power association, which reduced its annual basis from $2 to $1 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on common.

GERMAN MARKS DROP ON RUMOR OF DEVALUATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 5.—Rumors that the German government may devalue its monetary unit caused a severe decline in the German mark in the foreign exchange market today. The mark, which has been weak for several days, dropped more than 1¼ cents to 37.60 cents.

The dollar lost a little ground against the British pound sterling and the French franc and most of the other gold bloc currencies. The pound advanced ⅜ of a cent to $5.04 and the franc gained half a point to 6.59½ cents. Based on the closing franc rate, the premium on the dollar declined to 0.58 of a cent, compared with 0.66 of a cent yesterday. This removed the further possibility of renewed gold exports from France to the United States. Dutch guilders, Italian lira and the Canadian dollar also were firmer against the dollar, while the Swiss franc was weak.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed imports of $3,133,700 from India and England. There were no exports and no change in the gold stocks held under earmark for foreign account. Bar gold advanced 10 pence in the London market to 138 shillings [$34.77] a fine ounce at which price approximately $3,839,327 was purchased.

HINTS C. & E. I. IS NOT WANTED BY N.Y. CENTRAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 5.—The recommendation of examiners for the RFC that the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway be consolidated with the New York Central was greeted as news today by F. E. Williamson, president of the trunk line. Should the recommendation be carried out it would impair the $8,217,520 investment made by the Chesapeake & Ohio railway through a subsidiary in the control of the C. & E. I.

"Interesting if true," was Mr. Williamson's comment on the latest development in the eastern consolidation situation. Asked if he thought it would be profitable to the New York Central if true, he replied: "We have all the line we want."

Mix Up Prices of Gasoline in Chicago Area

Gasoline prices in the Chicago district continued on the merry-go-round yesterday when a number of the major companies announced that they are reducing prices 1 cent a gallon, effective this morning, to meet the competition of independent concerns.

The Independent Brands Petroleum association last Friday announced an increase of 2 to 2½ cents a gallon for Monday. Two of the major companies, Shell Petroleum and Pure Oil, immediately announced they would follow suit, and on Monday the Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced increases of 1½ to 2½ cents a gallon. Then on Monday night, in a ballot taken by telephone, members of the Independent association voted to reduce prices at their stations 1 cent below the prices of the major companies, effective yesterday morning.

Standard Oil Cuts Price.

"Standard Oil Company [Indiana] today announced that effective Wednesday, June 6, 1934, it would reduce its service station price on Standard Red Crown gasoline and Stanolind gasoline 1 cent per gallon to meet prices of numerous competitors, which were restored to normal on Monday but reduced again Tuesday."

J. G. Sinclair, in charge of the Chicago office of the Shell Petroleum corporation, stated that his company would follow the lead of Standard of Indiana by cutting the price on all its grades of gasoline 1 cent a gallon, but later his office announced that this order had been rescinded and yesterday's prices will be in effect today at Shell stations.

Two Others Make Cuts.

At the offices of the Continental Oil company and the Pure Oil company it was stated that the lead of Standard of Indiana would be followed with respect to price reductions. Officials of the Sinclair Refining company refused to state what their company proposed to do.

As a result of the somewhat tangled price situation Chicago motorists today will pay 17.3 cents and 15.8 cents a gallon for gasoline for the middle and third grades respectively at the service stations of some of the major companies. At the service stations of other major companies the prices will be 18.3 cents and 16.8 cents a gallon for the second and third grades respectively. The prices of ethyl gasoline will remain the same.

At the stations of members of the independent group prices will be 17.3 cents a gallon for their top grade and 15.8 cents a gallon for the second grade product.

Explain Independent Cut.

In explaining the reason for the sudden changes in the price structure of the Independent Brands Petroleum association, which has some 34 company members, embracing 320 stations, L. M. Foster, president, said:

"The majority of our members feels that, since we handle products which are not advertised, we should be given the right to sell our product for a cent a gallon less than the prices asked for the branded wares."

Foster indicated that there were some differences of opinion among the membership with respect to prices, some holding that it would be better to approximate the rates charged by the major companies. He said he expected that some solution would be worked out which would end the differences now existing with the major companies.

Eastern Steel Plant, Closed Since Early 1932, Reopens

Coatesville, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—The 112 inch plate mill at the Lukens Steel company, closed since the spring of 1932, began operations today to fill a rush of orders. Officials said approximately 130 additional men will be employed. Three other plate mills and ten open hearth furnaces are in operation at the same plant.

TREASURY OFFERING IS OVERSUBSCRIBED; BOOKS ARE CLOSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—The treasury closed its books today on cash subscriptions to the joint offering of $300,000,000 of 3 per cent bonds and $500,000,000 of 2⅛ per cent notes, which was announced Monday morning.

Subscriptions shown by postal cancelation to have been placed in the mails up to midnight tonight will be accepted. It was stated both issues had been substantially oversubscribed despite the low interest rates. Announcement of cash subscriptions and the basis of allotment is expected Friday.

The treasury had agreed to accept in exchange for the new 3 per cent bonds but not for the notes $175,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness maturing June 15, and $345,000,000 of treasury notes maturing Aug. 1, and the books on these exchanges will remain open through Friday to give holders ample opportunity to take advantage of the offer.

An offering of bonds at 3 per cent in September, 1931, was marketed only after the books had been kept open for several days. These were of unusually long maturity, falling due in 24 years and callable in 20 years. The new offering matures in 14 years and is callable in 12 years.

SALARY OF BUDD, C., B. & Q. HEAD, $66,666 YEARLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, received an annual salary at the end of 1933 of $66,666 of which $10,000 is supplied by the Colorado & Southern, a subsidiary, it was revealed today in the company's report to the Interstate Commerce commission.

Ernest Flynn and Horace Holcomb, vice presidents, received $21,500 as well as pay from the C. & S. Six of the 16 officials who get more than $10,000 yearly are lawyers. Their salaries are:

Bruce Scott, vice president and general counsel, $25,500; Edward M. Shelton, assistant general counsel, $15,375; James C. James, general solicitor, $15,800; Joseph Connell, general attorney, $13,250; Thomas J. Lawless, general attorney, $10,700, and Walter McFarland, general attorney, $11,125. W. F. Thiehoff, general manager and head of railroad management labor committee, was drawing $15,800 at the end of 1933; James H. Adeloyy, western general manager, was receiving $13,250.

L. R. Powell Jr. and Henry W. Anderson, receivers for the Seaboard Air Line, were respectively drawing $30,000 and $24,000 annually, at the close of the year, it was reported.

WORK 4 MONTHS ON RAYON DATA; "CAN'T FIND IT"

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Rufus W. Scott, an official of the Tubize Chatillon company, testified today that although one of the urgent needs of the rayon industry in 1931 was information on production, and accountants spent four months gathering it, he did not know what became of the data.

Scott, chairman of the executive committee of his company, appeared before Trial Examiner John W. Addison, of the federal trade commission, who is investigating an alleged monopolistic agreement between ten rayon firms, the government charging conspiracy to fix prices in 1931.

STOCKS PUT ON ANOTHER SPURT; VOLUME SWELLS

Traders Cheered by Much Good News.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 5.—Various items in the news grab bag enabled the stock trading fraternity to say it with smiles again today. An unusual quota of bullish dividend declarations by important corporations, a fresh rally on the grain market, a report that President Roosevelt may reduce the value of the dollar still further and the growing probability of an early adjournment of congress were some of the more prominent causes of the street's cheerfulness.

The market adhered to the "buying" side all day and emerged with an impressive list of 1 and 2 point gains to add to its bullish showing of yesterday. Moreover, trading was at the fastest clip in more than two weeks, volume mounting to around 741,000 shares, or more than double that of Monday. Brokers reported encouraging evidence of "public participation."

Mining Shares Lead Rise.

Silver, gold, and other mining shares were in the limelight, the renewed popularity of the white metal issues being credited to the virtual certainty that the Pittman silver bill will be passed by congress before adjournment, American Smelting, U. S. Smelting, and Cerro De Pasco, as usual, attracted the major share of the buying in the department.

In the industrial division, U. S. Steel rose to within a small fraction of 51 as compared with its 1934 low of 37⅜ recorded late last week. Bethlehem and other steel shares improved substantially on the example set by the leader. American Can rose more than 2⅜ points on good buying.

Reports of scattered rains over the drouth-smitten wheat belt were a source of strength to the farm implement and mail orders shares. J. I. Case and Sears-Roebuck rose about 2 points each, and Deere and Montgomery Ward about half as much.

Less Fears Over Drouth.

Some traders are reasoning themselves into the view, according to brokers, that the blow to farm purchasing power given by the drouth might fall less heavily on general business than had been supposed.

The railroad group also had a little extra help in the form of figures indicating a better seasonal carloadings report on the week. Delaware and Hudson bettered its standing by 3 points, Atchison moved a couple of notches higher and Lackawanna, Southern railway and others came in for patronage. Isolated strong spots included Spiegel-May-Stern, Du Pont, Westinghouse and Wilson & Co. preferred.

The motors improved with the rest of the list with General Motors and Chrysler, as usual, showing the way. Meat packing issues met with better demand and other food stocks moved up. Some of the oils performed more impressively than they have in some time.

The market gained most of its newly-won ground in a rally which got under way shortly before noon and lasted the better part of an hour. for a while during this spurt trading was at the rate of 1,000,000 shares a day. There was a spell of profit taking after this but during the last hour prices tilted upward anew and closing prices in the main were around the best of the day.

ILLINOIS' REVENUE LOWEST OF YEAR IN LAST MONTH

Springfield, Ill., June 5.—(AP)—Revenue received at the office of State Treasurer John C. Martin totaled $11,163,773 during May, he announced today. The monthly total was the smallest since the first of the year. Revenue for the first five months of 1934 totaled $78,568,447. The total for April was $18,626,690, which included $5,000,000 in revenue notes sold against the unemployment relief bond issue.

Treasury disbursements during May were $20,138,417, the report said, which reduced to $40,995,543 the amount of funds in the treasurer's cash account.

Sources of May revenue were: direct property tax, $1,176,128; inheritance tax, $329,900; sales tax, $2,987,075; beverage tax, $423,530; insurance, corporation and other taxes, $1,124,649; motor fuel tax, $1,888,303; motor vehicle tax, $1,207,848; interest collected on state funds, $40,058; miscellaneous fees, earnings, and refunds, $972,322; federal aid, $781,970, and trust funds $231,991.

Illinois Sells Notes at Low Interest Cost

The state of Illinois set a new record for low cost financing yesterday. The $5,000,000 of 5 per cent relief notes offered by the state were purchased by a syndicate of the five Chicago loop banks at a permium price of $5,102,500. The price paid for the notes, which mature in six months, represents a return of three-quarters of 1 per cent, a record low figure. The banks in the syndicate are the First National, Continental Illinois, Harris Trust and Savings, Northern Trust, and the City National.

The award of the issue was announced by State Treasurer John C. Martin. The general condition of the money market and the financial condition of the state were responsible for the low interest rate which the state is paying on the issue, the treasurer said. Another syndicate made up of Chicago security houses had made a lower bid on the issue amounting to $5,065,385.

Funds to Aid Unemployed.

Proceeds of the sale are to be used for unemployment relief purposes. The notes are backed by a $30,000,000 relief bond issue. The notes will be retired out of the proceeds of the bond issue, which must be ratified by a general referendum at election next November. Under the terms of yesterday's purchase if the bond issue fails of approval the notes will pay 5 per cent interest, because they then become long term paper.

The bond issue is to be retired by diversion of the gasoline tax from counties and municipalities. Sale of the notes brings the amount raised to $20,000,000, the state having previously sold $15,000,000 of revenue notes.

"Financial interests are beginning to realize and appreciate the firm and stable financial condition of Illinois, resulting from the economical and honest leadership of Gov. Horner and the other state officials," State Treasurer John C. Martin commented at Springfield.

Massachusetts Finances Cheaply.

Another low interest rate was set yesterday on a piece of public financing when Massachusetts sold $3,000,000 bonds at a coupon rate of 2 per cent. The high bid was made by a group headed by the Chase National bank, New York.

It was reported in banking quarters yesterday that the Edison Electric Illuminating company of Boston has about decided upon a public securities offering to meet its midyear maturities totaling $32,000,000. The company faces a maturity on July 16 of $25,000,000 of 5 per cent notes, sold two years ago, and $7,000,000 of bank loans also come due.

STANDARD, N. J., ON PROFIT BASIS FOR LAST YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 5.—W. S. Farish, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, told stockholders at their annual meeting in Newark today the company has been operating at a profit for about a year.

"Although the financial report for the last quarter has not been completed it is indicated that earnings averaged about $3,500,000 a month, which equaled the monthly average for the second half of 1933," said Mr. Farish. "The company operated at a loss during the first half of 1933. Profits for the full year totaled about $25,000,000, or approximately 97 cents a share on the common stock after allowing for preferred dividends.

Announcement was made that three European directors of the company had retired from the board. They are J. A. Mowinckel, H. G. Seidel, and Peter Hurll, who is also retiring from service with the company. The first two former members of the board are continuing in the company's service.

Brokers Think 25% Will Be Permitted.

Delays Signing Bill

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—The stock exchange control bill has been referred by President Roosevelt to the department of justice for study. Attorney General Cummings said tonight an early report on the measure would be made to the White House, probably tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 5.—Applied to current market conditions, the margin requirements of the new securities exchange act of 1934 are substantially lower in many cases than those of the stock exchange itself. The likelihood is that unless there is a marked rally in prices between now and Oct. 1, the effective date, most traders will take advantage of the clause permitting brokers to lend up to 100 per cent of the lowest price since July 1, 1933, provided the loan is not more than 75 per cent of the prevailing market price.

An analysis of the situation today revealed that if the act were to become effective immediately it would be possible to trade in most of the leading stocks on a margin of 25 per cent of the cash value of the securities bought. This is because prices as a whole are little above the average low since last July, which was established in October.

Margin Provisions Analyzed.

Although the bill provides that the lowest price for the last three years shall be used in computing these margins, it makes an exception for first two years of operations, establishing the date July 1, 1933, as the starting point. Prices established before that time are not recognized for the purposes of the bill.

THE TRIBUNE's average of fifty combined stocks reached a low since July 1, 1933, of 71.91 on Oct. 21, 1933. This compares with a price of 82.85 at the close tonight. On this basis, and taking the average as the price of a hypothetical security, the broker could lend the whole $71.91 a share on margin purchases, except that this would be more than 75 per cent of the current market price of the hypothetical stock. Therefore, he can lend $62.13, or 75 per cent of the current market price, making it necessary for the customer to put up $20.71, or 25 per cent.

Exchange Margins Higher.

Under stock exchange regulations for traders having a debit balance of $5,000 or less, indicating an account with a market value of $7,500, the broker is permitted to lend only 66 2-3 per cent, or $55.22, on the hypothetical stock. On accounts over $5,000, the stock exchange margin requirement permits a loan of slightly more than 75 per cent.

Whether or not the New York Stock exchange will make any changes in its rules to permit customers having debit balances under $5,000 to take full advantage of the new law has not been determined. In financial circles it is regarded as somewhat ironical that the exchange, which fought for liberal margins, should suddenly find that the law permits larger loans than its own rules permit. It is believed that the exchange will await the formal appointment of the new commission before taking any steps to readjust its by-laws to the new conditions.

EASTMAN FLAILS CUT IN HOURS TO AID EMPLOYMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 5.—Arbitrary restriction of working hours to give employment is no answer to the problem of increasing industrial activity, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, told members of the New York Bond club today.

"There is no sound reason," he asserted, "why more labor should be used in production than is necessary. Nor have we in this country ever come anywhere near to the production of the amount of wealth which it is well within the capacity of our people to consume or utilize. Shorter work days, except to supply needed opportunity for rest, leisure, and recreation, are merely a counsel of despair and a confession of inability to solve the problem as it should be solved."

Urges Definite Planning.

Eastman went on to say that the problem will never be solved by leavin each man to his own devices under old laissez faire principles, but calls for definite planning by the best thought.

Recommendations for control of all forms of transportation by the interstate commerce commission will be reinforced and renewed at the next session of congress, Mr. Eastman stated.

"To my way of thinking," he said. "It is folly to let these competitive forces run amuck, and it is up to the federal government to step in and exercise some centralized control over transportation in the interest, not of any particular groups, but of the entire body politic, including the man who pays the taxes."

He omitted discussion of the possibility of government ownership and operation of the railroads, because, he said, his previous "casual comments have been regarded by some as a subtle and very insidious form of propaganda."

Urges Careful Financing.

If the railroads are to continue in private ownership, he said, they must hold to unadulterated principles of financial conservatism.

"Our railroads no longer furnish attractive opportunities for higher finance and sudden fortunes," he said. "Returning prosperity and better earnings, coupled with a conservative financial policy for the future, may show the way out. A committee of the cabinet is looking into the entire situation.

"All that I can now say is that I wish there were somewhat less tendency to regard railroad sojourn in the hands of a court as a national disaster to be avoided at any cost. A trip to the hospital for internal repairs is often the route to sound health for the future. This may seem hard boiled doctrine to the security holders, but they cannot escape the close link between their own health and that of the company."

Sets Rules for Roads.

Mr. Eastman outlined conservative railroad financing in the following terms:

"Never incur debt unless absolutely necessary. Confine capitalization to common stock, so far as possible, and issue no more than need be of that. Endeavor to pay liberal dividends, but in normal times well below what the earnings will permit. Never declare stock dividends. Issue new stock at a premium, if possible. Establish sinking funds for indebtedness and seize every opportunity to pay off debt. If a long term indebtedness must be incurred, let it take the form of debentures, and mortgage neither fixed property nor equipment. Plow back surplus earnings into the property and provide amply for depreciation in one way or another."

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—Cotton goods were steadier with more inquiry reported today. Narrow sheetings were firmer following better sales in the heavier weights for bag purposes. Burlaps were weak with prices the lowest quoted for a long time. Rayon yarns were in moderate demand for June delivery. Silk goods were quiet in the unfinished cloth division. Finished cloths were in light demand. Wool dress goods and coatings for fall were more active.

BUTTER FUTURES ADVANCE IN BIG TRADE; EGGS VARY

Heavy buying carried butter futures up ⅝ to ¾c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Eggs were irregular, Octobers closing up ⅛c and June ¼c lower.

November butter closed at the day's top despite active hedging and realizing which developed on the upturn. Receipts were light and the four markets reported an inward movement less than half the year ago total, increasing the shortage 596,000 pounds.

Egg news was mixed and the market held quiet, showing slightly better strength near the close.

Sales: Butter, 114 cars; eggs, 22 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car; eggs, 1 car. Receipts: Butter, 15,611 tubs; eggs, 29,850 cases. Prices:

FOREIGN.

10 govt issues	111.50	111.86	114.04	93.56

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 5.—Strength in all classes of domestic issues, including United States government securities, and weakness in foreign issues characterized the trading in bonds on the New York Stock exchange today. There was a substantial improvement in volume, transfers totaling $10,803,000, par value, against $8,552,000 yesterday.

United States treasury securities generally displayed a better tone. The new 3 per cent 12-14 year bonds were traded on a "when issued" basis on the "over the counter" market at a gain of half a point. The listed treasury 3s, at the same time, declined 4-32 of a point to adjust themselves to the price of the new issue. Home Owners Loan 3s, which are virtually a government obligation, also reduced their price 4-32 and the home 4s were off 7-32.

Railroad Issues Strong.

Railroads led the upward trend in the domestic corporation group. There were gains in issues of all the leaders, including Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Great Northern, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Western Maryland, Alleghany corporation, Chesapeake corporation, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Western Pacific, Erie, and Chicago and Alton.

Other gains were made in American and Foreign Power 5s, International Telephone 5s, International Hydro-Electric convertible 6s and Warner Brothers Pictures convertible 6s, American Rolling Mills 5s, North American Edison 5½s, Columbia Gas 5s, and National Dairy 5¼s.

The weakness in foreign government issues centered principally on those of the large countries which are indicating their intention to drop war debt payments entirely, although contrary to this trend, United Kingdom issues were firm. German government issues were notably weak, while French republic and Italian bonds also lost ground. South American issues were steady.

NEW ISSUES.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. are offering three issues of municipal bonds, $302,000 Putnam county, New York, 3½ per cent highway improvement bonds due June 1, 1936-1964, inclusive; $100,000 city of Sharon, Pa., school district 4 per cent bonds due July 1, 1936-1940, and $70,000 city of Waltham, Mass., 3¼ per cent water loan bonds due April 1, 1935-1949, inclusive.

Gulf States Utilities.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me your opinion of Gulf States Utilities 5½ per cent preferred?—B. H. J.

Answer: This company is part of the Engineers Public Service system. The bulk of revenues comes from sale of electricity to 137 communities with a population of 235,000 in Texas and Louisiana. A large portion of the demand comes from oil refining and other industrial plants, pipe line and irrigation pumping. Earnings tend to vary with conditions in the oil industry. Some of the communities are also supplied with water and ice.

Gross has shown a steady, gradual decline since 1930. Reduction in operating and maintenance expenses in 1933 enabled net income to resist the downward trend in that year.

Net income in the tweleve months to March 31, 1934, equaled $7.74 per preferred share, against $7.95 per preferred share in the preceding twelve months. Per share earnings of the preferred in 1933 were $8.35 against $7.62 in 1932; $12.91 in 1931, and $16.63 in 1930.

The March 31, 1934 balance sheet disclosed a fairly strong current position. There are no near term bond maturities.

Narrow margin of dividend coverage and the downward trend of earnings make the preferred appear medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Firestone Cotton Mills.

Investors' Guide: Will you please advise me of the status of Firestone Cotton Mills first 5s, due 1948? Do you consider these a safe investment for a widow of limited means?—Mrs. E. S. W.

Answer: These bonds are the obligation of Firestone Tire and Rubber company, one of the major tire producers. Earnings have held up comparatively well in comparison to other companies in the same industry, although operations have reflected general conditions. Dollar sales in the year ended Oct. 31, 1933, were down 11 per cent from the preceding year and about 34 per cent under 1931 sales. Net income in the 1933 year was $2,397,000 against $5,151,000 in the preceding year and $6,023,000 in the 1931 year.

Boosts in excise taxes and the processing tax cost the company about $4,000,000 last year.

Current position on Oct. 31, 1933, was strong. Cash alone was more than twice total current liabilities.

Three boosts in tire prices in the last year may have a beneficial effect on sales and earnings for the current year. Moderate capitalization, substantial inventories, good record of earnings and strong trade position entitle the bonds to a reasonably sound rating.

APPROVE LOANS TO 192 CLOSED MIDWEST BANKS

Chicago Board Sanctions Total of $18,061,756.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A summary of the work of the Chicago district committee of the deposit liquidation board, set up last fall as a part of President Roosevelt's program for liquidating closed banks, discloses that the committee approved loans to 192 banks for a total of $18,061,756. The committee, which is headed by James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, dealt with banks in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Loans Exceed Estimates.

The committee started to function on Oct. 19, 1933. Early this year it was notified that it was to turn its work over to the regular organization of the Reconstruction Finance corporation on April 15 and by May 28 it had practically wound up its affairs. Prior to April 15 Mr. Leavell had estimated the committee would approve loans approximating $11,000,000. When the tabulations were completed this amount had been exceeded by $8,000,000.

Of the total approved by the committee, 164 applications for loans involving $13,528,710 were approved by Washington and $3,334,558 had been actually disbursed through the agency of the RFC to 44 banks in the five states as of May 28. All the loans approved by the Chicago committee had not been acted on at Washington on May 28.

The Chicago committee received a total of 201 applications involving $24,010,151. It rejected 9 applications for a total of $1,322,000 and scaled down the amounts requested in a number of others.

In Illinois 90 applications for a total of $11,621,000 were received; 82 applications for a total of $7,679,500 approved; 67 applications for a total of $5,826,250 approved by Washington and disbursements totaling $1,816,927 made to 20 banks.

The committee denied requests for loans totaling $1,228,000 to 8 Illinois banks and one for $94,000 to a Wisconsin bank. A large proportion of the loans were made to Illinois banks, which is accounted for by the fact that Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, immediately put a large staff to work helping receivers determine the amounts which they could ask.

COAL INDUSTRY TO FIGHT WABASH POWER PROJECT

Pressing an intensive campaign against federal development of hydroelectric projects, George L. Leahy, chairman of the national job saving and investment protection bureau for the coal industry, announced yesterday that the latest oppostion will center around the creation of a Wabash valley authority.

Vigorous protests against the plan, he said, have been sent to Gov. McNutt or Indiana, members of the United States house flood control committee and Senators Robinson and Van Nuys of Indiana. The committee has been asked to grain a hearing to the coal industry on the subject.

"The Wabash valley authority act, a $20,000,000 project introduced in the house by Rep. Greenwood of Indiana," Mr. Leahy said, "would, through its electric power development provision, destroy the market for many thousands of tons of coal, cause permanent unemployment and hardship for thousands of coal miners, railroad men and their dependents and render useless an enormous total of taxable property."

2 CLOSED BANKS TO PAY $1,144,000 IN DIVIDENDS

Peoples Natl. Orders 30 Per Cent.

Payments to depositors of two closed national banks in Chicago were made available yesterday. W. W. Pearson, receiver for the Peoples National Bank and Trust company, 47th street and Ashland avenue, announced that he will begin the distribution of a 30 per cent payment today. The total to be paid out is approximately $1,000,000.

J. L. Mitchell, receiver for the West Side Atlas National bank, 1601 West Roosevelt road, said a payment of 20 per cent aggregating $144,000, will be made to depositors beginning tomorrow. Previously 16 2-3 per cent had been paid to depositors of the institution which suspended operations in October, 1931.

Retire 2 Million Loan.

The Peoples National receiver said that prospects for further distributions to depositors hinges on the future of the real estate market. He pointed that the bank owed $2,000,000 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and others when it closed in June, 1932. This has all been retired, he said.

Depositors will receive notice by mail when to call for their funds, Mr. Pearson said. He pointed out that there are more than 20,000 depositors and it will not be possible to handle them all the same day.

Press Suit for Funds.

Receiver Pearson also announced that he is pressing suit in federal court against 6 indemnity companies for $185,000 which was alleged to have been misappropriated by Clarence R. Webster, former vice president of the bank. Webster was convicted and sentenced to prison a few days ago on the charge.

The companies named in the receiver's action are the Globe Indemnity company, Columbia Casualty company of New York, Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland, American Surety company of New York, U. S. Fidelity and Guarantee company of Baltimore and the Maryland Casualty company.

NAMES CHIEFS OF BROTHERHOOD IN REMOVAL SUIT

Cleveland, O., June 5.—[Special.]—Appointment of a receiver to manage the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood's Pension association was sought today in a suit filed in federal court.

The suit, brought by George Berry of Chicago, also asks the removal of three major brotherhood officers and an accounting of their financial operations in connection with the association. Berry is a member of the pension association.

Mr. Berry charged:

That the association was flourishing up to June 30, 1931, when it had liquid assets totaling $3,500,000.

That subsequently it lent more than $3,000,000 to the brotherhood and various subsidiaries.

That all loans were made either with no security or wholly inadequate security.

That the three major officers, including Alvanley Johnston, grand chief, were "wantonly and carelessly" negligent in their duties.

The three whose ouster Berry seeks are Thomas Bissette, assistant grand chief of the brotherhood; James H. Cassell, secretary and treasurer, and Johnston.

OIL CONTRACTS BASED ON FUTURE MONEY VALUES

An innovation in consumer purchase contracts is the flexible price clause which protects the seller against possible price advances resulting from currency inflation, increased costs from operation under NRA codes, or from increased government taxes.

A typical contract which a fuel oil distributing company asks its customers to sign contains the following clause: "If at any time during the term hereof the prices named herein shall be varied by reason of any tax by government authority or change in price by virtue of any code of fair competition or any agreement promulgated under the National Recovery Act or by reason of any variance caused through any license, order, rule, or regulation prescribed or issued pursuant to the terms of the National Recovery Act of any any other federal or state law, or attributable to any depreciation of United States currency or any increased taxes, the purchase price designed herein shall vary accordingly, including the maximum prices named herein and the prices so fixed by reason of such action or matters occurring shall supercede the prices named, provided the buyer shall receive 30 days' notice of such change."

START VEHICLE REGISTRATIONS FOR STATE CODE

Registration of the 70,000 vehicles in Illinois which fit in the "for hire" classification will be started tomorrow in Chicago and 40 downstate cities under the state code authority, according to Chester G. Moore of Chicago, chairman.

Offices have been set up and registrars have been selected, Moore said. Only truck owners who have signed by June 13 will be eligible to vote in the forthcoming permanent code authority elections.

Every owner of one or more "for hire" vehicles, including horse drawn wagons, is required to register and schedule the number of his employés and his pay roll. A registration fee of $3 per truck is charged. It is estimated that 500,000 trucks will be registered under code throughout the nation.

LANDIS LAUDS STOCK BILL AS HAVEN OF HOPE

Business Leaders Jam Economic Meeting.

"The objectives of government and industry so far as security legislation is concerned are identical—honest markets and full and continued disclosure of the character of offerings made. The burdens that government asks industry to assume are fair. Regulation with such objectives is neither regimentation nor enforced control."

The note of caution and moderation sensed by the audience in the speaker's remarks brought a hearty round of applause when he had concluded. Sargent, as chairman, then invited questions from the floor [provided they were written and signed by the questioners].

Bombarded with Questions.

Brokers and investment bankers, eager to learn more about what is in store for them, sent in a stack of questions. As the chairman read them, sometimes half apologetically, Dr. Landis answered the questions rapidly.

Question: Can the commission be expected to continue present listings status quo until July 1, 1935, without the necessity for relisting stocks already listed on an exchange?

Answer: I wish I knew the stock exchange act as I do the securities act. Most likely the commission will not require relisting of securities already listed on the exchanges.

Question: Do you think there can be any business prosperity unless the stock market improves?

Answer: There's a provision in the bill which makes it a criminal offense to sell stocks on rumors of market activity in the stock. Therefore, in order to protect myself, I might well be indulged in not answering that question. [Laughter.]

Sees No Flight of Speculation.

Question: Will the act drive speculators' money to other countries?

Answer: There is a provision in the law aimed to prevent that. I think it unnecessary. I know there will be attempts to get a few large speculators to do their business abroad. When I consider that list of big speculators I'm not sure we want them. . . . I noted the other day that Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, said that, on the whole, the act was all right. Praise from Sir Richard at such a time is praise indeed!

Question: Is the securities act expected to benefit New York at the expense of the interior exchanges or is it expected to decentralize the securities business?

Answer: I'm glad that question was asked because I don't think the act is devised to act one way or the other. The by-products of the act, however, will be interesting. On certain smaller exchanges the listing requirements now are not worth two cents. I think they will be benefited by the new listing requirements.

No Fraud Guarantee.

Answer: Of course not. Neither does the securities act of 1933. It's a crime for any salesman to make such a representation. If you've got any such I'd be glad to know about them.

Question: Is it possible to sell securities except through stock brokers and their methods, including customers' men?

Answer: I'm not sure that I know.

Answer: I can't answer this.

Question: [Here the chairman hesitated, saying that he was relaying this question only because of the "distinguised" name appended to it, and he knew it wasn't asked merely to embarass the speaker.] Do you believe that the passing of these two pieces of legislation, the securities act of 1933 and the new stock exchange regulatory bill, is part of a program to socialize America?

Answer: My answer to that is a clear "No."

Lists Three Objectives.

The stock exchange bill, according to Dr. Landis, has three cardinal objectives. These, he said, are:

"1. To assure cleanliness and honesty in the practices governing transactions on our national security markets, banning wash sales, matched orders, jiggles and pools whose only purpose is to elevate or depress prices for the benefit of certain insiders.

"3. To create adequate mechanism for the control of credit for speculative purposes.

"Of course this bill neglects a multitude of detail," he continued, "especially of administrative remedies. One feature of the bill is the control given the commission over the over-the-counter trafic in securities. Here, indeed, is broad and undefined power. Trading in unlisted securities is one aspect about which little is known. Because of this, any administrative authority will have to act cautiously and slowly in the beginning until it feels certain of its ground and objectives."

GUARANTY TRUST, BROWN BROS. TO DIVORCE UNITS

Firms Will Continue as Private Banks.

Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., one of the country's leading international banking houses, will continue to operate in the general banking field and will transfer its investment business to a new company to be known as Brown, Harriman & Co. Announcement of the change, necessitated by the banking act of 1933, was made last night by officials of the firm.

At the same time it was announced business of the Guaranty company, investment affiliate of the Guaranty Trust company, will be taken over by Edward B. Smith & Co., investment bankers and members of the New York Stock exchange, it was learned today.

Smith Firm to Keep Name.

The firm name of Edward B. Smith & Co. will be unchanged by the merger but several officers of the Guaranty company will become partners of the enlarged organization.

Unusual interest was shown in the announcement. It again showed the disinclination of the big international private bankers to withdraw from the commercial banking field. Plans of J. P. Morgan & Co., largest private banking house in the country, are awaited with interest in financial quarters. The provision of the banking act requiring the segregation of investment commercial banking activities goes into effect June 16.

It is generally expected that the Morgan investment activities will be transferred to its Philadelphia affiliate, Drexel & Co., allowing the general banking business to continue under the present name.

Transfer Affiliations.

Several of the present partners of Brown Brothers Harriman will withdraw to enter the new company, which will engage in underwriting, trading, and distribution of securities. They will be joined by some of the executive officers of the City Company of New York, formerly the National City company, and affiliate of the National City bank.

The banking house will retain its stock exchange memberships, brokerage business, and investment advisory business. It will maintain offices in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston and will have a representative in Chicago.

The new firm of Brown Harriman & Co. will have headquarters in New York and its principal branches in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, and San Francisco. Joseph P. Ripley, executive vice president of the City Company of New York, will become president.

COTTON RISES $1.50 A BALE AND CLOSES AROUND TOP

Cotton prices moved up $1.50 a bale and closed around the best of the day yesterday. There was no pressure of sellers and the market had a better undertone, due to a better demand for goods from abroad. Weevils in Mississippi were reported as being the worst in 20 years. Sentiment became more bullish toward the last.

There were net gains on futures in Chicago of 30 to 34 points and in other markets futures advanced 27 to 30 points. Spots in New York advanced 25 points to 12.10 cents. Other markets advanced 30 points, Houston and Galveston reaching 12.10 cents and New Orleans 12 cents. Liverpool closed unchanged. Prices:

SALESMEN

Does the word insurance-selling frighten you? This company has a new plan of small cost and no sales resistance which appeals to any man or woman.
We conduct no training schools, because if you have ever sold anything you can sell this. If it can be truthfully said of anything that it sells itself, we believe this is it.
To those who qualify, and the qualifications are not onerous, a drawing account.
Rm. 1020, 33 N. La Salle.

OUR BEST SEASON.
A genuine opportunity for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishings House in the middle west. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives advanced commission in full on a basis of average sales expectancy. Also allowing a daily drawing account privilege if necessary while getting started. An intensely interesting and dignified program for those capable of conducting enthusiastic conversation. Can earn between $40 and $50 per week consistently. No night calls. Apply from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. only.
STRAUS & SCHRAM.
Mr. Jacobs, 834 W. 63d-st. Mr. Zuber, 3320 Lincoln-av.

LUCRATIVE POSITION.
Position offering permanency, good pay and assurance of rapid advancement is open to 3 men to learn our business [negotiable paper—not stocks or bonds]. ...."Send us a DeLee Graduate"

Each day high class beauty shops are telephoning, offering good paying positions to DeLEE graduates. We have almost TWICE as many calls for operators as we have graduates to fill the positions. That means that quality shops KNOW that DeLEE operators, trained by Madame Louise are genuine BEAUTY EXPERTS, capable of pleasing even the most fastidious clientele.

Want a Position?
Why worry about finding work? Why struggle along with low pay? Learn beauty culture the easy, quick DeLEE way, and assure yourself a good paying, permanent position. At DeLEE you are not herded into a classroom with a hundred other girls. You receive INDIVIDUAL, PERSONAL instruction, in beautiful, cool, clean, airy classrooms.

Summer tuition fees are exceptionally low. Visit DeLEE today, and learn more about this marvelous school.

BURNHAM
School of Beauty Culture
OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES FOUND ONLY AT BURNHAM'S

When you visit Burnham's you'll understand why more girls enroll in this school than in any other, and you'll be amazed at the unexpected and exclusive advantages which our 63 year record of turning out the best operators enables us to pass on to you—such as positions on ocean liners, positions with the best shops which DEMAND Burnham graduates; the opportunity of earning while learning, free tools, unlimited practice on living models, easy terms, and many other advantages.

Once explained you'll see how Burnham teaching methods will enable you to master Beauty Culture quicker, easier, and better—why these methods develop the type of operator shop owners want.

Tuition increases this month. If you ACT NOW you can arrange to pay for most of your tuition after you graduate. Call, phone, or write for FREE BEAUTY BOOK.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

NO QUESTION ABOUT IT!

STUDEBAKER—DICTATOR 8 SEDAN, '31, with free wheeling and lots of extras. This wonderful sedan saw so little service that we defy any one to tell it from a brand new car. It's a real winner at only $295.

FORD—TUDOR, 1931. YOU'LL HAVE TO look far and wide to find a car anywhere in town to equal this one. It's the last word for smart appearance and sparkling performance. Today just reduced to $225

GRAHAM — 8 SEDAN, 1931 DE LUXE model with side mounts and every conceivable extra. Examine this Graham from bumper to bumper and you'll agree that it will possess all the original newness. Driven only slightly more than 2 yrs. $325.

HUDSON—8 SPORT COUPE, 1930 RUMBLE seat and many extras. The finish, tires, motors, and upholstery are A-1. Only $245.

BUICK—ROADSTER. A 1931 WITH ROOMY rumble seat. This is a low slung car with a world of power and pep. It looks and runs as though never driven a mile. $345.

FRANKLIN—CONV. COUPE. '29. IT'S UNquestionably the most attractive open car you've ever seen. Has side mounts, etc. The finish is bright and shiny. The upholstery is luxurious. Motor is 100%. Rumble st. $275.

ROCKNE—SEDAN, 1932. YOU CAN'T BEAT this bargain. Free wheeling. Cushioned power, safety glass, etc. If it's a sporty car you like with magnificent performance—you'll go for this Rockne. Bargain at $345.

PONTIAC—6 SPORT COUPE, 1931. YOU'LL find this car a very economical purchase. In the first place—it's in new car condition today. Secondly—it gives a lot of miles per gallon of gas. And thirdly—priced only $295.

STUDEBAKER—8 ST. REGIS BROUGHAM. 1932. Has every modern improvement. Trunk, free wheeling, safety glass, etc. Finish has not a mar on it. Expensive upholstery. Tires appear unused. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. Has full Studebaker guarantee. Only $545.
